Army Trouble Brewing

More Divisions Become Issue In Budget Plan

Washington (UPI) — Controversy is brewing in the Defense Department over whether the Army needs two more combat divisions for its role under President Kennedy's conventional warfare plans, it was disclosed Saturday

The department already is at work on Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's fiscal 1965 military budget which goes to Congress next January. Expansion of the Army is an emerging big issue.

Authorities said that adding two more combat divisions to the present 16 would require expanding Army manpower by 75,000 to a total of 1,050,000. That would be the highest level since 1955 except for the 1961-62 Berlin crisis period when reservists were called up.

Such an expansion could add about $800 million to the Army's budget in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1964, a year when McNamara will be under pressure to trim rather than expand spending.

So far there is no suggestion that McNamara and his budget expert, Assistant Defense Secretary Charles J. Hitch, are persuaded that an 18 division Army is needed.

But in certain influential military quarters that is regarded as a necessary force for the President's non-nuclear warfare plans. The issue is certain to be joined in coming months as the budget squeeze tightens, authorities said.

The Army now has 5 divisions in Europe, 3 in the Far East, and 8 in the United States. Strategists believe there should be at least one more in the Far East, close to potential disturbances.

York 'Very Sick Man'

Nashville, Tenn. (UPI) — Sgt. Alvin C. York, the World War I hero who singlehandedly defeated a German machinegun battalion, was brought to St Thomas Hospital here Saturday in critical condition.

Doctors described the 75-year-old medal of honor winner as a "very sick man" and said he was suffering from possible pneumonia or a heart condition.

The diagnosis was not completed, but officials summoned family of the red-haired sharpshooter to his bedside.

York has been bedridden since he suffered a stroke 8 years ago.

He was brought here from his Pall Mall, Tenn, home where doctors said he failed to respond to treatment for severe shoulder, chest and back pains.

Thresher Proud Lead Ship of New Sub Class

Disaster on Final Day of Diving Tests

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

Washington (AP)—After 9 months in a shipyard, atomic submarine SSN593 was almost ready to slip her leash and return to sea duty.

Ahead lay a final day of deep diving for this deepest diving of the Navy's nuclear-powered subs, the Thresher.

It was the morning of Apr. 10.

Gray Sky

The sky over the Atlantic was gray A brisk breeze was blowing and the submarine rescue ship Skylark bobbed in the choppy waves that stretched toward an empty horizon.

Below the Thresher glided through the undersea blackness, her long shape a little like that of the shark for which she was named.

Normally the 4,300-ton submarine carried 83 officers and men. But today there were 129 aboard, 17 of them civilian technicians from the Portsmouth naval shipyard on the New Hampshire coast more than 200 miles away.

The 287-foot Thresher, proud lead ship of a new sub class, had sailed to Portsmouth last July 16. Although in commission less than a year at that time, she was due for some post-shakedown work.

This involved overhaul and installation of some new electronics and sonar gear. To do this holes were cut in the hull—some a yard wide. The hull was subjected to metallurgical tests designated to locate any weaknesses. Navy officials said none was revealed.

Ready for Tests

Now the overhaul was finished and Apr. 9 the Thresher, escorted by Skylark, had moved out from Portsmouth for test dives.

The first day out she was put through gentle paces, a series of shallow dives.

Now her skipper, youthful-looking Lt. Cmdr. John W. Harvey, was ready to send her into the crucial deep dives.

Only 35, the Philadelphia-born Harvey already was a veteran in the nuclear navy and had served on such epic voyages as the first trip of the submarine Nautilus under the North Polar ice cap.

Harvey, father of two sons, took command of the Thresher only last Jan. 18. His being given command of the $45 million craft was a measure of the Navy's regard for a "comer" in the Navy.

On this day, Apr. 10, the Thresher was scheduled to go down to what the Navy called her test depth It was more than 400 feet, but how much more is a naval secret.

Beneath her was 8,400 feet of ocean—about a mile and a half—to a mud, clay and sand bottom.

Standing operating procedure called for her to maintain contact with the Skylark during her tests. These were due to last 6 hours.

Last Word at 9:17

At 9:17 a.m. Skylark heard from the Thresher. It came over the underwater telephone that normally has a tiny tone.

Communications conditions were poor and the message came through garbled. But the Skylark was able to make out that the Thresher was approaching her intended depth.

That was the last the Skylark—and the word—ever heard from the Thresher.

Every minute from then on, the men on the 200-foot Skylark sent out messages, trying to re-establish contact with the sub somewhere in the green depths.

Every 10 minutes the Skylark dropped light explosive bombs. This was to signal the Thresher that, if she was calling, she wasn't getting through

Still no response

For nearly two hours—until 11:04 a.m.—Skylark kept this up. Then she reported to the sub base at New London, Conn., that she was unable to communicate with the Thresher

Little Concern

Skylark's message did not cause a great deal of concern, the Navy said, "because submarines many times before have failed to communicate promptly . . . but still have returned safely from operations"

Furthermore, Thresher was not due to complete her tests until 3 p.m and might surface at that time.

But the Navy wasn't taking any chances.

About 1 p.m. Skylark's report was relayed to Atlantic Fleet headquarters at Norfolk, Va. Adm. Robert L. Dennison, commander in chief of the fleet, was told "there was a possibility Thresher might be in difficulty."

Last Sound From Submarine 'Was One of Ship Breaking Up'

Portsmouth, N.H. (UPI) — A veteran naval officer said Saturday the crew of the submarine Thresher desperately tried to surface the vessel before it apparently broke up near the floor of the Atlantic.

Lt (Jg) James D. Watson, 43, of Aurora, Ill, told how he and the skipper of the submarine rescue ship Skylark listened over a telephone to the final moments of the Thresher and its 129-man crew.

Watson, a 23-year veteran of the Navy, read and explained for a Naval Court of Inquiry log book notations he made seconds before the Thresher plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic last Wednesday.

He told the grim-faced Navy brass sitting on the inquiry board that the sounds which came over his telephone link with the Thresher as it practiced deep dives below were all too familiar to him. The Skylark's skipper, Lt. Cmdr S. Hecker was also there.

"We both heard a sound familiar to me from World War II—the sound of a torpedo ship breaking up underwater," Watson said "It sounded as though a compartment was collapsing or something of that nature It was a muted dull thud"

For a time, newsmen had to leave the inquiry room apparently when the log indicated how deep the Thresher was diving. This is classified information.

According to the log, Thresher messaged at 0913, "We have position up angle. Attempt to blow-up." This was 13 minutes after Thresher had dived to test depth.

The word "blow-up" meant that the crew was attempting to force air into the ballast tanks to surface the craft. The sub apparently was in trouble at this point and its only hope was in surfacing quickly According to another witness the sub had reported "experiencing minor difficulties" shortly before the 0913 message.

Two minutes later, at 0915, Hecker grabbed the telephone and shouted 4 times to Thresher

"Are you in control?"

"There were blowing sounds on the intercom, but nothing else," Watson said.

Then at 0917, the Thresher sent its last message It was garbled, Watson said, and he picked up just two words: ". . . test depth . . ." He said both he and his skipper believed several words preceded this.

It was then he testified that he heard what he believed to be the sounds that signalled the death of the nuclear sub.

Watson was asked by the board if he had any ideas about what the garbled words might have been

"I believe I heard the word 'exceeding' before 'test depth' but I'm not certain," he told the court.

He was asked who was doing the talking aboard the Thresher.

"I can only assume it was the commanding officer (Lt. Cmdr. John W. Harvey)," Watson replied. "He was unhurried. There was no note of hysteria. He would be the man most likely to carry on in a situation such as this," the witness said.

At 0931, Skylark began calling the Thresher at spaced intervals. At 1006 the message was: "Quebec, Quebec, indicate position by any means possible." This, which included the code name Quebec, was repeated at one minute intervals.

At 1056, 3 grenade signals were dropped But the Thresher never answered.

People Around World Celebrating Easter

By Associated Press

People of many nations celebrate today the joyous Easter drama of Christ's resurrection.

To some Eastern Christians, the story of the empty tomb was unfolded in old Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulcher Saturday in a rite called "The Miracle of the Holy Fire."

To Protestants and Western Roman Catholics, however, Holy Saturday was a day of prayerful vigil for the glory of the dawn.

Pope John XXIII followed up his historic encyclical pacem in terris (peace on earth) with an Easter declaration that progress could be made for peace by ending suspicion among nations and civil strife within them.

Fine spring weather was forecast for most of the United States. This suggested that New York's Fifth Avenue and other celebrated thoroughfares will be jammed with persons seeking to show off their new Easter garb.

Sunrise services were expected to draw thousands to points of worship ranging from Miami Stadium to Hollywood Bowl, from Arlington National Cemetery to 1,337-foot high Mt. Rubidoux near Riverside, Calif.

President Kennedy and his family are spending Easter in Palm Beach, Fla They are likely to attend Easter services at St Edward's Church in Palm Beach or, as they did last year, take part in private services at the home of the President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic military vicar of the U.S. armed forces, will conclude his Easter sermon at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York with a prayer for "the gallant men of the submarine Thresher and for their dear ones."

Abroad, thousands of West Germans streamed to Communist East Berlin for holiday reunions with relatives living behind the Iron Curtain. Many carried food, especially butter, eggs, coffee and fresh fruit, of which there is a severe shortage in East Germany.

U.S. Expects NATO Nuclear Force To Be Operational in Year

10 Nations Will Cooperate

Washington (UPI) — The United States expects a 10-nation NATO nuclear force to be operational under the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, U S Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, within a year, it was disclosed Saturday.

It will be known as the "Inter-Allied Nuclear Force" (IANF), U.S. sources said It will consist of British nuclear bombers, 3 U.S. Polaris missile submarines, and striking elements of 8 other NATO countries which have or are to receive American atomic weapons to arm then forces in event of war

The French contribution will be limited to two fighter-bomber squadrons based in Germany. President Charles de Gaulle refuses to permit any U.S. nuclear weapons on French soil.

Composition of the IANF was among the subjects discussed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Allied representatives in Paris earlier this week. Gen. Lemnitzer's staff has been given the job of working out coordination and targeting arrangements. The NATO council meeting in Ottawa, Canada, in late May is expected to ratify the arrangements

Public Confusion

U.S. sources, attempting to clear up public confusion over NATO nuclear planning, said the IANF was entirely separate from the "multilateral NATO nuclear force" now under discussion. If this latter force ever comes into being, it will be a sort of NATO Navy paid for and manned by personnel from as many countries as wish to contribute men and money. It, too, would be under the Supreme Allied Commander

Russia has protested all NATO nuclear force planning as likely to increase the peril of nuclear war. The United States, after discussing the Soviet protest with other Allies, is expected within the next week to reject the complaint.

US officials view creation of the IANF as being principally a military rather than political affair, since it is being put together under existing treaty arrangements

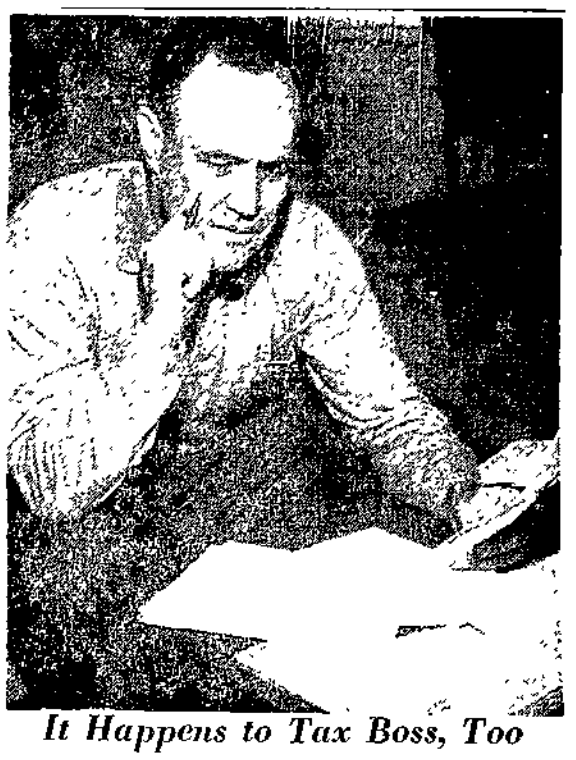
'Tactical Forces'

The British and American contributions were agreed upon by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at their Nassau meeting in December At that time the United States planned to assign some of its strategic bombers to the force but recently decided to substitute the 3 Polaris submarines. Kennedy and Macmillan called for inclusion of "tactical forces" elsewhere in Europe.

Agreement now has been reached that such tactical forces are available—or soon will be—from 8 countries

They are Greece, Turkey, the Netherlands, Italy, Belgium, France, West Germany and Canada. The first 4 already have U.S. nuclear weapons but under American control. They must remain that way until the President clears them for use as nuclear force striking elements. The nations received the weapons under a 1957 NATO agreement.

Belgium, France, West Germany and Canada are working out final agreements under which they will receive similar nuclear weapons to be released to their custody in event of war.



It Happens to Tax Boss, Too

Even as you and I, Mortimer M. Caplin, the commissioner of internal revenue, isn't out soaking up the Easter weekend sunshine. Instead, he's in the living room of his Washington residence finishing up his federal income tax return The deadline for filing is Monday midnight. He says he will make it. Will you?

Negroes May Be Held For Contempt of Court

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—City attorneys launched legal steps Saturday to hold Martin Luther King Jr, the inspirational leader of a desegregation movement, in contempt of court.

Attorney J. M Breckenridge said the city would seek to have the 8 leaders of the 11-day old desegregation movement and 136 others held in contempt for violating an order issued by State Judge W. A. Jenkins Jr to end all demonstrations Wednesday

Negroes continued their desegregation efforts as King and other leaders remained in jail.

Behind the scenes, leaders held closed meetings with volunteer student workers as plans for an Easter Sunday kneel-in at city churches progressed.

Six persons left the meetings to picket and were arrested by police on a charge of trespass after warning, bringing to 228 the number arrested in the 11-day campaign.

In Washington, the Justice Department said "the federal government has no authority to take legal action to intervene" in the city's battle between police and Negroes as the situation stands.

The statement of position came after the arrest of so-called "freedom marchers," including King.

The Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, public information officer of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by King, urged students from "the first grade on up" to join in the campaign against segregation of city facilities

Walker did not elaborate on planned kneel-ins at white churches Sunday. There were indications that King and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy and the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, two other leaders, would be bailed out of jail to lead Easter demonstrations.

Army Trouble Brewing

More Divisions Become Issue In Budget Plan

Washington (UPI) — Controversy is brewing in the Defense Department over whether the Army needs two more combat divisions for its role under President Kennedy's conventional warfare plans, it was disclosed Saturday.

The department already is at work on Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's fiscal 1965 military budget which goes to Congress next January. Expansion of the Army is an emerging big issue.

Authorities said that adding two more combat divisions to the present 16 would require expanding Army manpower by 75,000 to a total of 1,050,000. That would be the highest level since 1955 except for the 1961-62 Berlin crisis period when reservists were called up.

Such an expansion could add about $800 million to the Army's budget in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1964, a year when McNamara will be under pressure to trim rather than expand spending.

So far there is no suggestion that McNamara and his budget expert, Assistant Defense Secretary Charles J. Hitch, are persuaded that an 18 division Army is needed.

But in certain influential military quarters that is regarded as a necessary force for the President's non-nuclear warfare plans. The issue is certain to be joined in coming months as the budget squeeze tightens, authorities said.

The Army now has 5 divisions in Europe, 3 in the Far East, and 8 in the United States. Strategists believe there should be at least one more in the Far East, close to potential disturbances.

Last Sound From Submarine 'Was One of Ship Breaking Up'

Portsmouth, N.H. (UPI) — A veteran naval officer said Saturday the crew of the submarine Thresher desperately tried to surface the vessel before it apparently broke up near the floor of the Atlantic.

Lt. (Jg) James D. Watson, 43, of Aurora, Ill., told how he and the skipper of the submarine rescue ship Skylark listened over a telephone to the final moments of the Thresher and its 129-man crew.

Watson, a 23-year veteran of the Navy, read and explained for a Naval Court of Inquiry log book notations he made seconds before the Thresher plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic last Wednesday.

He told the grim-faced Navy brass sitting on the inquiry board that the sounds which came over his telephone link with the Thresher as it practiced deep dives below were all too familiar to him. The Skylark's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. S. Hecker was also there.

"We both heard a sound familiar to me from World War II—the sound of a torpedo ship breaking up underwater," Watson said. "It sounded as though a compartment was collapsing or something of that nature. It was a muted dull thud."

For a time, newsmen had to leave the inquiry room apparently when the log indicated how deep the Thresher was diving. This is classified information.

According to the log, Thresher messaged at 0913, "We have position up angle. Attempt to blow-up." This was 13 minutes after Thresher had dived to test depth.

The word "blow-up" meant that the crew was attempting to force air into the ballast tanks to surface the craft. The sub apparently was in trouble at this point and its only hope was in surfacing quickly. According to another witness the sub had reported "experiencing minor difficulties" shortly before the 0913 message.

Two minutes later, at 0915, Hecker grabbed the telephone and shouted 4 times to Thresher:

"Are you in control?"

"There were blowing sounds on the intercom, but nothing else," Watson said.

Then at 0917, the Thresher sent its last message. It was garbled, Watson said, and he picked up just two words: "... test depth ..." He said both he and his skipper believed several words preceded this.

It was then he testified that he heard what he believed to be the sounds that signalled the death of the nuclear sub.

Watson was asked by the board if he had any ideas about what the garbled words might have been.

"I believe I heard the word 'exceeding' before 'test depth' but I'm not certain," he told the court.

He was asked who was doing the talking aboard the Thresher.

"I can only assume it was the commanding officer (Lt. Cmdr. John W. Harvey)," Watson replied. "He was unhurried. There was no note of hysteria. He would be the man most likely to carry on in a situation such as this," the witness said.

At 0931, Skylark began calling the Thresher at spaced intervals. At 1006 the message was: "Quebec, Quebec, indicate position by any means possible." This, which included the code name Quebec, was repeated at one minute intervals.

At 1038, 3 grenade signals were dropped. But the Thresher never answered.

People of many nations celebrate today the joyous Easter drama of Christ's resurrection.

To some Eastern Christians, the story of the empty tomb was unfolded in old Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulcher Saturday in a rite called "The Miracle of the Holy Fire."

To Protestants and Western Roman Catholics, however, Holy Saturday was a day of prayerful vigil for the glory of the dawn.

Pope John XXIII followed up his historic encyclical pacem in terris (peace on earth) with an Easter declaration that progress could be made for peace by ending suspicion among nations and civil strife within them.

Fine spring weather was forecast for most of the United States. This suggested that New York's Fifth Avenue and other celebrated thoroughfares will be jammed with persons seeking to show off their new Easter garb.

Sunrise services were expected to draw thousands to points of worship ranging from Miami Stadium to Hollywood Bowl, from Arlington National Cemetery to 1,337-foot high Mt. Rubidoux near Riverside, Calif.

President Kennedy and his family are spending Easter in Palm Beach, Fla. They are likely to attend Easter services at St. Edward's Church in Palm Beach or, as they did last year, take part in private services at the home of the President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic military vicar of the U.S. armed forces, will conclude his Easter sermon at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York with a prayer for "the gallant men of the submarine Thresher and for their dear ones."

Abroad, thousands of West Germans streamed to Communist East Berlin for holiday reunions with relatives living behind the Iron Curtain. Many carried food, especially butter, eggs, coffee and fresh fruit, of which there is a severe shortage in East Germany.

U.S. Expects NATO Nuclear Force To Be Operational in Year

10 Nations Will Cooperate

Washington (UPI) — The United States expects a 10-nation NATO nuclear force to be operational under the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, U.S. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, within a year, it was disclosed Saturday.

It will be known as the "Inter-Allied Nuclear Force" (IANF), U.S. sources said. It will consist of British nuclear bombers, 3 U.S. Polaris missile submarines, and striking elements of 8 other NATO countries which have or are to receive American atomic weapons to arm their forces in event of war.

The French contribution will be limited to two fighter-bomber squadrons based in Germany. President Charles de Gaulle refuses to permit any U.S. nuclear weapons on French soil.

Composition of the IANF was among the subjects discussed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Allied representatives in Paris earlier this week. Gen. Lemnitzer's staff has been given the job of working out coordination and targeting arrangements. The NATO council meeting in Ottawa, Canada, in late May is expected to ratify the arrangements.

Public Confusion

U.S. sources, attempting to clear up public confusion over NATO nuclear planning, said the IANF was entirely separate from the "multilateral NATO nuclear force" now under discussion. If this latter force ever comes into being, it will be a sort of NATO Navy paid for and manned by personnel from as many countries as wish to contribute men and money. It, too, would be under the Supreme Allied Commander.

Russia has protested all NATO nuclear force planning as likely to increase the peril of nuclear war. The United States, after discussing the Soviet protest with other Allies, is expected within the next week to reject the complaint.

U.S. officials view creation of the IANF as being principally a military rather than political affair, since it is being put together under existing treaty arrangements.

'Tactical Forces'

The British and American contributions were agreed upon by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at their Nassau meeting in December. At that time the United States planned to assign some of its strategic bombers to the force but recently decided to substitute the 3 Polaris submarines. Kennedy and Macmillan called for inclusion of "tactical forces" elsewhere in Europe.

Agreement now has been reached that such tactical forces are available—or soon will be—from 8 countries.

They are Greece, Turkey, the Netherlands, Italy, Belgium, France, West Germany and Canada. The first 4 already have U.S. nuclear weapons but under American control. They must remain that way until the President clears them for use as nuclear force striking elements. The nations received the weapons under a 1957 NATO agreement.

Belgium, France, West Germany and Canada are working out final agreements under which they will receive similar nuclear weapons to be released to their custody in event of war.

It Happens to Tax Boss, Too

Even as you and I, Mortimer M. Caplin, the commissioner of internal revenue, isn't out soaking up the Easter weekend sunshine. Instead, he's in the living room of his Washington residence finishing up his federal income tax return. The deadline for filing is Monday midnight. He says he will make it. Will you?

Negroes May Be Held For Contempt of Court

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—City attorneys launched legal steps Saturday to hold Martin Luther King Jr., the inspirational leader of a desegregation movement, in contempt of court.

Attorney J. M. Breckenridge said the city would seek to have the 8 leaders of the 11-day old desegregation movement and 136 others held in contempt for violating an order issued by State Judge W. A. Jenkins Jr. to end all demonstrations Wednesday.

Negroes continued their desegregation efforts as King and other leaders remained in jail.

Behind the scenes, leaders held closed meetings with volunteer student workers as plans for an Easter Sunday kneel-in at city churches progressed.

Six persons left the meetings to picket and were arrested by police on a charge of trespass after warning, bringing to 228 the number arrested in the 11-day campaign.

In Washington, the Justice Department said "the federal government has no authority to take legal action to intervene" in the city's battle between police and Negroes as the situation stands.

The statement of position came after the arrest of so-called "freedom marchers," including King.

The Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, public information officer of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by King, urged students from "the first grade on up" to join in the campaign against segregation of city facilities.

Walker did not elaborate on planned kneel-ins at white churches Sunday. There were indications that King and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy and the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, two other leaders, would be bailed out of jail to lead Easter demonstrations.

Pleasant Day Seen for State

Pleasant Easter weather will prevail throughout Nebraska today.

Skies will be clear and temperatures will linger in the upper 60s or mid-70s in all parts of Nebraska, the Weather Bureau predicted.

British Ban-Bomb Marchers Raid Alleged Secret Shelter

London (UPI) — Police using baying hounds Saturday broke up an attempt by hundreds of ban the bomb demonstrators to force their way into a top secret nuclear shelter for government offices

The demonstrators broke off from an Easter ban the-bomb procession by 10,000 persons from Aldermaston to London and turned down a country lane into the grounds of the alleged secret headquarters

The location of the underground headquarters was disclosed in a crudely printed pamphlet distributed during the Aldermaston march by a group calling itself "Spies for Peace"

The pamphlets said the location was one of 12 top secret bombproof centers which would house government offices in event of a nuclear attack

The government has admitted that the pamphlet contained considerable accurate secret information and ordered anyone possessing a copy to send it to Scotland Yard Newspapers were forbidden under the Official Secrets Act from publishing the contents

In Duesseldorf, Germany, meanwhile a group of British ban-the-bomb demonstrators carrying out a sitdown strike aboard a chartered airliner grounded the plane for the second day by refusing to fasten their seatbelts Under international air regulations, planes cannot take off until passengers fasten the safety belts

In the demonstration in England, police buses and Black Marias waited in a nearby clearing as lines of police halted the demonstrators when they tried to climb onto a boilerhouse

One demonstrator dashed for what appeared to be an entrance but was stopped by a police inspector Three policemen carried the man away after a scuffle

As demonstrators chanted "No bases, no bombs," police brought dogs to guard some of the buildings Others guarded a section of the building that looked as if it was near a tunnel

After further scuffles and the arrival of a new contingent of 30 police reinforcements, the demonstrators rejoined the Aldermaston march

Jeering demonstrators lined the road shouting abuse at the police as they marched through

New Music Center To Get Bass Tuning

New York (AP)—The spanking new Philharmonic Hall in Lincoln Center is going to get a tuning because the bass notes do not sound bass enough

There also will be some changes costing more than $300,000 in the interior design of the $15 5 million hall because of its tonal deficiencies

The showplace music center opened Sept 23, amidst the glitter and spash of celebrities and world dignitaries, including the president's wife, Mrs John F Kennedy

Now, some of the bugs that were anticipated, have to be ironed out, Max Abramovitz, the hall's architect, said Saturday

The work, according to Center President William Schuman, a composer whose works have been played in the blue and gold decorated auditorium, will be completed in time for the opening of the second season in the fall

Abramovitz said there was not a hall of this type in existence that did not have some acoustical difficulties at first, and that these are expected on all such projects

But it will take an expertly trained ear and an eye that has spent long hours gazing at the fine points of the hall's design to notice the changes when all are completed

The work mainly will be one of reshaping—making the interior more shell-like so that those touchy bass notes will land gently on the surfaces instead of bouncing

Only Silence

The end of Thresher's test period—3 p m—passed and still there was silence from the submarine About this time search planes arrived overhead

In Washington, Adm George W Anderson, chief of naval operations, was at a meeting of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Pentagon It ended at 3 35 p m

While Anderson was walking back from the JCS meeting, the Atlantic Fleet chief called him on the "hot line" from Norfolk

A Navy captain was sent to find Anderson and intercepted him in a corridor near the office of Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth Anderson promptly alerted Korth, who telephoned the White House and gave the word to Capt. Tazewell T Shepard Jr, president Kennedy's naval aide Presumably Kennedy was told without delay

The Navy secretary strode up to the next floor and then passed the word to Deptuy Secretary of Defense Roswell L Gilpatric, the top man in the Pentagon with Secretary of Defense Robert S McNamara then in Europe

Now all the top people knew that a disaster might be in the making—or might already have happened

No Public Inkling

But the nation at large—and the families of the 129 men aboard the Thresher—got no inkling of impending tragedy

Navy men still clung to a hope that communications were at fault, that contact would be regained or the Thresher would break water and show herself

Hope grew slimmer with each passing hour and dread grew in its place

"Later in the afternoon," the Navy said in recapping the events of that day, "it was decided that it was probable that she had encountered serious difficulties, was missing and possibly was lost"

The first ominous evidence was fished out of the Atlantic by Skylark at 5 50 p m—about 8½ hours after the Thresher's last message to Skylark

The evidence 10 pieces of cork and a fragment of yellow plastic, both materials used inside subs like the Thresher

Night fell, the lights went on in the offices of Navy brass on the "fourth deck" of the Pentagon, Anderson and Dennison conferred by phone again and again

Notify Relatives

Finally it was decided that the Navy would start notifying relatives at 7 30 p m and make a public announcement at 8

At least one set of parents got the news from a television newscast, according to later reports

Harvey's mother and his father, a retired salesman, learned of the Thresher's disappearance while watching a telecast in their small home in North Philadelphia

Mrs. Anna Harvey didn't give up "I have great faith in him, great faith in my son's ability," she said.

At 8 the Navy put out a formal statement saying the Thresher "is overdue and presumed missing."

Although the odds were going ever more against the Thresher's survival, the Navy still did not give up the ship, saying "there is a possibility that the nuclear submarine has not reported her position due to a communication failure"

Critical Moment

Another critical time came and went That was 3 p m—12 hours after the last message—when, Anderson said later, the Thresher's skipper "would have been required absolutely to have reported in if the interim communication had been lost

"When he did not communicate at 9 o'clock . I had reasonable apprehension that my earlier optimism was unfounded," the Navy chief said

A half hour after that key point in time Anderson met with reporters.

His handsome, ruddy face showing sorrow, Anderson said the Thresher "appears to be lost"

"To those of us who have been brought up in the traditions of the sea," the admiral said, "it is a sad occasion when a ship is reported lost"

The Navy said an oil slick had been sighted—additional confirmatory evidence Although the Thresher was run by nuclear engines she carried about 17,000 gallons of lubricating oil and fuel for her auxiliary diesel engine

Oil slick on the surface always has pointed to the probable death of a sub below

Nation Shocked

The apparent loss of the Thresher sent a shock wave across the country Wives, mothers and fathers of the men clung to desperate hope because the Navy still refused to declare the ship finally and irrevocably gone

During the night of Apr 10 and early hours of Apr 11 the search fleet grew to 7 ships, including destroyers and two submarines All turned on their sonar gear and radar sets Lookouts peered out over the ocean More ships came later

The weather turned uglier. Gale warnings were up. The clouds were low. The waves were getting mountainous.

At 10 30 a m Apr 11—more than 25 hours after the Thresher's last garbled message to the Skylark—Anderson appeared once more before newsmen and said

"I conclude with great regret and sadness that this ship with 129 fine souls aboard is lost"

For a brief moment that night, all-but-vanished hope flared when the nuclear submarine Seawolf radioed that her sound detection gear had picked up what appeared to be hull noises from a stationary object in the area where the Thresher last was heard from

Report Discounted

But the Navy quickly discounted the report and said the Sea Wolf might have picked up sounds from other ships in the search fleet

When the Thresher's fate seemed no longer in doubt, the wife of the skipper asked that the country "continue your prayers for these men, that our loss will have taken them home quickly and forever"

There were two brothers aboard, 35 year-old Benjamin Shafer and 33-year-old John

Their mother, Mrs. Nell D. Schafer, cried out in anguish—"Both my sons. Both my sons."

Another who sorrowed was Vice Adm Hyman G Rickover, the Navy's atomic chief He handpicked the Thresher's officers, as he does for all the nation's atomic craft, and supervised the training of the crewmen

"We mourn their loss," said Rickover

'Future is Sure'

Presidnet Kennedy, once a naval officer himself, said "the future of our country will always be sure when there are men such as these to give them lives to preserve it"

Flags on all government buildings were ordered flown at half staff in mourning

By all the evidence the Thresher lies crushed in 1,400 fathoms of water At 8,400 feet down the pressure is unbelievably terrific—3,696 pounds to the square inch.

The Navy holds out absolutely no hope that anybody survived Anderson believed the men died in a very, very short time

A blue ribbon Navy court already is at work inquiring into the tragedy

To quiet any fears Anderson and Rickover declared there is no danger of radiation contamination from Thresher's nuclear power plant

Tests Negative

Rickover underscored these assurances when he said Friday tests have been run on samples of debris from the Thresher and from the ocean bottom near where the sub is believed to be lying These tests, he said, have shown no radioactivity.

The Navy is bringing its ocean exploring batyscaphe Trieste around from the West coast to take a close look at the wreck—if it ever is found

Special television equipment, which can be lowered to the ocean floor in pressure-proof shielding, also is being prepared

Some high naval officers are betting the cause will never be determined

Anderson has virtually ruled out sabotage or any action by Russians. The Navy says no Russian subs or surface craft were in the vicinity.

One guess, to which many are inclining, is that a weld on the hull of the Th might have come loo mitting torrents of wa so she would have plun to the bottom

In one sub accident it was found that a d only 100 feet, 60,000 of water poured into partment in one minut

To quiet any fears Anderson and Rickover declared there is no danger of radiation contamination from Thresher's nuclear power plant.

Tests Negative

Rickover underscored these assurances when he said Friday tests have been run on samples of debris from the Thresher and from the ocean bottom near where the sub is believed to be lying. These tests, he said, have shown no radioactivity.

The Navy is bringing its ocean-exploring batyscaphe Trieste around from the West coast to take a close look at the wreck—if it ever is found.

Special television equipment, which can be lowered to the ocean floor in pressure-proof shielding, also is being prepared.

Some high naval officers are betting the cause will never be determined.

Anderson has virtually ruled out sabotage or any action by Russians. The Navy says no Russian subs or surface craft were in the vicinity.

One guess, to which many are inclining, is that a weld on the hull of the Thresher might have come loose, admitting torrents of water. If so she would have plummeted to the bottom.

In one sub accident in 1961, it was found that a depth of only 100 feet, 60,000 pounds of water poured into a compartment in one minute.

Melancholy Niche

The Thresher has been assured a melancholy place in history.

She is the first of this nation' nuclear subs to meet such a fate. There are 27 others, including Polaris missile craft, afloat and more on the way.

She also carried with her the heaviest loss of life in any submarine sinking, according to the records.

Anti-Americanism No Longer Way To Win Elections

United Press International

Canadian voters delivered a mixed verdict when they went to the polls on April 8, but one thing at least seemed clear—pulling the American Eagle's feathers is no longer a sure way to win elections in Canada.

During the campaign, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had accused the U.S. State Dept. of "unwarranted intrusion in Canadian affairs" and charged that U.S. magazines were "trying to tell the Canadian people how to vote." His Conservative Party lost ground in the election.

Liberal Party leader Lester B. Pearson told audiences that "the danger of aggression is not from across our southern border" and promised to meet with President Kennedy if he was elected. He made solid gains.

In fact, Pearson's party was the only one that picked up new seats in the House of Commons, even though it did not win enough to have a majority.

What did it mean?

To begin with, it did not mean that the United States and Canada were not going to have disagreements, disputes and perhaps even some mutual irritation in the years ahead.

The two countries are too close, geographically, economically and culturally, not to have interlocking and at times conflicting interests.

Need Support

Nor did it necessarily mean that the United States was going to get what it wanted in the dispute that started it all—equipping Canada's North American Air Defense (NORAD) and NATO forces with U.S. nuclear warheads. Pearson has pledged to accept the warheads, but he will need support from other parties to govern; whether he can get it on the nuclear issue is unknown.

Finally, it did not in any way mean that the United States was going to have its way automatically in other negotiations with Canada even if Pearson were to govern. While he is regarded on the U.S. side of the border as more flexible, he is nevertheless a tough, capable diplomat who can stand his ground with the best of them. The United States received some blistering notes from him when he was Canada's external affairs minister from 1948 to 1957.

What the election did mean was that in diplomatic relations and perhaps — but not necessarily — in Canadian politics, things probably would be smoother.

The fact is that Canadians and Americans generally get along pretty well.

"Anti-Americanism" in Canada is not the egg-throwing, paint-splattering bitterness that the term usually brings in mind. (It was once —150 years ago this month, as part of the War of 1812, U.S. troops attacked Canada and captured Toronto. In the long run, the Canadians won the land battles, by the way.)

Diefenbaker consistantly had said he was not anti-American but rather "pro-Canadian," and there is a difference.

"Pro-Canadianism," generally speaking, is somewhat a kin to the feeling that "just because you're bigger than I am, don't think you can push me around."

Americans Sensitive

Americans are sensitive when the foreign press portrays all U.S. tourists as fat, forty, with horn-rimmed glasses, cigars and cameras slung over their shoulders. Canadians feel much the same when Americans reveal their image of Canada to be a mixed procession of Royal Canadian Mounted Police and hockey players parading against a backdrop of mountains and evergreen trees.

While pro-Canadianism is not based on hatred, it unquestionably includes resentment at being taken for granted.

This is the feeling that Diefenbaker was appealing to when he charged that U.S. magazines were trying to tell Canadians how to vote, and when he said in the last days of his campaign, "let us declare Monday (election day) that Canada's future will be decided by Canadians in Canada."

Nikita Tired And In Trouble

Celebrating 69th Birthday

Moscow (AP)—Premier Khrushchev comes to his 69th birthday Wednesday. He is tired and in trouble, but at this moment it seems unlikely that he will be pushed out of power, or lose either of the top jobs he holds in the country. He is both head of the government and head of the Communist Party.

What is he doing at the approach of his birthday?

Resting. Resting in the limited way a leader of a big country can rest, be he Khrushchev at 69 or Kennedy at 45. Every day there is work to do, official delegations to meet, decision to make. Probably they are no easier at 69 than 45.

Khrushchev left in March for his dacha on the Black Sea, a fine old house overlooking a beach, with a huge garden, a badminton court—and warm weather, in sharp contrast to the bitter winter which hangs on in Moscow.

Khrushchev has had successes, but the failures are equally striking, and more recent. And they came all bunched together.

A list of troubles might read like this:

1. Planting missiles in Cuba. Lost.

2. Attempt to have the United Nations give the Soviet Union a total veto on all issues. Lost.

3. Changed status for Berlin, with West out. Pressure launched November, 1958. Still pending.

4. Struggle to improve agriculture. Gains, but success not in sight.

5. China — growing crisis.

6. De-Stalinization — a bitter, unending struggle which has disturbed the party and the regime and created uncertainty throughout the Communist world.

7. Conflict with the liberal artists and writers—a smash-down victory, doubtless only temporary.

8. Relations with the United States. Rarely so bad as during the past 6 months.

Yet this chubby man, no more than 5 foot 5, approaching his 70th year, still is unquestionably the dominant figure in Russia.

By sheer force and shrewd party operation he drove in to political exile such veteran leaders as Malenkov, Molotov, Bulganin and Kaganovich. He took on the more complicated job of driving out of power the spirit of Stalin himself.

He has visited many countries but probably his most educational trip was his 1959 visit to the United States. Two years earlier he said the Soviet Union would overtake the United States in per capita production of meat, milk and milk products by 1961. Since that trip in 1959, he somehow has seemed less sure how fast the Soviet Union would overtake the United States, or how fast communism might dominate the world.

But he continues sure both will happen, and the many people who talk to him at length sense no real wavering in his faith.

Youth Pleads Guilty

Key West, Fla. (AP)-Roger Foster, 17-year-old son of a Griffin, Ga., physician, told officers Saturday he stabbed the captain and mate of the charter boat Dream Girl to death with a bait knife.

Foster calmly pleaded guilty Saturday to the stabbing.

He was brought before Peace Justice Edelmiro Morales to hear the first degree murder charges read. He listened attentively and replied "Yes, sir," each time as he was asked if he understood the charges and if he pleaded guilty.

He chartered the boat with the intention of killing himself after he got to sea, he added, but after the bloody slayings of Capt. Douglas Trevor, 47, and his son, Edward, 22, the mate, he found himself unable to take his own life.

The blue and white charter boat, splashed by the blood of her crewmen, was towed to Key West Saturday and Foster was hustled off to a jail cell. Newsmen were not permitted to talk to him.

Sheriff Henry Haskins told newsmen Foster related this story of the killings under questioning by county officers and FBI agents:

He chartered the boat with suicide as his only intention.

Twenty miles west of Key West and ¾ mile south of the Marquesas Keys, he sneaked up on Trevor at the wheel of the boat and struck him with a flashlight. Then he began stabbing him with the bait knife he had found on the boat.

Trevor shouted to his son, who was up on the flying bridge: "Look out, he has a knife.

Edward clambered down from the bridge, took the knife from Foster and tossed it to the back of the boat. Then, while his fatally injured father held the youth by the hands, Edward went into the cabin to radio the Coast Guard for help.

Foster broke away from the captain, retrieved the knife and stabbed the mate at the radio controls.

Diefenbaker To Step Aside

Ottawa (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, the defeat of his Conservative administration confirmed by Canada's armed service voters, agreed Saturday to step aside in favor of a new liberal government headed by Lester B. Pearson.

The 67-year-old Conservative leader made the formal concession, ending the political uncertainty that followed Monday's national election, in a telegram offering to meet Pearson to discuss "the date of the change-over of government."

UAR, Saudi Arabia Reach Agreement

Cairo, UAR (UPI)—The United Arab Republic Saturday announced a settlement with Saudi Arabia on the Yemen civil war and the little Red Sea nation moved to join an emerging Arab federation.

Government spokesmen confirmed newspaper reports that the UAR has agreed to withdraw its troops supporting the Yemeni republican government in return for Saudi agreement to quit helping Yemeni royalists trying to restore the Iman of Yemen to power.

Informed sources said the first ship load of UAR troops left Yemen's port of Hodeida for home Friday. An estimated 25,000 Egyptian troops have been stationed in Yemen.

According to Cairo newspapers, the United Nations has agreed to station observers in a 12½ mile wide demilitarized zone along the Yemeni-Saudi border to make sure the agreement is followed.

The royalists were ousted by a coup led by Abdullah Sallal, Yemen's present premier, last Sept. 26. Since then the royalists have waged a relentless struggle to regain control. The whereabouts of Imam el Badr is not known.

Christendom's Easter 1963

As they have through the centuries, Christians on this day are rejoicing and celebrating the resurrection of Christ. Some of the pomp and ceremony is in strange contrast to the life and teaching of the Christ who walked among simple men, preaching on the hillsides and by the sea.

Easter comes, as it has through the centuries, when the hearts of men are weighed with the threats of war, distrust, envy and conflicting ideologies. But, as always, these are countered by hope, men of goodwill and sacrifice.

Perhaps at this Easter time, there are more men and women dedicated to working for a peaceful world, a better life for all, than there have been in the past centuries. But they are working against greater odds — nuclear stockpiles which could within minutes destroy the world they would save.

Through the pageantry of the Christian celebration shines the faith which has brought hope and meaning to the lives of millions through the ages. Christianity has been an evolving religion but Easter is a reminder of its basic concepts.

Nature has cooperated to give this Easter season a deeper meaning. The whole outdoors stands as a living symbol of the resurrection. The trees are things of beauty as they unfold their leaves, the soft spring air and the bright sunshine have erased the memory of winter.

Even non-believers, as they hear the church bells and look at the beauty around them, must pause to contemplate the wonders of the universe at this Easter season.

Preserving the Wilderness

Man has done wonderful things for the land with conservation practices, fertilizer and development. He has also done terrible things to natural beauty spots. He has built billboards, pop stands, hot dog stands and unsightly accommodations for tourists.

He has dumped his trash along the way, left untended fires and flipped lighted cigarettes, destroying forests of trees. As the population swells, the wilderness areas are disappearing.

This week the U.S. Senate passed a measure which would preserve in our national parks, national forests and wildlife refuges certain portions of land to be designated as wilderness areas. Such areas would be set aside primitive condition, uncluttered by man-made installations.

For 6 years Congress has been considering the passage of a wilderness bill. Two years ago the Senate debated at length and passed a wilderness bill which did not get through the House. In the two years since, Sen. Maurine Neuberger of Oregon points out, mining interests have established claims on areas of unique scenic beauty.

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, co-sponsor of the bill, notes that no expenditure of public funds is involved in the legislation. The land is presently owned by the federal government and will continue to be administered by the agencies now in charge of these areas.

It does insure that wilderness areas will be preserved for cultural, inspirational, recreational and scientific values that these areas can offer to present and future generations.

With a greater concentration of population in urban areas and the prediction that the entire eastern coastal area will become one giant megaloposis, the importance of having a refuge of wilderness areas increases. There is a deep-seated human need occasionally to get far away from the works of man.

Nebraska Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis are to be commended for their support of this bill. It can be hoped that Nebraska's representatives will add their approval when the bill comes before the House.

JOSEPH ALSOP'S Views

Britain Floats Adrift

London—Reporting a vacuum is neither easy nor customary; yet it is an important matter when there is something very like a political vacuum in the second nation of the Western Alliance.

Alsop

The fault is not the British government. With real courage, although pretty late in the day, Prime Minister Macmillan tried to lead Britain into Europe. If the effort to enter the Common Market had not been blocked, this country would soon have acquired a new sense of purpose and direction.

The fault is not the want of able leaders, either. The younger generation of Conservative politicians are men of impressive ability, as was most recently demonstrated by the exceptionally astute budget presented by the new chancellor of the exchequer, Reginald Maudling. As for the Labor Party, the extreme intelligence of Harold Wilson is beyond question, however mysterious his basic aims may remain.

But spend close to a fortnight asking scores of leading Englishmen the simple question, "Where do you go from here?" The sum of the answers is an almost total lack of a present sense of purpose and direction. There is no clear conception of the nature of Britain's world-role now. There are not even any very clear ideas about what Britain's world-role ought to be.

The position here, in short, is just the contrary of the situation in France, where the French world-role begins to be conceived in exaggerated, almost glory-drunken terms.

It is hard to be precise about such problems, but that does not make the problems any less serious. For one leading nation of the West to have highly exaggerated ideas about where it is going and for another leading nation to have no ideas at all on this point, can prove to be exceedingly damaging and dangerous.

It must be added that in a measure, at any rate, the fault lies in Washington. Nothing in the Western Alliance can fall into place until the American policy-makers recognize and accept the consequences of the resurgence of Europe.

In this respect, President Kennedy and his advisors have gone much further than President Eisenhower did. Yet a great deal of the old governess-attitude towards Europe still survives, especially in the area of defense policy. That survival, in turn, gave rise to the fears that the British, with their special relationship to the Americans, would enter Europe only as an American Trojan horse.

In London, the search for a world-role, and in Washington the search for a modernized, more stable form of the Western Alliance, will both fail unless the European resurgence is squarely faced, together with all its implications. In this respect, the Anglo-Saxon powers, as Gen. de Gaulle is fond of calling us, ought to be moving forward together.

The ALLEN-SCOTT Report

A Charge of Politics

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — That $50 million electronics research center earmarked for President Kennedy's hometown is headed squarely for a curt congressional veto.

Allen

A decisive majority of the Senate Space Committee is now definitely against this controversial scheme—widely suspected of being politically motivated to further the re-election aspirations of Sen. Ted Kennedy, 31-year-old brother of the President.

Significantly, the powerful backstage opposition is being vigorously led by irate Democrats. Foremost among them is Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-N.M.), committee chairman. Strongly supporting him is Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.), chairman of the Public Works Committee.

Anderson is one of the most influential members of the Senate. In addition to heading the Space Committee, which will pass on the $50 million electronics research center, he is a former chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee, the Interior Affairs Committee, and holds a seat on the potent Finance Committee.

As head of the Atomic Committee, Anderson spearheaded the bitter battle that blocked the confirmation of Lewis Strauss as secretary of Commerce in the Eisenhower Cabinet.

Sen. McNamara is flatly predicting that not only will the Space Committee bar locating the electronics project in Boston, but will direct it be established in the interior of the country, possibly in the Midwest for "security and other important reasons." This view is strongly seconded by other Democrats and Republicans.

Space Administrator James Webb has been given the job of persuading members of the House and Senate Space Committees that politics had nothing to do with the selection of Boston as the site of the electronics center.

Opponents are countering this argument with the contention that funds for the project were hurriedly inserted in the federal budget at a final review in the White House. It is asserted that an $8.5 million item, the first installment on the center, was included in the budget expressly by the President.

The Power of Faith

By Woodi Ishmael

"And they said among themselves, who shall roll away the stone from the door of the sepulchre? And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great."
Mark 16:3-4

The revelation that Jesus had risen that first Easter Sunday morning was more than Mary Magdalene and Mary, the mother of James and Salome, could comprehend at first: ". . . they trembled and were amazed . . ."

Jesus had risen just as he had prophesied. It was the glorious climax that has given the Christian Church its full meaning. The truth of that meaning is beautifully expressed in the words of Victor Hugo, "The tomb is not blind alley: it is a thoroughfare, it closes on the twilight, it opens on the dawn."

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

A settlement house is being torn down to make way for a university.

End of an Era

It is more than just a settlement house, it is Hull House in Chicago. The 74-year-old settlement just west of Chicago's loop has been sold, after some dickering, to the City of Chicago for $875,000. It is to be razed and a new 4-year branch of the University of Illinois will grace the grounds.

The Hull House complex included 13 buildings, covering more than a block. The University has agreed to preserve as a memorial to its founder, Miss Jane Addams, the original Hull House, the building in which she and her friend Ellen Gates Starr founded the settlement in 1889.

Charles Gene McDaniel of the Chicago News World Service retells the story of how, when Miss Addams was 6 and driving with her prosperous father through a poverty-stricken area of an industrial city, she saw children in the dirty streets and dusty yards beside shabby little houses.

She was moved to comment, "When I grow up I'm going to have a big house and I'm going to ask all those children to come over and play."

Twenty-three years later, after graduation from Rockford College and travel in Europe, she returned to Chicago and found that big house which had been the mansion of Charles Hull, an early citizen of Chicago.

During the first year that Hull House was open, 50,000 persons came. The next year, 2,000 a week, then 3,000 a week. The vision and work of Hull House extended beyond its neighborhood and boundaries of Chicago.

Not only children came to play, but adults came and found help in time of trouble, a place of recreation, beauty through art and music and escape from grim surroundings.

Two Nebraska women, the late Grace and Edith Abbott of Grand Island, played a part in the history of Hull House. The founders and workers of Hull House had a vision.

They campaigned for labor laws regulating the hours of women and children, for safety regulations to reduce industrial accidents and for an anti-sweatship law. Through their efforts, Illinois became the first state with special legislation for women workers and the first to have a juvenile court.

It took many years for the national conscience to catch up with that of Hull House, if it has. Because of its drive for social reforms Hull House was labeled by its opponents as a "nest of radicals."

This has a familiar ring. Opponents of integregation call those who actively work for equal rights for the Negroes, "Communist" or "Communist inspired."

Hull House is a reminder that the forces of good can make their influence felt even amidst almost overwhelming forces of evil. Hull House shone out in the environs which harbored the gangs of Al Capone.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

Noting the Unicameral's action to lower from 15½ to 15 the age at which motor vehicle learner permits can be acquired, the Norfolk Daily News commented, "Legislators cannot go much further in this direction or it is going to be necessary to require that a learner be accompanied by a baby-sitter."

Color Him Democrat

Helping Gov. Morrison set the record straight, the Nebraska City News-Press covered his appearance at a Knights of Columbus banquet: "The governor was facetiously introduced by Sen. Wm. Brandt as 'a man who is not a Republican.' Then Gov. Morrison pointed out that the current issue of the World Book Yearbook says he is a Republican."

'Hello' Girls Gone

Geneva got dial telephones last week, ending some 73 years of manual telephone service. On a nostalgic note the Nebraska Signal paid tribute to the local and long distance operators stepping down from the boards. "It will be a long time before we forget the 'hello' girls with their courteous 'number please' as they served us in all of our varied moods throughout the years. Thanks, girls. We appreciate your help on those many occasions when we were so stupid and when your courteous assistance gave us service beyond the call of duty."

No Horns

Favorite sport of the week for some Nebraska editors was analyzing Nebraska Republican reaction to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's appearance at the Hruska dinner in Omaha. As the Bellevue Press put it, "He has been viewed with suspicion by Nebraska Republican's who favor a more conservative standard bearer. His visit and address gave Nebraskans an opportunity to judge him from close up, to see that he doesn't really have horns, and to now seriously consider his views."

Applauding Rockefeller's statement "I believe in state's rights, but we also have to exercise state responsibility," the Grand Island Independent urged retention of control of government at the state level, warning, "If we do not perform responsibly in fields of legitimate public concern—education for instance—then we can expect the federal bureaucracy to step into the void and we have no really good argument against that."

Lost Votes

The Falls City Journal supports LB313 which proposes a Nebraska constitutional amendment to permit citizens with less than 6 months residence in the state to vote for president and vice-president.

"It is illogical," points out the Journal, "in this modern, fluid civilization of ours to disfranchise or bar from voting for president and vice-president a U.S. citizen who has moved across the line from Kansas to Nebraska . . . While such a new resident rightly is barred from participating in Nebraska politics until he has established residence, the same restriction should not apply in national elections."

'Observance'?

Milford—The United States Supreme Court has ruled that prayers and scriptural readings in public schools violate the Federal Constitution.

With this ruling I am in full accord. But what puzzles me is why these same organizations that so violently oppose prayers and reading the Bible in public schools do not carry this out the way it should be.

Why are public schools permitted to celebrate the birth of the Christ Child at Christmas with a Christmas vacation? We Christians are now commemorating the greatest event of all, the resurrection of our risen Lord.

These events observed in parochial schools I can understand, but why observe them in the public schools? Surely the same students are in the classrooms that observe these two vacations that the courts forbid to hear the words of the Holy Scriptures.

Are these organizations that pushed the prayer issue through the courts just plain hypocritical? Are they teaching their children the "why" of Christmas and Easter vacations?

If one ruling is right, then surely they should foster the abolition of the Christmas and Easter vacations.

Angel's Mission

Lincoln—

As the angel descended that first Easter morn
And rolled the stone away,
May the angel descend on this
Easter morn
And roll the stones away
From hearts that have grown
cold and hard,
Because they their Lord denied;
And some have grown cold
through habitual sin,
And some through cynical
pride.
The meek and the lowly inherit the earth,
They taste of the joy of the Lord.
But the gifts we would bring
Him on this Easter morn
Will bring to us no reward,
If our brother or any hath naught against us—
We must first make that right
in God's sight;
Else our hearts will grow colder, and harder with time,
And be lost in eternity's night.
When the spirit of love and
praise fills the heart,
When His Spirit abides within;
All the world will behold the
good works that we do,
And will see our light shining
for Him.

Personal Views Of The News

It would not strike anyone as unusual to find in "Aerospace" magazine an article dealing with a phase of work by the Hughes Aircraft Company. This space age industry would quite logically appear in a publication of the Aerospace Industries of America, Inc. Its business is a highly complex one and a very demanding one. Perhaps because of its nature and its glamour, you might not expect that the article has to do with hiring of the handicapped.

But that is the subject of the article because this company is one of the leaders in hiring of the handicapped in the space industry. It is estimated that Hughes now employs about 150 paraplegics, 120 industrially blind, 11 with cerebral palsy, 21 epileptics, some 30 with curvature of the spine and about 200 leg amputees. The number of such employes constitute about 20 per cent of the company's total labor force.

Special arrangements for the handicapped with the company are very limited and they are given no preference or special considerations when it comes to production. Lawrence A. Hyland, vice president and general manager of the firm, reports on the company's attitude:

"We have found that regarding these employes of ours, while we may have had a few humanitarian instincts in the beginning, we have forgotten all about that . . . Their workmanship is judged on the same basis as anybody else's, and it is an extraordinarily productive operation for us . . . I would hate to have these people taken away from me because they are among our more valuable employes."

Hyland is then quoted by "Aerospace" as saying: "The human brain is a vastly more complex computer to program than out most elaborate electronic machine It takes at least 20 years to program the brain through schooling, the influence of the home and parents, and the experience of everyday life. It is a most valuable commodity which God has given to each of us, and He has given it in equal abundance to the physically handicapped."

This explains what might appear at first as a paradox. One might think that the more complicated the world becomes and the industry that must serve it, the more difficult would be the times for those with any handicap. But quite to the contrary, it is this very growing complexity that gives the physically handicapped the opportunity that they or others like them might not have had some years ago.

It is the very nature of industry today, especially the space industry, that puts a premium on the most marketable commodity the handicapped person has — his brain. This is an encouraging thing, not only to those who are handicapped today, but to those who will some day or are now just beginning to enter the labor market with a physical handicap.

It emphasizes to the parents of physically handicapped children the importance of giving these children as thorough an education as is possible and as is commensurate with their abilities. The age of automation which has given added importance to the education of young people has brought about the consideration of the handicapped in a new and much more realistic light.

To be perfectly honest about it, what most of us want in a new car is us. — O. C. Kelley, Omaha Sentinel.

Sen. McNamara is flatly predicting that not only will the Space Committee bar locating the electronics project in Boston, but will direct it be established in the interior of the country, possibly in the Midwest for "security and other important reasons." This view is strongly seconded by other Democrats and Republicans.

Space Administrator James Webb has been given the job of persuading members of the House and Senate Space Committees that politics had nothing to do with the selection of Boston as the site of the electronics center.

Opponents are countering this argument with the contention that funds for the project were hurriedly inserted in the federal budget at a final review in the White House. It is asserted that an $8.5 million item, the first installment on the center, was included in the budget expressly by the President.

The Power of Faith

By Woodi Ishmael

"And they said among themselves, who shall roll away the stone from the door of the sepulchre? And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great."
Mark 16:3-4

The revelation that Jesus had risen that first Easter Sunday morning was more than Mary Magdalene and Mary, the mother of James and Salome, could comprehend at first: ". . . they trembled and were amazed . . ."

Jesus had risen just as he had prophesied. It was the glorious climax that has given the Christian Church its full meaning. The truth of that meaning is beautifully expressed in the words of Victor Hugo. "The tomb is not blind alley; it is a thoroughfare, it closes on the twilight, it opens on the dawn."

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

A settlement house is being torn down to make way for a university.

It is more than just a settlement house, it is Hull House in Chicago. The 74-year-old settlement just west of Chicago's loop has been sold, after some dickering, to the City of Chicago for $375,000. It is to be razed and a new 4-year branch of the University of Illinois will grace the grounds.

End of an Era

The Hull House complex included 13 buildings, covering more than a block. The University has agreed to preserve as a memorial to its founder, Miss Jane Addams, the original Hull House, the building in which she and her friend Ellen Gates Starr founded the settlement in 1889.

Charles Gene McDaniel of the Chicago News World Service retells the story of how, when Miss Addams was 6 and driving with her prosperous father through a poverty-stricken area of an industrial city, she saw children in the dirty streets and dusty yards beside shabbly little houses.

She was moved to comment, "When I grow up I'm going to have a big house and I'm going to ask all those children to come over and play."

Twenty-three years later, after graduation from Rockford College and travel in Europe, she returned to Chicago and found that big house which had been the mansion of Charles Hull, an early citizen of Chicago.

During the first year that Hull House was open, 50,000 persons came. The next year, 2,000 a week, then 3,000 a week. The vision and work of Hull House extended beyond its neighborhood and boundaries of Chicago.

Not only children came to play, but adults came and found help in time of trouble, a place of recreation, beauty through art and music and escape from grim surroundings.

Two Nebraska women, the late Grace and Edith Abbott of Grand Island, played a part in the history of Hull House. The founders and workers of Hull House had a vision.

They campaigned for labor laws regulating the hours of women and children, for safety regulations to reduce industrial accidents and for an anti-sweatship law. Through their efforts, Illinois became the first state with special legislation for women workers and the first to have a juvenile court.

It took many years for the national conscience to catch up with that of Hull House, if it has. Because of its drive for social reforms Hull House was labeled by its opponents as a "nest of radicals."

This has a familiar ring. Opponents of integregation call those who actively work for equal rights for the Negroes, "Communist" or "Communist inspired."

Hull House is a reminder that the forces of good can make their influence felt even amidst almost overwhelming forces of evil. Hull House shone out in the environs which harbored the gangs of Al Capone.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

Noting the Unicameral's action to lower from 15½ to 15 the age at which motor vehicle learner permits can be acquired, the Norfolk Daily News commented. "Legislators cannot go much further in this direction or it is going to be necessary to require that a learner be accompanied by a baby-sitter."

Color Him Democrat

Helping Gov. Morrison set the record straight, the Nebraska City News-Press covered his appearance at a Knights of Columbus banquet: "The governor was facetiously introduced by Sen. Wm. Brandt as 'a man who is not a Republican.' Then Gov. Morrison pointed out that the current issue of the World Book Yearbook says he is a Republican."

'Hello' Girls Gone

Geneva got dial telephones last week, ending some 73 years of manual telephone service. On a nostalgic note the Nebraska Signal paid tribute to the local and long distance operators stepping down from the boards.- "It will be a long time before we forget the 'hello' girls with their courteous 'number please' as they served us in all of our varied moods throughout the years. Thanks, girls. We appreciate your help on those many occasions when we were so stupid and when your courteous assistance gave us service beyond the call of duty."

No Horns

Favorite sport of the week for some Nebraska editors was analyzing Nebraska Republican reaction to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's appearance at the Hruska dinner in Omaha. As the Bellevue Press put it, "He has been viewed with suspicion by Nebraska Republican's who favor a more conservative standard bearer. His visit and address gave Nebraskans an opportunity to judge him from close up, to see that he doesn't really have horns, and to now seriously consider his views."

Applauding Rockefeller's statement "I believe in state's rights, but we also have to exercise state responsibility," the Grand Island Independent urged retention of control of government at the state level, warning, "If we do not perform responsibly in fields of legitimate public concern—education for instance—then we can expect the federal bureaucracy to step into the void and we have no really good argument against that."

Lost Votes

The Falls City Journal supports LB313 which proposes a Nebraska constitutional amendment to permit citizens with less than 6 months residence in the state to vote for president and vice-president.

"It is illogical," points out the Journal, "in this modern, fluid civilization of ours to disfranchise or bar from voting for president and vice-president a U.S. citizen who has moved across the line from Kansas to Nebraska . . . While such a new resident rightly is barred from participating in Nebraska politics until he has established residence, the same restriction should not apply in national elections."

'Observance'?

Milford—The United States Supreme Court has ruled that prayers and scriptural readings in public schools violate the Federal Constitution.

With this ruling I am in full accord. But what puzzles me is why these same organizations that so violently oppose prayers and reading the Bible in public schools do not carry this out the way it should be.

Why are public schools permitted to celebrate the birth of the Christ Child at Christmas with a Christmas vacation? We Christians are now commemorating the greatest event of all, the resurrection of our risen Lord.

These events observed in parochial schools I can understand, but why observe them in the public schools? Surely the same students are in the classrooms that observe these two vacations that the courts forbid to hear the words of the Holy Scriptures.

Are these organizations that pushed the prayer issue through the courts just plain hypocritical? Are they teaching their children the "why" of Christmas and Easter vacations?

If one ruling is right, then surely they should foster the abolition of the Christmas and Easter vacations.

Angel's Mission

Lincoln—

As the angel descended that first Easter morn
And rolled the stone away,
May the angel descend on this
Easter morn
And roll the stones away
From hearts that have grown
cold and hard,
Because they their Lord denied;
And some have grown cold
through habitual sin,
And some through cynical
pride.
The meek and the lowly inherit the earth,
They taste of the joy of the Lord.
But the gifts we would bring
Him on this Easter morn
Will bring to us no reward,
If our brother or any hath aught against us—
We must first make that right
in God's sight;
Else our hearts will grow colder, and harder with
time,
And be lost in eternity's night.
When the spirit of love and
praise fills the heart,
When His Spirit abides within;
All the world will behold the
good works that we do,
And will see our light shining
for Him.

Personal Views Of The News

It would not strike anyone as unusual to find in "Aerospace" magazine an article dealing with a phase of work by the Hughes Aircraft Company. This space age industry would quite logically appear in a publication of the Aerospace Industries of America, Inc. Its business is a highly complex one and a very demanding one. Perhaps because of its nature and its glamour, you might not expect that the article has to do with hiring of the handicapped.

But that is the subject of the article because this company is one of the leaders in hiring of the handicapped in the space industry. It is estimated that Hughes now employs about 150 paraplegics, 120 industrially blind, 11 with cerebral palsy, 21 epileptics, some 30 with curvature of the spine and about 200 leg amputees. The number of such employes constitute about 20 per cent of the company's total labor force.

Special arrangements for the handicapped with the company are very limited and they are given no preference or special considerations when it comes to production. Lawrence A. Hyland, vice president and general manager of the firm, reports on the company's attitude:

"We have found that regarding these employes of ours, while we may have had a few humanitarian instincts in the beginning, we have forgotten all about that . . . Their workmanship is judged on the same basis as anybody else's, and it is an extraordinarily productive operation for us . . . I would hate to have these people taken away from me because they are among our more valuable employes."

Hyland is then quoted by "Aerospace" as saying: "The human brain is a vastly more complex computer to program than out most elaborate electronic machine. It takes at least 20 years to program the brain through schooling, the influence of the home and parents, and the experience of everyday life. It is a most valuable commodity which God has given to each of us, and He has given it in equal abundance to the physically handicapped."

This explains what might appear at first as a paradox. One might think that the more complicated the world becomes and the industry that must serve it, the more difficult would be the times for those with any handicap. But quite to the contrary, it is this very growing complexity that gives the physically handicapped the opportunity that they or others like them might not have had some years ago.

It is the very nature of industry today, especially the space industry, that puts a premium on the most marketable commodity the handicapped person has — his brain. This is an encouraging thing, not only to those who are handicapped today, but to those who will some day or are now just beginning to enter the labor market with a physical handicap.

It emphasizes to the parents of physically handicapped children the importance of giving these children as thorough an education as is possible and as is commensurate with their abilities. The age of automation which has given added importance to the education of young people has brought about the consideration of the handicapped in a new and much more realistic light.

To be perfectly honest about it, what most of us want in a new car is us. — O. C. Kelley, Onawa Sentinel.

Burma's Swing to Marxism Shocks Southeast Asia

Rangoon, Burma (AP) — Buddhist Burma has smashed arliamentary democracy, es-blished authoritarian rule nd plunged into doctrinaire larxism with a zeal that has unned Southeast Asia.

All this has taken place in ecent months in a corner of e world where apparent ifts in political allegiance ave a direct impact on the ld war. Burma shares bor-rs with 5 nations — neutral-t Laos and India, pro-west-n Pakistan and Thailand, nd Communist China.

The man who brought out this volcanic eruption easy-going Burmese life, en. Ne Win, appears poten-ally the most dangerous an to Western interest to ap-ear in years.

Open criticism of the government is not as obvious as in the past, but plenty of people are willing to talk privately about it.

Particularly vociferous are the business community, which is in the process of losing its position, and the Burmese intellectuals who resent Ne Win's strangulation of parliamentary democracy.

Western observers rank Ne Win along with Nasser of Egypt, Tito of Yugoslavia and Sukarno of Indonesia as a man determined to create a special place for his country in the world.

Unlike Sukarno, he doesn't play ball with his internal Communists, although he remains on the best of terms with the Communist bloc.

Unlike Nasser he has no desires to extend his domain outside his country's borders. Unlike Tito he is a Marxist but not a Communist.

Westerners feel, however, that Ne Win and Burma will have to walk a careful path if they are to evade domination by the Communist bloc.

U.S. Enjoys Favorable Position in Latin America

Washington (AP)—The United States now enjoys "a more favorable position in Latin America than it has for many years," a special study mission for the House of Representatives reported Saturday.

The bipartisan 4-member group said a combination of factors had brought this about.

Latin Americans appreciate the fact that their countries "now figure prominently in consideration at the highest levels of the U.S. government," the report said.

The group, headed by Rep. Armistead I. Selden, Jr. (D-Ala) was asked by the House Foreign Relations Committee to conduct thorough studies and investigations in Latin America in the aftermath of the Cuban crisis.

"The Soviet Union military intervention in Cuba proved to many Latin Americans that U.S. preoccupation with Cuba was justified and did not stem solely from a desire to protect U.S. property," the group's report said.

It added: "Direct United States-Soviet negotiation for removal of Soviet missiles, over Fidel Castro's head, shocked the Latin American sense of dignity and nationalism."

As a result "the appeal of Castro's revolution as a model for solving Latin America's problems has faded perceptibly," the report declared.

The group said U.S. efforts to "eliminate the flow of persons, propaganda, and funds between the Latin American countries and Cuba must be intensified."

Wife's Estate Goes to Cassini

New York (AP) — The will of the late Charlene Cassini, wife of society columnist Igor Cassini, leaves him the bulk of her estate, valued at "approximately $100,000."

Mrs. Cassini, 38, died Tuesday of what police said was an apparent overdose of barbiturates. Her will, dated last Feb. 8 — the same day her husband was indicted by a federal grand jury—was filed for probate.

She left Cassini, her second husband, stock in a cooperative apartment and the apartment's furnishings and art objects, as well as the residue of the estate.

McNamara has denied that anything but merit influenced his decision and contended General Dynamics will produce a better plane at an ultimate $1-billion saving.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) has recessed the hearings while specialists figure how much extra it might cost to embrace in the General Dynamics version some features of the rejected Boeing design.

Closed Senate Sessions Are Seldom a Success

Washington (AP)—It could be another 20 years before the Senate is tempted into another secret session, barring the press and public while it debates important issues involving taxpayer dollars.

It revived the practice Thursday for the first time since 1943 to discuss military secrets underlying a row over the armed forces' anti-missile missile program.

The upshot was a 58-16 roll call knocking from a $15-billion military authorization bill a proposed $196-million speedup of the Nike-Zeus missile defense system.

The vote was a defeat for Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC), who had forced the closed session so he could present military secrets in favor of the speedup.

Confirming colleagues' reports that his speech had received applause and rounds of personal congratulations before the Senate voted down the speedup, Thurmond told a reporter:

"Never have I seen so much congratulation supported by so few votes."

As a keeper of secrets, closed Senate sessions seldom have been a howling success. It wasn't long before newsmen were pretty well aware of the gist of what happened in this one.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), the majority leader, expressed hope it would be at least 25 years before the Senate tries it again. Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) proposed a new rule to require a majority vote to bar press and public from Senate sessions. Any two senators can force a secret session now.

Despite the rebuff to Thurmond, newsmen learned, the secret debate sparked opposition in some unexpected quarters to policies of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Many senators viewed the Zeus vote as more a personal victory for Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), than for McNamara, although both opposed Thurmond's speedup proposal.

It was learned Thurmond argued that Russia already is deploying missiles which, like Zeus, are designed to kill attacking missiles and that the Pentagon rates the Russian version as possibly less effective than Zeus.

Senators said a swelling controversy over McNamara's award of the $6.5-billion TFX fighter-bomber job did not escape mention in the closed debate.

The Senate investigations subcommittee is exploring now whether favoritism might explain why civilian defense chiefs picked the General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., although military evaluators had reported the Boeing Co. of Seattle promised a better, cheaper version of the TFX (tactical fighter, experimental). McNamara has denied that anything but merit influenced his decision and contended General Dynamics will produce a better plane at an ultimate $1-billion saving.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) has recessed the hearings while specialists figure how much extra it might cost to embrace in the General Dynamics version some features of the rejected Boeing design.

Exiles' Bay of Pigs Invasion Was Doomed From Start

By BEM PRICE and THEODORE A. EDIGER, AP

For the waiting, watchful Cuban troops of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, the sudden appearance of the U.S. warship in the glare of the Cayo Guano light was the final tipoff.

Cayo Guano is at the head of the Bay of Pigs and southeast of Havana.

Obviously, the long awaited invasion was about to begin. Cuban radios began drumming out the alert order in Morse code:

"Place yourself on a work status. Urgent."

And so the invasion of Cuba at the Bay of Pigs by 1,500 armed opponents of Fidel Castro on April 17, 1961—two years ago next Wednesday—was doomed.

The now known facts indicate that it was a failure from the outset.

Bitter survivors of that ill-fated expedition, claiming betrayal by the United States, assert:

A U.S. aircraft carrier operating under the code name "Santiago" was within 20 miles of the invasion beach with jets and propeller driven fighters aboard painted with the blue identifying stripe of the anti-Castro brigade.

None Attacked

While some of these airplanes were airborne during the critical assault phase, none attacked. Qualified sources in Washington identify this carrier as the boxer.

There was ample, though unused, gunfire support available among the U.S. warships within sight of the landing beach. These ships—a cruiser, at least one frigate and several destroyers—had escorted the invaders' convoy from Nicaragua to Cuba.

Until the landing craft actually started ashore there had been no final selection of a beachhead area—and no reconnaissance either.

Neither the invaders' mission nor immediate objectives had been defined. They just hoped the United States would straighten things out once they got ashore.

The whole business began in earnest in May 1960. It set in motion a train of events the end of which is not yet in sight—and it was costly.

It cost the lives of 81 of the invaders, not including 4 American flyers who piloted two B-26 light bombers, and resulted in the wounding of 60.

It cost $45 million to execute, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, reportedly told a Senate Committee.

It cost upwards of $53 million to ransom the invasion survivors from Cuban prisons.

It has cost $75 million to date to support 200,000 Cuban refugees whose homeland is now closed to them because the invasion failed.

It cost the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which masterminded the operation, a considerable portion of its reputation for competence.

Image Tarnished

And it tarnished the image of the United States as a nation of high moral persuasion in the conduct of international affairs, coming as it did within a year of the U2 spy plane affair with the Soviet Union.

Just when the invasion scheme was hatched first is not yet clear, but it apparently began germinating sometime early in 1960 shortly after Castro began expropriating U.S.-owned properties in Cuba.

By Aug. 24, 1960, Castro was charging that the CIA was organizing adherents of the former Cuban dictator, Fulgencio Batista, in Guatemala for an invasion of Cuba.

During January, 1961, unmarked planes began making frequent night flights from long unused airfields at Clewiston and Opa-Locka, Fla. As it turned out, they were carrying volunteers to Guatemala.

And it was in January that 4 members of the Alabama National Guard, all former pilots of the World War II light bomber, the B26, were recruited.

While the U.S. pilots were taking their Cuban counterparts in tow, the infantry was being trained under the over-all direction of a man identified by the refugees as a Filipino who went by the name of Col. Vallejo.

Guerrilla Training

From [illegible] 1960 to November, the anti-Castro Cubans were given guerrilla training. In November the training was shifted to straight World War II infantry tactics.

On April 15 3 rocket-firing B26s struck at 3 Cuban air bases, two just outside Havana and the third at Santiago de Cuba.

The planes were to have knocked out Castro's air force, consisting of U.S.-made T33 jet trainers, British Sea-furies and B26 bombers.

They failed, but there was no followup air strike on April 16—and no news either. Now it was April 17. All day Havana radio played soothing music, interspersed with soap operas and a lecture on how young lovers should behave.

From time to time, however, the programs were interrupted by urgent orders for all militia to report to their duty stations.

On April 20 Havana radio announced the invasion attempt had been crushed. Meanwhile, a dragnet was out for anyone suspected of harboring the slightest anti-Castro sentiments. In Havana alone some 200,000 were rounded up and stuffed into any place with a wall around it.

Any possible sympathy uprising was thus crushed at the outset.

What had happened?

Dagoberto Darias, 49, once wealthy Cuban businessman and a coffee expert, was chief officer of the Rio Escondido, one of the ships in the invasion force. In an interview in Miami, Darias said:

". . . When disembarkation began it was under an aerial battle between our planes and Fidel's.

"On April 18 we received a radiogram from the American aircraft carrier 'Santiago,' telling us that at 2:30 p.m. that day we would get air support from 6 P51 planes (World War II fighters) . . .

"At 2:30 we saw two planes cross. A minute later two others went towards Cuba. Immediately afterward the first two planes returned . . . the others followed.

"From that moment we knew the war was lost for us and that we had been the victims of a great betrayal."

Were the Cuban invaders ever promised air cover? Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, brother to the President, said in a magazine interview this year that at no time had the United States ever promised military air support.

The key word is "military," that is, uniformed pilots in U.S. marked planes.

By the morning of the 19th, the men were giving up the hopeless fight. They were out of ammunition and Castro's planes dominated the air.

That was that. It was a total disaster.

Clear view . . . Dr. Keilin and his water filter membrane.

Space-Age Filter May Hold Answer to Detergent Problem

By RALPH DIGHTON

Los Angeles (AP)—A scientist hunting ways to purify human wastes in space craft believes he has an answer to the problem of how to get rid of sewer and river-fouling detergents.

It's a filter so new that not even its inventor knows exactly why it works—and it could play an important part in solving water shortages predicted for an overcrowded 21st century world.

The filter is a thin plastic membrane of cellulose acetate with molecules packed in such a way, says Dr. B. Keilin of Aerojet General Corp., that it screens out all contaminants.

"We are confident this filter could save 90 per cent of the water that cities now discard," Keilin says.

The membrane blocks not only bacteria and the salts of the body wastes, says Keilin, but also incredibly tiny viruses and detergents.

Detergents go on foaming indefinitely, clogging sewers and interfering with processing in sewage treatment plants. Settling basins precipitate most pollutants from sewage, but detergents remain suspended in the water and slip out to contaminate rivers. They seep through the subsoil and find their way into underground water sources.

They leave a bitter taste and some authorities believe detergents may be detrimental to health.

Keilin says his filter is the only one he knows of which effectively and economically stops detergents.

"The best distillation processes run about $1 per 1,000 gallons," he says. "Our filter cuts this to 25 cents per thousand gallons."

Keilin says his filter stops viruses cold. "Our tests show that water which has passed through the membrane is absolutely sterile," he says.

Keilin so far has worked with small test rigs in his laboratory. A 1,000-gallon-a-day pilot plant now being built will be about the size of a desk.

In each apparatus the filter membrane—or a series of membranes if necessary—is inserted in a pipe carrying contaminated water.

Keilin won't disclose the cost of the membrane but says it is negligible. The major cost, he says, lies in the plumbing and pumps to provide the pressure — 750 pounds per square inch—to force water through the membrane.

Contaminants blocked by the membrane are drawn off periodically.

Keilin says the membrane never clogs and lasts, even under heavy use, for 6 months or more.

"The major application of the filter, as I see it, lies in its ability to conserve the fresh water already available," says Keilin.

Exiles May Release Letter

'Embarrassing To President'

Miami (UPI) — The Cuban (exile) Revolutionary Council meets here Monday to decide whether to make public a document on Cuba it said could be "highly embarrassing" for the Kennedy administration.

A council spokesman said the extraordinary session of the council has been convoked to consider release of a 22-page resignation letter submitted by Council President Dr. Jose Miro Cardona. The council this week unanimously rejected Miro's resignation as chief of the largest Cuban exile organization.

The letter reportedly details public and private assertions made by President Kennedy and other U.S. officials concerning the eventual liberation of Communist Cuba.

If the letter is made public it could be "highly embarrassing" for the administration, one Cuban source said.

One council member said he will call for all members to endorse Miro Cardona's letter before releasing it.

The Council, in rejecting Miro's resignation, in effect broke with the Kennedy administration with which it had been closely identified. The council was created originally to serve as nominal sponsor of the abortive and American-planned Bay of Pigs invasion.

Miro has been a frequent White House visitor.

His break with the administration, according to his close associates, was in protest of the U.S. decision to curb anti-Castro raids and the apparent absence of a cohesive policy aimed at eliminating communism from Cuba.

Exiles here openly describe the present U.S. Cuban policy as "coexistance with communism in the Western Hemisphere."

Some Cubans were hopeful that Kennedy would take advantage of his presence in Palm Beach to summon Miro, as he has done in the past, and give assurances the United States has not adopted a policy of peaceful coexistence with the Communist regime of Premier Fidel Castro.

Also on the agenda for the Monday council meeting is an analysis of alleged U.S. State Dept. and administration "official leaks," which council members say were aimed at discrediting Miro.

Rare Bird Safe

Wellington, New Zealand (AP) — Three government hunters killed 1,600 deer in rugged Fiordland National Park recently because a rising deer population there threatened to consume all the snowgrass essential for the survival of the wingless takahe. One of the world's rarest birds, the takahe was rediscovered in the South Island park in 1948. The hunters reported sighting 30 of them.

Spaak to Israel

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — Foreign Minister Paul-Henr Spaak will begin a 7-day visi to Israel April 21, the government announced.

Reno Police Hold Youth

Reno, Nev. (UPI) — Police Saturday announced the arrest of an 18-year-old boy as a suspect in the decapitation slaying of onetime British Olympic skier Sonja McCaskle.

Dist. Atty. William Raggio identified the teen-ager as Thomas Bean of Reno.

"I am definitely satisfied this is the man," Raggio said. "He is going to assist us in the further investigation of the case."

Neither the district attorney nor police chief Elmer Briscoe would say what lead to the arrest. After calling a press conference to announce the arrest, the two law officials took the youth to the victim's apartment where they asked him to re-enact the crime.

Space-Age Filter May Hold Answer to Detergent Problem

By RALPH DIGHTON

Los Angeles (AP)—A scientist hunting ways to purify human wastes in space craft believes he has an answer to the problem of how to get rid of sewer and river-fouling detergents.

It's a filter so new that not even its inventor knows exactly why it works—and it could play an important part in solving water shortages predicted for an overcrowded 21st century world.

The filter is a thin plastic membrane of cellulose acetate with molecules packed in such a way, says Dr. B. Keilin of Aerojet General Corp., that it screens out all contaminants.

"We are confident this filter could save 90 per cent of the water that cities now discard," Keilin says.

The membrane blocks not only bacteria and the salts of the body wastes, says Keilin, but also incredibly tiny viruses and detergents.

Detergents go on foaming indefinitely, clogging sewers and interfering with processing in sewage treatment plants. Settling basins precipitate most pollutants from sewage, but detergents remain suspended in the water and slip out to contaminate rivers. They seep through the subsoil and find their way into underground water sources.

They leave a bitter taste and some authorities believe detergents may be detrimental to health.

Keilin says his filter is the only one he knows of which effectively and economically stops detergents.

"The best distillation processes run about $1 per 1,000 gallons," he says. "Our filter cuts this to 25 cents per thousand gallons."

Keilin says his filter stops viruses cold. "Our tests show that water which has passed through the membrane is absolutely sterile," he says.

Keilin so far has worked with small test rigs in his laboratory. A 1,000-gallon-a-day pilot plant now being built will be about the size of a desk.

In each apparatus the filter membrane—or a series of membranes if necessary—is inserted in a pipe carrying contaminated water.

Keilin won't disclose the cost of the membrane but says it is negligible. The major cost, he says, lies in the plumbing and pumps to provide the pressure — 750 pounds per square inch—to force water through the membrane.

Contaminants blocked by the membrane are drawn off periodically.

Keilin says the membrane never clogs and lasts, even under heavy use, for 6 months or more.

"The major application of the filter, as I see it, lies in its ability to conserve the fresh water already available," says Keilin.

Exiles May Release Letter

'Embarrassing To President'

Miami (UPI) — The Cuban (exile) Revolutionary Council meets here Monday to decide whether to make public a document on Cuba it said could be "highly embarrassing" for the Kennedy administration.

A council spokesman said the extraordinary session of the council has been convoked to consider release of a 22-page resignation letter submitted by Council President Dr. Jose Miro Cardona. The council this week unanimously rejected Miro's resignation as chief of the largest Cuban exile organization.

The letter reportedly details public and private assertions made by President Kennedy and other U.S. officials concerning the eventual liberation of Communist Cuba.

If the letter is made public it could be "highly embarrassing" for the administration, one Cuban source said.

One council member said he will call for all members to endorse Miro Cardona's letter before releasing it.

The Council, in rejecting Miro's resignation, in effect broke with the Kennedy administration with which it had been closely identified. The council was created originally to serve as nominal sponsor of the abortive and American-planned Bay of Pigs invasion.

Miro has been a frequent White House visitor.

His break with the administration, according to his close associates, was in protest of the U.S. decision to curb anti-Castro raids and the apparent absence of a cohesive policy aimed at eliminating communism from Cuba.

Exiles here openly describe the present U.S. Cuban policy as "coexistance with communism in the Western Hemisphere."

Some Cubans were hopeful that Kennedy would take advantage of his presence in Palm Beach to summon Miro, as he has done in the past, and give assurances the United States has not adopted a policy of peaceful coexistence with the Communist regime of Premier Fidel Castro.

Also on the agenda for the Monday council meeting is an analysis of alleged U.S. State Dept. and administration "official leaks," which council members say were aimed at discrediting Miro.

Rare Bird Safe

Wellington, New Zealand (AP) — Three government hunters killed 1,600 deer in rugged Fiordland National Park recently because a rising deer population there threatened to consume all the snowgrass essential for the survival of the wingless takahe. One of the world's rarest birds, the takahe was rediscovered in the South Island park in 1948. The hunters reported sighting 30 of them.

Spaak to Israel

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — Foreign Minister Paul-Henr Spaak will begin a 7-day visi to Israel April 21, the govern ment announced.

Reno Police Hold Youth

Reno, Nev. (UPI) — Police Saturday announced the arrest of an 18-year-old boy as a suspect in the decapitation slaying of onetime British Olympic skier Sonja McCaskie.

Dist. Atty. William Raggio identified the teen-ager as Thomas Bean of Reno.

"I am definitely satisfied this is the man," Raggio said. "He is going to assist us in the further investigation of the case."

Neither the district attorney nor police chief Elme Briscoe would say what lead to the arrest. After calling a press conference to announce the arrest, the two law officials took the youth to the victim's apartment where they asked him to re-enact the crime.

Exchange Planning Big Move

New York—The New York Stock Exchange may move to a new location—to the so-called Battery Park Urban Renewal Area at the foot of Broad St.

Several public agencies will consider the proposal during the next few months.

The NYSE feels the change would provide ample space for its expanded trading facilities, and would anchor the southern end of the financial district.

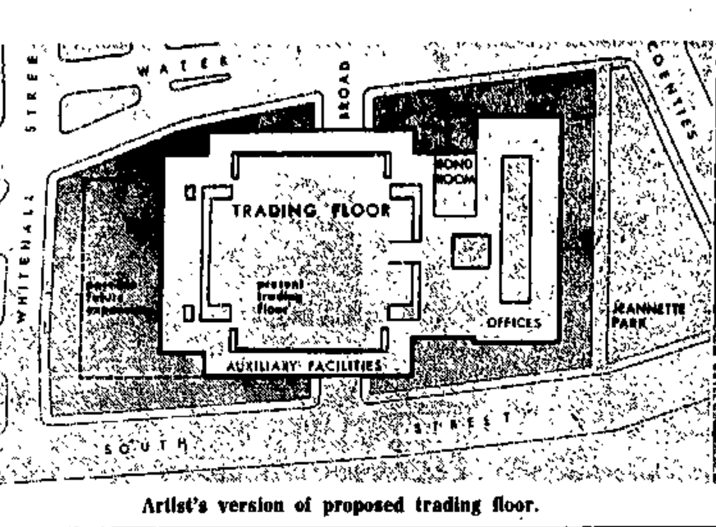
Water St. would be widened. Nearby Jeanette Park would be rebuilt.

The exchange plans to erect a large, low Trading Floor structure and an adjoining office building for related exchange operations.

The NYSE's proposed new home is approximately 460 yards south of its present location at the southern end of Manhattan Island.

Cost of land for the new location is estimated to be "less than 12 million."

A look at the inside of the proposed 56,000-sq.-ft. trading floor.



Artist's version of proposed trading floor.

Building would enhance "gateway" to New York.

Securities Trading Is Violent

New York (UPI) — Stocks crashed through to new 1963 highs on fits of violent trading last week climaxed as President Kennedy gave apparent approval of selective price increases for the steel industry.

Trading over the abbreviated 4-day pre-Easter period averaged better than 5 million shares daily while the popular averages ground out their 6th consecutive weekly gain.

Early in the week when the market rose moderately, the action was largely based on strong signs of a spring business upturn balanced against trader profit-taking and selling to raise cash for the approaching 1962 tax payment deadline.

The stimuli changed abruptly at mid-week, however, when the threat of a new steel price crisis emerged from a surprise $6 a ton average price boost on some products by Wheeling Steel Corp., the nation's 11th largest producer.

Steel shares responded initially on Wednesday with big gains but the whole market temporarily collapsed in a selling spasm that afternoon when it appeared the president had delayed an Easter trip to Palm Beach to study the steel situation.

Prices firmed slowly late Wednesday and through most of Thursday only to zoom ahead in the final hour of the week when the President indicated he might accept selective steel price boosts within the framework of supply and demand, although he warned the industry against a general, across-the-board increase.

Flynn stressed that the association will strive for the betterment of the used car business in the city through increased quality, service and integrity by independent dealers.

He reaffirmed the continuance of support for Sunday closing by all independent auto dealers.

The association is made up of 14 of the 25 independent used car dealers in the city.

Protest Kept Shipping Rate Hike 'Lower'

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Traffic Dept. reports that its protest of proposed shipment rate hikes resulted in rate increases that were less than had been requested.

The State Railway Commission has authorized Nebraska Motor Carriers to increase less-than-truckload and any quantity intrastate rates on shipments weighing less than 2,000 lbs., including minimum charge shipments.

Effective Apr. 1, 1963, existing intrastate rates, for shipments under 2,000 lbs. were hiked 5%. Minimum charges were increased 15c per shipment, effective the same date, canceling temporary hikes granted last July.

Exchange Planning Big Move

New York—The New York Stock Exchange may move to a new location—to the so-called Battery Park Urban Renewal Area at the foot of Broad St.

Several public agencies will consider the proposal during the next few months.

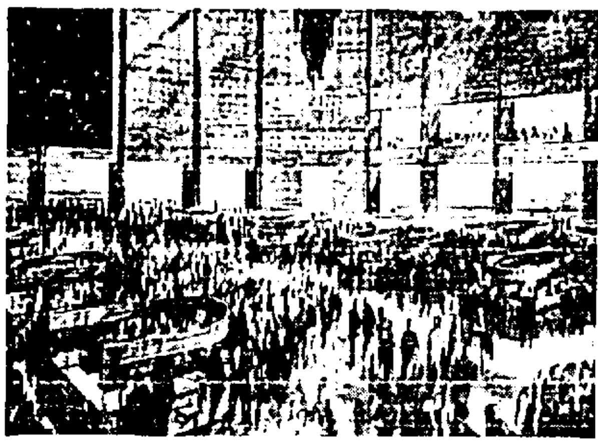
The NYSE feels the change would provide ample space for its expanded trading facilities, and would anchor the southern end of the financial district.

Water St. would be widened. Nearby Jeanette Park would be rebuilt.

The exchange plans to erect a large, low Trading Floor structure and an adjoining office building for related exchange operations.

The NYSE's proposed new home is approximately 460 yards south of its present location at the southern end of Manhattan Island.

Cost of land for the new location is estimated to be "less than 12 million."



A look at the inside of the proposed 56,000-sq.-ft. trading floor.

Building would enhance "gateway" to New York.

Securities Trading Is Violent

New York (UPI) — Stocks crashed through to new 1963 highs on fits of violent trading last week climaxed as President Kennedy gave apparent approval of selective price increases for the steel industry.

Trading over the abbreviated 4-day pre-Easter period averaged better than 5 million shares daily while the popular averages ground out their 6th consecutive weekly gain.

Early in the week when the market rose moderately, the action was largely based on strong signs of a spring business upturn balanced against trader profit-taking and selling to raise cash for the approaching 1962 tax payment deadline.

The stimuli changed abruptly at mid-week, however, when the threat of a new steel price crisis emerged from a surprise $6 a ton average price boost on some products by Wheeling Steel Corp, the nation's 11th largest producer.

Steel shares responded initially on Wednesday with big gains but the whole market temporarily collapsed in a selling spasm that afternoon when it appeared the president had delayed an Easter trip to Palm Beach to study the steel situation.

Prices firmed slowly late Wednesday and through most of Thursday only to zoom ahead in the final hour of the week when the President indicated he might accept selective steel price boosts within the framework of supply and demand, although he warned the industry against a general, across-the-board increase.

He reaffirmed the continuance of support for Sunday closing by all independent auto dealers.

The association is made up of 14 of the 25 independent used car dealers in the city.

Protest Kept Shipping Rate Hike 'Lower'

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Traffic Dept. reports that its protest of proposed shipment rate hikes resulted in rate increases that were less than had been requested.

The State Railway Commission has authorized Nebraska Motor Carriers to increase less-than-truckload and any quantity intrastate rates on shipments weighing less than 2,000 lbs., including minimum charge shipments.

Effective Apr. 1, 1963, existing intrastate rates, for shipments under 2,000 lbs. were hiked 5%. Minimum charges were increased 15c per shipment, effective the same date, canceling temporary hikes granted last July.

May Deliveries Are Strong in Grain Mart

Chicago (UPI)—Strength in May deliveries highlighted an irregular grain futures market last week on the Board of Trade.

Most interest centered on the old crop May contracts during the holiday-shortened period, although the general trade was slower than the previous week.

Fairly active export business in wheat and corn and a bullishly interpreted government report of grain stocks on farms as of April 1 bolstered nearby deliveries.

Wheat stocks of 195 million bushels compared with 211 million a year ago. Corn stocks fell to 2,002 million bushels from 2,148 million last year, and soybeans showed 135 million bushels against 164 million in 1962.

May wheat borrowed strength from firmer prices for cash red and hard wheat and higher markets at Kansas City and Minneapolis. Demand was active for wheat in the southwest.

New crop wheat weakened as a result of good growing weather and a government estimate on the winter wheat crop of 929,944,000 bushels, well above production of last year. The uncertain fate of a wheat referendum to be held May 21 also curbed buying interest.

Corn supplies were heavy as the Commodity Credit Corp. and country elevators sold freely. But the offerings were easily absorbed, and nearby prices firmed.

Favorable weather signs of increased acreage this year had an effect on new crop corn.

The soybean market was slower than the previous week, and prices were uneven.

Beatrice Foods To Meet Here; Sales, Net Up

Beatrice Foods, Chicago-headquartered firm, plans to hold its 65th anniversary annual meeting in its original "home" town Lincoln, on June 1 at Pershing Auditorium.

Beatrice sales for the first 11 months of the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1963, were 5% ahead of the comparable period a year earlier.

Earnings will exceed those of the previous year for the 11th year in a row and total dollar earnings will reach an alltime high, the company predicts.

The current fiscal year's dividend rate has been hiked 26⅔c, or 17%, over the previous annual rate of $1.60 per share.

Arbor Lodge Park to Open

Beginning Monday, Arbor Lodge historical park at Nebraska City will be open to the public, M. O. Steen, Game Commission director said.

Last year 106,716 persons from the United States and foreign countries visited the historic mansion.

Visiting hours are from 1 to 6 p.m. daily. Beginning June 1 through Sept. 15 the mansion will also be open from 10 a.m. to noon except on Sundays. Guided tours are given daily through the mansion.

Arbor Lodge is the former home of J. Sterling Morton, originator of Arbor Day.

Spring Here

Dallas, Tex. (UPI)—Police reported thefts of fishing equipment, lawn mowers, picnic gear—and an increase in dog bites.

Steadiness In Cattle

Omaha (UPI)—The fat cattle trade at Omaha took a roller coaster ride last week, falling early, climbing in the middle days and tumbling again at the end of the week.

But the mid-week recovery held the week's trend to mostly steady, with some steers 1,150 pounds and heavier a quarter lower. Most other livestock, however, sold steady to higher.

The best steers in the week's run scored $24 and fed heifers reached the same peak. Other steers, yearlings and heifers were bracketed at $21.50 to $23.75.

The USDA figured the average price for steers at $22.60, down 13c from a week earlier and off $2.64 from a year ago. The price average, however, reflected opening declines more than the subsequent recovery.

Heifer prices averaged $22.38, down a dime from a week earlier.

Cows climbed a quarter to a half-dollar.

Choice steers weighing 1-118 pounds and already carrying considerable finish went back out at $23.00 and there were 874 pounders at $24.

Butcher hogs advanced 25 to 50 cents with the bulk gaining a quarter.

Weights from 190 to 360 pounds sold at $12.50 to $14.75.

Sows were firm to up a quarter with prices ranging from $11.25 to $13.

Old crop wooled slaughter lambs were 25 to 50c higher and shorn improved a dollar.

Good Farm Pond Fishing Result of Management

Your farm pond need not be a deep dark secret.

Many farm owners question the status of their ponds and then ask, "How do we tell what we have for fish?", or "What has happened to the good fishing we once had and now only produces small stunted fish?"

There are a lot of things in common between good farming and the management of a farm pond, according to Monte Madsen, assistant in fishing management for the State Game, Forestation and Parks Commission.

If a farmer puts out a crop and then forgets for several years to check the results he might have a condition similar to that of the farm pond that he built, stocked and then forgot about for the next 5 years, Madsen says.

"Many land owners are not aware that the Game Commission will aid them in checking their ponds and assist with problems that may be hampering good fishing," explains Madsen.

When Madsen arrives at a landowners place he is first interested in the age of the pond, its depth, previous source of runoff water.

"We like to find a minimum depth of feed in a farm pond to provide protection from winter kill, one of the things that can destroy fish," says Madsen.

If the water depth is sufficient, the run off water is coming from grass covered land and everything else seems to be in order on a blue gill and bass pond, Madsen will probably ask, "Has anyone ever placed any bullheads in the pond?"

Bullheads in a bluegill and bass pond soon upset the fish population and the result is a lot of stunted bluegill and bullheads that soon overpopulate the pond.

"It is just like having 10 times too many cattle in a pasture. There is not enough food and the bullheads usually end up destroying bass reproduction," says Madsen.

If you like to fish for bullheads Madsen recommends a shallow pond that is subject to winter kill to keep population in balance with available food.

"Our Sandhill ponds are good for this," he says.

One of the main troubles with farm ponds is that they just don't get enough fishing, according to Madsen.

The farm owner that worrys about too many people fishing in his pond can rest easier after talking to Madsen. "It is almost impossible to have too much hook and line fishing and the only thing you could overfish might be bass which is unlikely," Madsen said.

For the answer of what the farm pond holds, Madsen and his co-workers like to seine the pond to secure samplings of the fish population.

Another reason for stunted fish comes when bluegill alone are in a pond without the bass as predator fish, Madsen explains.

By keeping a farm pond in balance on fish species and population, much enjoyment and sport can be supplied.

The farmer must keep in mind that regular harvesting of his fish is as important to good management as timely harvest of the crops, Madsen says.

'Farm' Isn't Concern, As Such

Unemployment Is Problem

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington (AP) — The question is beginning to be debated as to whether this country actually has a farm problem as such.

Certainly it is generally agreed among farm leaders, members of Congress, and social and economic scientists that there is a surplus of manpower catalogued as belonging to agriculture. Too, there is agreement, perhaps not so wide, that agriculture produces too much.

But many are beginning to look upon what is generally classed as the farm problem - surplus manpower, surplus production and inadequate farm returns—is nothing more than a reflection of a greater problem.

This greater problem is one of unemployment and underemployment. And it exists in urban areas as well as in rural areas.

For the most part, the rural unemployment and underemployment reflect the great scientific and technological advances agriculture has made since World War II. Using this new knowledge, new techniques and new machinery, agriculture requires fewer men.

But the same thing is happening in the cities. Automation is reducing the need for men.

There are many in agriculture who believe that if the nation were able to expand its economy sufficiently to provide work for the unemployed and underemployed—whether they live in urban or rural areas — farm production would tend to stabilize with a minimum of government help.

They say that as national employment increased and continued to increase, and as agriculture grew more and more efficient, there would be a gradual decline in the number of farms. Year by year, the less efficient would tend to shift to other work or activities — if they are available.

Those remaining in agriculture would have to become more and more expert in their fields.

It is contended that full employment in the nation would greatly increase the demand for food — particularly of meats, dairy products, fruits and vegetables.

Certainly, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman is giving more and more attention to the unemployment and underemployment aspects of rural America. He has estimated that there is the equivalent of 4 million unemployed in rural areas, including small towns.

NU Students Go on Tour

Thirty-five University of Nebraska students will leave Tuesday for a 1,200 mile livestock tour in Kansas and Oklahoma.

The group will visit the ranches of well-known purebred cattle breeders and commercial cattle raisers; the Fort Reno agricultural experiment station in Oklahoma; the Codding-Armour research facility at Foraker, Okla.; and a quarter horse ranch. Another highlight of the tour will be a stop at the C. K. Ranch, Brookville, Kan., the largest ranch raising registered Hereford cattle in the United States.

May Deliveries Are Strong in Grain Mart

Chicago (UPI)—Strength in May deliveries highlighted an irregular grain futures market last week on the Board of Trade.

Most interest centered on the old crop May contracts during the holiday-shortened period, although the general trade was slower than the previous week.

Fairly active export business in wheat and corn and a bullishly interpreted government report of grain stocks on farms as of April 1 bolstered nearby deliveries.

Wheat stocks of 195 million bushels compared with 211 million a year ago. Corn stocks fell to 2,002 million bushels from 2,148 million last year, and soybeans showed 135 million bushels against 164 million in 1962.

May wheat borrowed strength from firmer prices for cash red and hard wheat and higher markets at Kansas City and Minneapolis. Demand was active for wheat in the southwest.

New crop wheat weakened as a result of good growing weather and a government estimate on the winter wheat crop of 929,944,000 bushels, well above production of last year. The uncertain fate of a wheat referendum to be held May 21 also curbed buying interest.

Corn supplies were heavy as the Commodity Credit Corp. and country elevators sold freely. But the offerings were easily absorbed, and nearby prices firmed.

Favorable weather signs of increased acreage this year had an effect on new crop corn.

The soybean market was slower than the previous week, and prices were uneven.

Steadiness In Cattle

Omaha (UPI)—The fat cattle trade at Omaha took a roller coaster ride last week, falling early, climbing in the middle days and tumbling again at the end of the week.

But the mid-week recovery held the week's trend to mostly steady, with some steers 1,150 pounds and heavier a quarter lower. Most other livestock, however, sold steady to higher.

The best steers in the week's run scored $24 and fed heifers reached the same peak. Other steers, yearlings and heifers were bracketed at $21.50 to $23.75.

The USDA figured the average price for steers at $22.60, down 13c from a week earlier and off $2.64 from a year ago. The price average, however, reflected opening declines more than the subsequent recovery.

Heifer prices averaged $22.38, down a dime from a week earlier.

Cows climbed a quarter to a half-dollar.

Choice steers weighing 1-118 pounds and already carrying considerable finish went back out at $23.60 and there were 874 pounders at $24.

Butcher hogs advanced 25 to 50 cents with the bulk gaining a quarter.

Weights from 190 to 360 pounds sold at $12.50 to $14.75.

Sows were firm to up a quarter with prices ranging from $11.25 to $13.

Old crop wooled slaughter lambs were 25 to 50c higher and shorn improved a dollar.

Good Farm Pond Fishing Result of Management

Madsen checks farm pond with stunted fish

Your farm pond need not be a deep dark secret.

Many farm owners question the status of their ponds and then ask, "How do we tell what we have for fish?", or "What has happened to the good fishing we once had and now only produces small stunted fish?"

There are a lot of things in common between good farming and the management of a farm pond, according to Monte Madsen, assistant in fishing management for the State Game, Forestation and Parks Commission.

If a farmer puts out a crop and then forgets for several years to check the results he might have a condition similar to that of the farm pond that he built, stocked and then forgot about for the next 5 years, Madsen says.

"Many land owners are not aware that the Game Commission will aid them in checking their ponds and assist with problems that may be hampering good fishing," explains Madsen.

When Madsen arrives at a landowners place he is first interested in the age of the pond, its depth, previous source of runoff water.

"We like to find a minimum depth of feed in a farm pond to provide protection from winter kill, one of the things that can destroy fish," says Madsen.

If the water depth is sufficient, the run off water is coming from grass covered land and everything else seems to be in order on a blue gill and bass pond, Madsen will probably ask, "Has anyone ever placed any bullheads in the pond?"

Bullheads in a bluegill and bass pond soon upset the fish population and the result is a lot of stunted bluegill and bullheads that soon overpopulate the pond.

"It is just like having 10 times too many cattle in a pasture. There is not enough food and the bullheads usually end up destroying bass reproduction," says Madsen.

If you like to fish for bullheads Madsen recommends a shallow pond that is subject to winter kill to keep population in balance with available food.

"Our Sandhill ponds are good for this," he says.

One of the main troubles with farm ponds is that they just don't get enough fishing, according to Madsen.

The farm owner that worrys about too many people fishing in his pond can rest easier after talking to Madsen. "It is almost impossible to have too much hook and line fishing and the only thing you could overfish might be bass which is unlikely," Madsen said.

For the answer of what the farm pond holds, Madsen and his co-workers like to seine the pond to secure samplings of the fish population.

Another reason for stunted fish comes when bluegill alone are in a pond without the bass as predator fish, Madsen explains.

By keeping a farm pond in balance on fish species and population, much enjoyment and sport can be supplied.

The farmer must keep in mind that regular harvesting of his fish is as important to good management as timely harvest of the crops, Madsen says.

'Farm' Isn't Concern, As Such

Unemployment Is Problem

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington (AP) — The question is beginning to be debated as to whether this country actually has a farm problem as such.

Certainly it is generally agreed among farm leaders, members of Congress, and social and economic scientists that there is a surplus of manpower catalogued as belonging to agriculture. Too, there is agreement, perhaps not so wide, that agriculture produces too much.

But many are beginning to look upon what is generally classed as the farm problem — surplus manpower, surplus production and inadequate farm returns—is nothing more than a reflection of a greater problem.

This greater problem is one of unemployment and underemployment. And it exists in urban areas as well as in rural areas.

For the most part, the rural unemployment and underemployment reflect the great scientific and technological advances agriculture has made since World War II. Using this new knowledge, new techniques and new machinery, agriculture requires fewer men.

But the same thing is happening in the cities. Automation is reducing the need for men.

There are many in agriculture who believe that if the nation were able to expand its economy sufficiently to provide work for the unemployed and underemployed—whether they live in urban or rural areas — farm production would tend to stabilize with a minimum of government help.

They say that as national employment increased and continued to increase, and as agriculture grew more and more efficient, there would be a gradual decline in the number of farms. Year by year, the less efficient would tend to shift to other work or activities — if they are available.

Those remaining in agriculture would have to become more and more expert in their fields.

It is contended that full employment in the nation would greatly increase the demand for food — particularly of meats, dairy products, fruits and vegetables.

Certainly, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman is giving more and more attention to the unemployment and underemployment aspects of rural America. He has estimated that there is the equivalent of 4 million unemployed in rural areas, including small towns.

Bobby No. 2 Man With Sporting Chance for Top Spot

By ARTHUR EDSON

Washington (AP)—During the frantic Democratic primaries of 1960 two brothers met at a West Virginia airport

"Hi, Johnny," said Bobby Kennedy, "how are you?"

"Man, I'm tired," said Sen John F Kennedy

"What the hell are you tired for?" asked his campaign manager. "I'm doing all the work."

Then, and now, this fraternal jest contained considerable truth

For Atty Gen Robert F Kennedy deals directly with civil rights, the hottest and most tragic dilemma of our time Yet this, plus his work in battling assorted crime and corruption, doesn't keep him fully occupied and he is apt to grow restive

So when difficulties arise far from the Justice Dept 's normal haunts—Cuba, for instance—President Kennedy turns to operation SFB "Send for Bobby '

Number 2 Man

Most observers agree that Robert Kennedy, because he has the President's ear and confidence, is the No 2 man in Washington, and that because he is young, ambitious and has that magic name he has a sporting chance of becoming No 1

But that is about all they do agree on

With brother John in the White House and brother Edward in the Senate, Robert has managed, on his very own, to be the most hated, the most fiercely supported by loyal co workers, the most prolific (7 children going on 8), the most competitive and the most misunderstood of the 3 extraordinary Kennedy boys

At 37, he has been the subject of one book (laudatory) and of innumerable articles varying from ecstatic to so so to waspish

Tagged 'Ruthless'

Despite these conflicting and often disturbing, endorsements and disapprovals, Bobby Kennedy is almost invariably pictured as a young man on the make who ruthlessly rolls over everyone in his way Indeed of all the adjectives tacked on Bobby, none has stuck as securely as "ruthless"

RFK No 2 man, brother and confidant of JFK

Is this a true picture of the attorney general? Is he, as his foes allege, a man who sees everything in blacks and whites? Or is he as his friends insist, far more complex?

Although he is the most fit attorney general in history he hiked 50 miles in 17 hours, time a Marine could be proud of—at 5 foot 10 and weighing but 150 pounds he looks deceptively fragile Kennedy takes an occasional social drink but he spurns not only cigarets but coffee He is very pro milk

His hair is touched with gray and he occasionally wears glasses for reading, but his manner and manners, his gawky shyness combine to preserve his boyishness

Not a Speaker

Like so many politicians today, Kennedy isn't much of a formal speaker although he or his wordcarvers quotes liberally from the likes of Lincoln, John Adams De Tocqueville Daniel Webster Woodrow Wilson and John F Kennedy

He reads speeches unenthusiastically and is far more convincing talking from notes

He used notes on cards with success in a recent speech at Howard University here Once exclusively for Negroes Howard now accepts all races and 15% of its students are from abroad Kennedy was invited to help the school celebrate international week

He adroitly appealed to the two major segments of his audience by suggesting, as he so often does, that this administration has done more for Negroes than any since Lincoln's, and by reminding foreign students that, whatever this nation's faults, it is struggling to correct them

"We ask for some tolerance and understanding from you" he said

When he finished one address he argued with Negroes who thought he wasn't vigilant enough to civil rights And he wasted no soft soap on foreigners

One student apparently from Africa, launched into a question that was an argument on economic sanctions Kennedy bluntly said, "I couldn't disagree with you more" and zeroed in with a counterattack

At the end he was applauded

Kennedy enjoys young people and tries to work in as many groups as possible

The Kennedys live at Hickory Hill, across the Potomac in McLean, Va It is a big old white house in which the influential or the interesting are entertained

Lived-in Look

But to overemphasize social activities is to mislead For this is not a guest house, but a home and anyone who has been around a large family recognizes the familiar, haphazard, lived-in look

"That place is a madhouse," said one friend, a sedate father of a sedate two

Ethel Kennedy, in strawberry colored slacks and coat with a green sweater, and slowed down (for her) by pregnancy, is sunning herself in a lawn chair and talking about her husband

But parochial schools have the day off, and the conversation is repeatedly broken into

Children of the affluent, like children of the poor, need tears dried and noses wiped and bruises kissed

Wife's Opinion

Between interruptions Ethel is saying

"That ruthless story is so misleading Bobby can be so sensitive so compassionate"

She is sure most people don't understand him at all

"All sides occur to Bobby, too But it's more his nature to get right into it He's a doer"

Judging by what some critics have written about Kennedy they seem to fear he has seasonal convictions changeable with the political weather, that his actions are dictated by politics

It is in the field of civil liberties that these doubts are stressed

These critics look back to his early associations with Sen Joe McCarthy Although his explanation may not satisfy many liberals, Kennedy has always contended McCarthy was led astray into hunting headlines instead of Communists

And he has been quoted as saying of McCarthy

"I liked him and yet at times he was terribly heavy handed He was a very complicated character"

Kennedy's critics also point out that he has worked as investigating counsel and as attorney general, roles never renowned for guarding individual liberties

Wiretapping Bill

They stress that he wants a wiretapping bill

Although those who favor supervised wiretapping call this "the most valuable single weapon in the fight against organized crime," possibly no other piece of legislation causes such alarm "A dirty business," it has been called, "an intolerable violation of civil liberties"

Kennedy shrugs

"Most critics haven't even read the bill," he says

And what of the future? What is ahead for the brother smack in the middle?

Events may bring a quick switch but here are a few guesses

1 Despite the talk about the White House in 1968, it has to be labeled pure speculation This isn't due to modesty but to practicality

2 For the present, Kennedy will stay on as attorney general It is a convenient spot from which to be tapped for those extracurricular chores the President wants done, and it has been challenging in its own right

3 Bobby probably will not quit to manage his brother's 1964 presidential campaign, although this will be reviewed constantly Best bet for campaign manager Brother in-law Steve Smith

4 Eventually Robert Francis Kennedy will run for some office For the Kennedys not only compete against the world but with each other—Jack's won the White House, Teddy the Senate and Bobby has won nothing on his own

Jean Swanson, 9 . . . Ceresco's official Easter Bunny.

500 Eggs Quickly Found By Joyful Ceresco Kids

By BOB MORACZEWSKI

Ceresco — First, there was quiet. The Rev. Paul J. Webster of Ceresco's Convenant Church told the story of Easter.

He told 140 children that Christ's resurrection was like the hatching of chicks from Easter eggs — a new birth.

Then there were cheers, and yells, and joyous screams, and 140 children and their brothers, and their sisters, and their mothers, and their dogs, rushed for the green grass of the city park and 500 hidden Easter eggs.

In short order the children had found every egg the Ceresco Boosters had hidden. Yet it was not over.

Lucky youngsters who found painted eggs turned them in for cash awards of from 5 cents to $1. Then everyone visited with Ceresco's "official" Easter bunny, 9-year-old Jean Swanson, who passed out the chocolate eggs. Jean was dressed in a white bunny suit complete with ears and painted-on whiskers.

Sara Swanson, 17 months . . . got results.

Caution Is Urged

Drivers Told, 'Turn on Lights'

State Traffic Safety Coordinator Tom Ryan has urged motorists in Nebraska to drive with caution during Easter and to cooperate with Gov. Frank Morrison's "lights on" campaign.

Ryan said driving with headlights on "serves notice on other motorists that you are a responsible driver obeying traffic regulations and rules of the road, extending courtesy to your fellow motorists and expecting the same in return.

State Patrol Capt. Dan Casey said no extra patrolmen will be used on the highways during the holiday weekend.

Ryan said there were 261 accidents involving 105 injuries and one death during last year's Easter period or one mishap every 18 minutes and an injury every 45 minutes.

Ski clubs from Wichita and Kansas City, Kan., will present acts including barefoot skiing, jumps; and kite riding.

Post Office Here Has First Labor Parleys

The Lincoln Post Office has started putting into action the Post Office Department's new program of labor-management relations.

For the first time, federal employe organizations are receiving official recognition and the right to negotiate grievances, working conditions, personnel practices and related matters.

Recognition is based on results of the largest nationwide labor management election ever held. Over 451,000 postal employes voted last year, with workers in each postal craft selecting the union they wanted to represent them in each post office.

Acting Postmaster Kenneth P. Lewis said negotiations have begun with representatives of 8 organizations chosen by Lincoln postal workers.

The postal unions will be bargaining with management for the first time, but without some traditional rights of non-government unions.

Postal employes cannot strike and cannot bargain on matters determined by Congress, such as pay.

An executive order of the President sets forth management's prerogatives which are not subject to negotiation such as budget, assignment of personnel, work technology, right to direct employes, and the power of hiring, promoting, transferring and suspending or firing workers according to Civil Service regulations.

In the Lincoln Post Office, some unions were granted exclusive recognition, meaning the organization had more than 50% of the eligible votes.

The postmaster must negotiate with these organizations, holding regular meetings and working out written agreements on matters which affect all employes in the craft represented, regardless of whether they are members of the union.

Other organizations which polled at least 10% of the valid vote received formal recognition. Local postal management must consult these groups on matters affecting group members only, and there is no written agreement.

The following organizations received exclusive recognition in Lincoln Post Office elections:

United Federation of Postal Clerks Local 112, clerks; National Association of Letter Carriers Local 8, carriers and special delivery messengers; National Association of Maintenance Employes Local 16, maintenance and custodial workers; and Nebraska Rural Letter Carriers Association, rural mail carriers.

These organizations received formal recognition in Lincoln:

National Postal Union, National Association of Post Office Mail Handlers and National Association of Letter Carriers Local 8, mail handlers; National Alliance of Postal Employes, National Federation of Post Office Motor Vehicle Employes and National Association of Letter Carriers Local 8, motor vehicle employes.

Toughest Sessions To Come

Full Schedule For Senators

By ELLIS RALL

Nebraska lawmakers, refreshed from a 6-day vacation, return to their duties Wednesday still faced with some of the toughest decisions they will have to make this session.

The bulk of the major issues are yet to be acted upon despite the fact that about 56 per cent of the 760 bills introduced thus far are out of the way.

If percentages mean anything, the lawmakers will have a full schedule if they are to meet a tentative target date of adjournment by July 1, the date the new biennium begins.

Two years ago when they broke for the Easter holiday, the senators had about 69 per cent of the 701 bills handled.

Hinges on Budget

Adjournment will hinge on how fast the remaining issues are decided and on whether the budget bill can be in by its target date of June 1.

At the rate the senators have been moving during the first 71 legislative days they have disposed of an average of about 6 bills per day.

With some 344 bills remaining to be acted upon, and maintaining the 6 bill per day average, it would take 57 legislative days to windup. This would take them through July 4.

If the senators can continue at this pace they would conceivably meet the July 1 target date for adjournment since they will go into all day sessions early in May after committee hearings are completed.

Of the 344 bills remaining to be acted upon at this point, 122 are on general file -- the position where they receive the most debate and their first floor test.

Another 180 are in committees awaiting either hearing or action by the committees while the remaining 42 are in advanced positions on the board, having passed the general file test.

Many Matters Waiting

Waiting for the senators on general file for their return will be such problems as the income tax, the $5 paving use fee, whether to allow hunting of mourning doves, higher salaries for state officials, licensing of bottle clubs, increasing taxes on cigarettes and liquors and state school matters, including state aid to junior colleges.

Such other problems as educational television, the state budget, public power realignment, tourism promotion, ground water protection for cities, the fate of special building tax levies and school problems, remain within committees either to be heard or acted upon.

Gresham Rites Set

Banker Yung Dies at 93

Gresham—Funeral services will be held in Gresham at 2 p.m. Tuesday for David Yung, 93, former president of the Gresham State Bank.

Yung had been president of the bank nearly 50 years before it was closed by the State Banking Dept. last year, and assisted subsequently in the reopening of the bank, under new management.

The bank was closed following the suicide of Cashier Arthur Walford and discovery of a half million dollar shortage in the bank's accounts. Bank Vice President Harry Hylton was convicted of making false entries in the bank ledgers.

During the investigation Hylton gave State Banking Director Ralph Misko a statement stressing that Yung had no knowledge of the shortages.

Yung is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Hunter of Omaha.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, Odd Fellows, Masons and Shrine.

Verbal Battle Blazes On Educational Front

Issue Over Accreditation Standards

By DICK HERMAN

Suddenly, verbal battle along the Nebraska educational front has blazed up on a heretofore slighty-regarded point — accreditation standards.

All the heat and passion you'd expect to find in scraps over compulsory redistricting or teacher certification are present anew.

What's more, there is every sign the Legislature will become involved in the cannonading, too, before the skirmish subsides.

Unquestionably, state lawmakers must come to grips with the issue in several week when they open first-reading debate on LB691, a bill which, after being amended by the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee, permits parents to transfer their land from an approved to an accredited school district.

This transfer would allow children to attend better schools, committee members said following the bill's public hearing.

It further would poise a practical knife at the continued operations of dozens of small high schools throughout the state, all of those listed only as approved.

One state senator who figuratively was lifted from his Unicameral seat when he heard about LB691 was Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, who immediately pointed out the bill's transfer provision would hinge upon a school district's accreditation. And accreditation is a status administratively conferred by the State Board of Education and its executive arm, the State Education Dept.

The tailoring of the accreditation yardsticks, Ruhnke suggested, by perhaps increasing critera for accredition, would allow the State Board to exercise terrific leverage on school districts.

Ruhnke says he's neither opposed to quality education, theoretically offered by accredited districts as against those simply meeting minimal standards, nor necessarily against LB691.

But, he declares, if the Legislature is going to tack the possibility of land shifts to an accreditation chart, then the Legislature and not the State Board should establish accreditation criteria.

LB691 simply brought new stirrings to the accreditation issue, already acting like a freshly kicked ant hill.

Grabbing public attention initially was the Board's policy — now under review — denying accreditation to newly-formed Class VI districts.

Some Class VI districts are accredited. But these gained the achievement level through the grandfather clause when the State Board took over the school accrediting program from the University of Nebraska in September, 1950.

A new impetus for formation of Class VI districts comes about as a result of decisions of schools such as Grand Island to bar non-resident students. This forces such students, primarily from rural areas, to look elsewhere for high school education.

Because the State Board is committed to a K-12 program of education for Nebraska, accreditating of a class VI district would tend to undercut Board policy.

Ruhnke — in company with other state senators — believes "any school, regardless of its organizational form, should be accredited if it meets the standards."

He suggested a new Class VI district being formed around Grand Island might offer a program superior to that found in some accredited high schools.

Yet, organization form is one of the very arteries of the accreditation criteria.

No Continuity

Dick Brown, Holdrege, chairman of the State Accreditation Committee, argues it is senseless to think students in Class I — Class VI organizations can be offered equal educational opportunities when there are many school boards, a variety of policies and no continuity of instruction program until the 9th grade.

There's no equivocation about State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller, who told the State Board earlier this month:

"I think we should hold the line on this policy without fail even if we should be subjected to suit.

"The Class VI high schools are not a defensible objective in itself and nothing has happened in this legislative session to give it encouragement."

Accreditation, in Nebraska, means very little to the colleges and universities admitting high school graduates. The public institutions of higher education open their doors to all graduates of state schools.

Outside Nebraska, the story is different. A number of states refuse admittance to graduates of non-accredited Nebraska high schools.

It is within the Legislature's power to fix accreditation standards itself, or dispense with the program entirely.

What device the State Board of Education could then use to encourage local school districts to improve themselves would be open to question.

Following are the non-accredited Nebraska high school districts, by counties, according to the current Nebraska Educational Directory:

Adams—Holstein and Juniata.
Antelope—Brunswick, Elgin, Oakdale and Neligh.

Glossary of 12 Terms Used in Controversy

Just as football game hawkers insist "you gotta have a program to tell the players," knowledge of some technical terms are helpful in understanding Nebraska public school controversies.

Even a partial glossary should include these terms and definitions:

K-12 — An integrated and sequential program of education running from kindergarten through 12th grade, organized under a single school board and administered by a single superintendent.

Class I District — Districts maintaining only the elementary grades, from kindergarten through 8th grade. There were 2,697 Class I Districts in Nebraska last fall. Of this number, 2,241 were holding school — mainly in rural regions, 18 weren't holding school and the other 438 districts were contracting for the education of their K-8 pupils with other districts.

Class II District — A K-12 program in a district with under 1,000 total population.

Class III District — A K-12 program in districts of 1,000-50,000 population.

Class IV District — A K-12 program in districts of 50,000-200,000 population. Lincoln is Nebraska's only Class IV District.

Class V District — A K-12 program in districts of 200,000 or more population. Omaha is the state's sole Class V District.

Class VI District — District offering high school education (9th-12th grade) only. A Class VI district is composed of any number of participating Class I districts.

Free High School Tuition— Property in Class I districts not a part of a Class VI organization is taxed by a free high school levy, uniform in each county. This levy provides cash so Class I students eligible for high school may attend, free, any Class II-V district which is willing to admit them.

Approved District — One whose program and facilities meet the state's minimum operating rules and regulation. An approved district is not an accredited district.

Minor-Accredited District— Districts whose programs are above the minimum level but still fall short of criteria established for Accredited Districts. Minor-accredited schools, for example, would not necessarily offer advanced high school math or science, would lack complete library services, would have frequent faculty changes and might be handicapped by inadequate facilities and equipment.

Accredited District — One in which a good program of public education is offered students.

AA Accredited District — These districts must have a K-12 or K-14 organization, hold an unqualified Class A accreditation rating, provide an efficient and comprehensive education program and meet above-average qualifications established by the State Board of Education. There are 9 districts holding the AA rating.

Sigler Says Dormitory Hazardous

Fire Danger Gets Notice

By MARJORIE MARLETTE

The "very definite" fire hazards of the trusty dormitory at the Men's Reformatory are getting immediate attention from the new administration of the penal complex.

Warden Maurice Sigler, who has just about finished his study of the reformatory, said that "the acute need for the welfare of everybody concerned is to do something about the dormitory."

Located on the top floor of the administration building, the dormitory consists of a series of rooms housing 4 or more inmates on trusty status (Trusties may work outside the fence at the prison.)

About 100 prisoners live there.

It is crowded and dark. Many of the walls and partitions are wood. Ancient chests of drawers, curtains and clothes hung to dry on lines all offer an invitation to fire, the Warden pointed out.

When his department cut into the ceiling to make repairs, Institutions Engineer Carl Botsford found the inside of the structure "tinder dry and rotten," Sigler said.

A new dormitory is scheduled by the Institutions Department 3 years from now, but to alleviate present dangers the warden said "we're going to take immediate steps to do what we can on a temporary basis."

These include:

—Knocking down all walls which don't support the roof. This will remove some of the wood partitions, allowing more inmates in a room and making supervision easier.

—Install metal shelves to replace old wooden chests.

—Eliminate lines of clothes hung through the rooms; probably remove curtains.

—Improve ventilation and lighting as much as possible.

While the work is going on Sigler said the inmates would be doubled up in some rooms or moved to the cell block building across the yard.

Dist. 13 school . . . is no more.

Razing of Old School Inspires Blank Verse

Razing of old Buckley school—also known to several Jefferson County generations as No. 13—prompted the blank-verse composition below. The rural school, its remains pictured symbolically, was located between Thompson and Reynolds on what is now Highway 8.

Stand beside a lonely fallen school
And read its epitaph.
Writ not in stone
But in shouts unspoken.

The silence of a long-gone bell
Still spoiling recess,
Coaxing last steps run
And sounding "Summer's come."

Splintered boards strewn bone-like,
As sure as a slate
Whitishly tattle-tale
On giggling generations.

Nearby, a single sentry tree
Guards green lunch pails.
Mumblepeg plays on;
Can teacher laugh out loud?

No, a school has no tombstone,
Neither needs a grave.
Gone? Not while men
And memories live.

Jean Swanson, 9 . . . Ceresco's official Easter Bunny.

500 Eggs Quickly Found By Joyful Ceresco Kids

By BOB MORACZEWSKI

Ceresco — First, there was quiet. The Rev. Paul J. Webster of Ceresco's Convenant Church told the story of Easter.

He told 140 children that Christ's resurrection was like the hatching of chicks from Easter eggs — a new birth.

Then there were cheers, and yells, and joyous screams, and 140 children and their brothers, and their sisters, and their mothers, and their dogs, rushed for the green grass of the city park and 500 hidden Easter eggs.

In short order the children had found every egg the Ceresco Boosters had hidden. Yet it was not over.

Lucky youngsters who found painted eggs turned them in for cash awards of from 5 cents to $1. Then everyone visited with Ceresco's "official" Easter bunny, 9-year-old Jean Swanson, who passed out the chocolate eggs. Jean was dressed in a white bunny suit complete with ears and painted-on whiskers.

Sara Swanson, 17 months . . . got results.

Caution Is Urged

Drivers Told, 'Turn on Lights'

State Traffic Safety Coordinator Tom Ryan has urged motorists in Nebraska to drive with caution during Easter and to cooperate with Gov. Frank Morrison's "lights on" campaign.

Ryan said driving with headlights on "serves notice on other motorists that you are a responsible driver obeying traffic regulations and rules of the road, extending courtesy to your fellow motorists and expecting the same in return.

State Patrol Capt. Dan Casey said no extra patrolmen will be used on the highways during the holiday weekend.

Ryan said there were 261 accidents involving 105 injuries and one death during last year's Easter period or one mishap every 18 minutes and an injury every 45 minutes.

Glossary of 12 Terms Used in Controversy

Just as football game hawkers insist "you gotta have a program to tell the players," knowledge of some technical terms are helpful in understanding Nebraska public school controversies.

Even a partial glossary should include these terms and definitions:

K-12 — An integrated and sequential program of education running from kindergarten through 12th grade, organized under a single school board and administered by a single superintendent.

Class I District — Districts maintaining only the elementary grades, from kindergarten through 8th grade. There were 2,697 Class I Districts in Nebraska last fall. Of this number, 2,241 were holding school — mainly in rural regions, 18 weren't holding school and the other 438 districts were contracting for the education of their K-8 pupils with other districts.

Class II District — A K-12 program in a district with under 1,000 total population.

Class III District — A K-12 program in districts of 1,000-50,000 population.

Class IV District — A K-12 program in districts of 50,000-200,000 population. Lincoln is Nebraska's only Class IV District.

Class V District — A K-12 program in districts of 200,000 or more population. Omaha is the state's sole Class V District.

Class VI District — District offering high school education (9th-12th grade) only. A Class VI district is composed of any number of participating Class I districts.

Free High School Tuition—Property in Class I districts not a part of a Class VI organization is taxed by a free high school levy, uniform in each county. This levy provides cash so Class I students eligible for high school may attend, free, any Class II-V district which is willing to admit them.

Approved District — One whose program and facilities meet the state's minimum operating rules and regulation. An approved district is not an accredited district.

Minor-Accredited District—Districts whose programs are above the minimum level but still fall short of criteria established for Accredited Districts. Minor-accredited schools, for example, would not necessarily offer advanced high school math or science, would lack complete library services, would have frequent faculty changes and might be handicapped by inadequate facilities and equipment.

Accredited District — One in which a good program of public education is offered students.

AA Accredited District — These districts must have a K-12 or K-14 organization, hold an unqualified Class A accreditation rating, provide an efficient and comprehensive education program and meet above-average qualifications established by the State Board of Education. There are 9 districts holding the AA rating.

Grabbing public attention initially was the Board's policy — now under review — denying accreditation to newly-formed Class VI districts.

Some Class VI districts are accredited. But these gained the achievement level through the grandfather clause when the State Board took over the school accrediting program from the University of Nebraska in September, 1950.

A new impetus for formation of Class VI districts comes about as a result of decisions of schools such as Grand Island to bar non-resident students. This forces such students, primarily from rural areas, to look elsewhere for high school education.

Because the State Board is committed to a K-12 program of education for Nebraska, accreditating of a class VI district would tend to undercut Board policy.

Ruhnke — in company with other state senators — believes "any school, regardless of its organizational form, should be accredited if it meets the standards."

He suggested a new Class VI district being formed around Grand Island might offer a program superior to that found in some accredited high schools.

Yet, organization form is one of the very arteries of the accreditation criteria.

No Continuity

Dick Brown, Holdrege, chairman of the State Accreditation Committee, argues it is senseless to think students in Class I — Class VI organizations can be offered equal educational opportunities when there are many school boards, a variety of policies and no continuity of instruction program until the 9th grade.

There's no equivocation about State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller, who told the State Board earlier this month:

"I think we should hold the line on this policy without fail even if we should be subjected to suit.

"The Class VI high schools are not a defensible objective in itself and nothing has happened in this legislative session to give it encouragement."

Accreditation, in Nebraska, means very little to the colleges and universities admitting high school graduates. The public institutions of higher education open their doors to all graduates of state schools.

Outside Nebraska, the story is different. A number of states refuse admittance to graduates of non-accredited Nebraska high schools.

It is within the Legislature's power to fix accreditation standards itself, or dispense with the program entirely.

What device the State Board of Education could then use to encourage local school districts to improve themselves would be open to question.

Following are the non-accredited Nebraska high school districts, by counties, according to the current Nebraska Educational Directory:

Located on the top floor of the administration building, the dormitory consists of a series of rooms housing 4 or more inmates on trusty status (Trusties may work outside the fence at the prison.)

About 100 prisoners live there.

It is crowded and dark. Many of the walls and partitions are wood. Ancient chests of drawers, curtains and clothes hung to dry on lines all offer an invitation to fire, the Warden pointed out.

When his department cut into the ceiling to make repairs, Institutions Engineer Carl Botsford found the inside of the structure "tinder dry and rotten," Sigler said.

A new dormitory is scheduled by the Institutions Department 3 years from now, but to alleviate present dangers the warden said "we're going to take immediate steps to do what we can on a temporary basis."

These include:

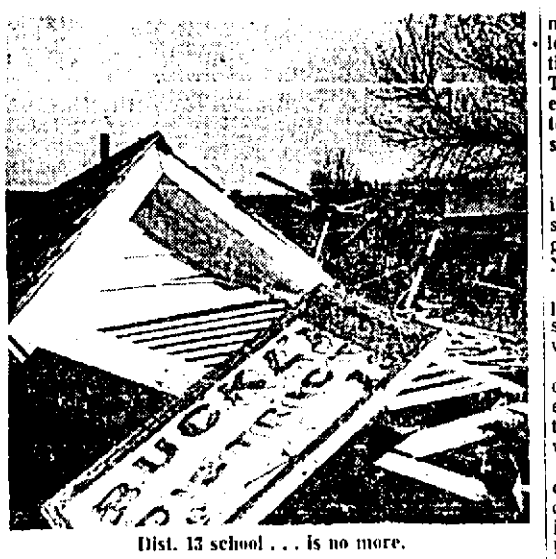
—Knocking down all walls which don't support the roof. This will remove some of the wood partitions, allowing more inmates in a room and making supervision easier.

—Install metal shelves to replace old wooden chests.

—Eliminate lines of clothes hung through the rooms; probably remove curtains.

—Improve ventilation and lighting as much as possible.

While the work is going on Sigler said the inmates would be doubled up in some rooms or moved to the cell block building across the yard.



Dist. 13 school . . . is no more.

Razing of Old School Inspires Blank Verse

Razing of old Buckley school—also known to several Jefferson County generations as No. 13—prompted the blank-verse composition below. The rural school, its remains pictured symbolically, was located between Thompson and Reynolds on what is now Highway 8.

Stand beside a lonely fallen school
And read its epitaph.
Writ not in stone
But in shouts unspoken.

The silence of a long-gone bell
Still spoiling recess,
Coaxing last steps run
And sounding "Summer's come."

Splintered boards strewn bone-like,
As sure as a slate
Whitishly tattle-tale
On giggling generations.

Nearby, a single sentry tree
Guards green lunch pails.
Mumblepeg plays on:
Can teacher laugh out loud?

No, a school has no tombstone,
Neither needs a grave.
Gone? Not while men
And memories live.

County Adds Parking Space

By DUANE SNODGRASS

Crowded parking conditions around Courthouse Square will be relieved considerably next week with the addition of public parking stalls on county property on the south side of J St. between 9th and 10th.

The County Commissioners recently bought nearly half a block of land on the block directly south of the Courthouse.

Some of the houses will be razed or moved to provide more public parking. Two other houses will be used as new quarters for the Community Emergency Shop and the Veterans Service Office.

Commissioner Kenneth Bourne, who this year is in charge of Courthouse buildings and grounds, said the public may begin immediately using the property for parking.

Lots for Public Parking

"We want to stress that the lots are for public parking and not only for county employees," he said.

Bourne said approximately 30 parking stalls will be available immediately and that after the two houses are razed or sold, parking capacity on the lots will be about 75 cars.

Bourne advised motorists to enter the lots from the alley that connects 9th and 10th. "That alley is paved, and after we get the lots rocked, we'll have fine parking facilities for the public," he said.

The Veterans' Service office will move into one of the houses on the lot sometime next month. The Community Emergency Shop, now located at 432 So. 11th, will move into another of the houses later this summer.

A public auction will be held sometime next month at which houses, furniture and garages on the lots will be sold by the county.

An amendment to the ordinance has been prepared to exclude the controversial 40-acre tract within the proposed annexation area that the village of West Lincoln recently annexed.

Public hearings before the Council are set for 1:30 p.m. in the Council chambers.

In other Monday business, the Council has:

—Report from Board of Zoning Appeals on property at 13th and G.

—Letter and resolution from building inspector recommending that the house at 6838 Orchard be removed and a public hearing set for May 13.

The Council also has pending before it six items of business, including an ordinance that would prohibit the artificial coloring of chicks, ducks and other animals.

This ordinance was requested by the City-County Humane Society and was held up last Monday by the Council so that more animals could be covered under the measure.

Ordinances on final reading and public hearing:

Paving District No. 1856—56th & 57th north of Arlesworth Avenue.

Matters pending before the Council:

Ordinance providing penalty for artificial coloring of chicks, ducks, etc.

Bob Bates brings model plane on a low pass across runway.

They Have Fun Flying, But Don't Leave Ground

By LARRY FRUHLING

With an ear-splitting roar, the little plane left the runway, climbed almost vertically, then turned slowly as it leveled off.

The pilot, his feet planted firmly on the ground, flicked an ash off his cigaret and said "watch this."

He pushed a small lever on the box in his hand and the plane made two inside loops in quick succession. At the flick of another button, the plane did a lazy slow roll.

After about 10 minutes, when the plane's fuel was nearly gone, the pilot throttled back the engine and the plane made a perfect, 3-point landing.

The pilot, Don Neill, of 720 So. 44th, walked to his plane and lovingly wiped off the fuel the engine had spewed on the wings and fuselage.

Neill had controlled the plane from the ground using a transistorized radio control unit.

The plane was a 6 pound model with a wingspan of nearly 6 feet. During its flight, it reached speeds of nearly 55 miles an hour.

Neill was one of 5 members of the Lincoln Sky Knights flying club who congregated at the southwest corner of Lincoln Air Force Base for an afternoon of putting their models through their paces.

The Sky Knights, with 35 members, devote many weekend afternoons to flying. "We build planes all winter, and crack them up all summer," Neill quipped.

Through the radio control box, the pilot can control virtually every aspect of the flight. Even the disc brakes on the landing wheels are controlled by radio.

The Sky Knights will sponsor a contest June 1-2 which will attract model flying enthusiast from across the midwest. Between 30 and 50 contestants are expected, according to Neill.

The planes are made of balsa wood and covered with fabric. They are powered by a small, one cylinder engine that turns up to 12,000 revolutions a minute.

Neill said the planes, complete with engine and radio equipment, cost up to $300.

But not all flights end on a happy note — at one edge of the runway was a small hole, surrounded with bits of orange-painted balsa wood.

Dr. Morgan Is Dead

Headed State Osteopaths

Steele City—Dr. I. N. Morgan, 68, president of the Nebraska Osteopathic Assn., died Saturday.

Morgan

Stricken by an abdominal disorder earlier in the week, he had undergone surgery after being hospitalized at Beatrice.

Dr. Morgan was well known in both Nebraska and Kansas, having practiced in Steele City since 1932. Until recent years, he had also run an osteopathic hospital in the Jefferson County town.

A former mayor of sereral terms, he had been active in a number of community activities. Born in Hiawatha, Kan., he was a graduate of Ottawa (Kansas) University and the Kirksville (Missouri) College of Osteopathy.

Survivors include his wife; sons, Dr. Roland of Cambridge and Christopher of Lincoln; daughter, Mrs. Geraldine Walkenhorse of Arlington; and 7 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Traum Funeral Home, Fairbury.

Youth Seeks Aid, Then Flees

Lincoln Police Saturday night were attempting to locate a young man who reportedly had taken 150 aspirin tablets.

According to police the 19-year-old youth voluntarily went to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment, telling hospital officials he had taken 150 aspirin—5 times the amount considered to be fatal.

Before treatment could be administered, police said, the youth fled the hospital. Police were notified and a search for the young man was begun.

Struggle Against Cancer Brings Engineer 6 Extra Years of Active Life

By BESS JENKINS

Malcolm D. Lindeman would be telling his own story of his 7-year battle against cancer if time could be turned back to Mar. 29.

This had been the plan.

For it is this Tuesday evening that hundreds of Lincoln volunteers go from door to door in behalf of the American Cancer Society's continuing research — the work that helped Malcolm Lindeman fight his battle so courageously.

But death came to this native Nebraskan while he slept on the morning of Mar. 30.

Lindeman

Cancer, once described to him by a doctor as "hungry, willing to grab anything," finally won this native Nebraskan and civil engineer.

Six Extra Years

But not before Malcolm Lindeman had put up a fight which netted him 6 extra years of active life. He had been given one year by Stanford University Hospital doctors who had performed his colostomy in November 1955.

Only 50 then, and a man who refused to be idle, Mr. Lindeman vowed to try any surgery or chemotherapeutic drug to keep the spreading cancer under control.

He never looked upon these treatments as cancer cures, but as means to gain one grace period after another until perhaps someone found the permanent answer.

He had some big odds to fight right from the start.

The cancer discovered in 1955 while he was working in California was the spreading type and involved the abdominal cavity.

He returned to Lincoln in 1956 to continue his profession in a less strenuous version, but became a familiar face at the Lincoln Veterans Hospital and at Wadley Foundation in Dallas, Tex.

Maintained Strength

He ate, with one thought in mind — to maintain his strength. Often he wasn't hungry.

This strength helped when a hernia around the colostomy had to be removed in 1958 at Vets Hospital; when he found out the cancer had spread to the liver, and again as he went through the experience of having blood-making bone marrow removed and put into deep freeze which precedes some chemotherapeutic treatments.

Mr. Lindeman's hopes soared after mid-1960 when he "hit his old pre-cancer stride" after being one of the first few persons to try a new drug, Vinco Leuko Blastin, at Wadley Foundation.

Before he could fly down in a private plane to try this new hope, Mr. Lindeman had been admitted to Vets Hospital in a coma. Ten pints of blood transfused over a 9-day period prepared him for the Texas trip.

He took a job with the Omaha Army Engineers and contributed to the building of Lincoln's Atlas missile sites.

More Drugs

Then the bottom dropped out last summer. He entered Vets Hospital and regained enough ground, as the admiring medical staff watched, to go to Dallas to try more drugs.

It helped, but left his hands and feet numb. It also made all his hair fall out. It was gray but grew back black.

Malcolm Lindeman struck his final blow at cancer with another drug from the nitrogen mustard family at Wadley Foundation in mid-March.

He felt better. The pains had decreased to a nagging sensation.

He was to go back the first of this month.

He would have been in Colorado this Easter day, visiting relatives. His plans never conceded to a date cancer.

Of the fighting engineer, one VA doctor who watched with death and victory for the battle said:

"He spoke of cancer as if it was measles. He was quite a man."

Actor a Cancer Victim, Gives Keynote Speech

Omaha — The 1963 Crusade of the American Cancer Society, Nebraska Division, will be launched here Monday by stage, screen, and television star William Gargan.

The keynote speaker choice is altogether fitting.

Cancer took away Gargan's "voice-box"—the larynx—two years ago.

Gargan, through American Cancer Society efforts, learned to talk all over again, using a newly-developed voice.

He has been using it ever since as a dedicated volunteer worker to bring hope to other cancer victims, especially the "voice-box" losers like himself.

Muni Court Crowded

Herrington is For New Bldg.

Fred Herrington, candidate for mayor, said that immediate construction of an adequate city-county building "could eliminate the municipal court congestion in Lincoln's overcrowded building at 10th and R."

Herrington said that in addition to adequate courtroom space and storage facilities for records, private office space should be made available for the city prosecutor. "The police station is not an appropriate location for courts of law," he said.

When the health department moves from the municipal building "the area it now occupies should be made available for the police department, attorney-prisoner conferences and training facilities, rather than converting the space into another municipal court," Herrington said.

The city-county would have our district and county courts in it and should, logically, have the municipal courts, too."

Savings to taxpayers would result from construction of an adequate city-county building, Herrington said. "You can make your own list of office locations for which the taxpayers now have to foot steep rent bills," he added, citing the Public Welfare Department's offices and the Election Commissioner's facilities in downtown Lincoln as examples.

Convenience to the taxpayer is another good reason for immediate construction of a city-county building, Herrington said. "The recreation department is at 15th and N, the street department is on North 19th, the courts at 10th and R and the park department on South 27th Street."

Lincoln Librarians Will Visit LAFB Library; Display Has 1,000 Items

Lincoln area librarians will be the guests of an unusual library next Sunday—the Lincoln Air Force Base library.

Lincoln Library Assn. members and library staff personnel will visit the Base library Apr. 21. During the week of Apr. 21-26, the Base library will display over a thousand new items.

What makes the Base library unusual?

First, it shares building space with a dining hall.

Then, it is not only a public library with recreational and educational reading materials for Base personnel, but it is these things:

—A reference library for all agencies at the Base.

—A budding college library, meeting the raised standards of the Air Force for more education and competence in a foreign language.

—A library for elementary, junior high and high school sons and daughters of LAFB men and women.

The Base library serves the LAFB hospital and has a branch in the alert barracks, where B-47 bomber crews must spend long hours of waiting when their planes are on alert.

This library's patrons are globe-trotting airmen, and it must provide books and other materials for personnel assigned to isolated areas all over the world. One service is sending the Lincoln newspapers to LAFB men on temporary duty abroad.

The Base library is a clearing house for commercial and technical publications required by LAFB agencies.

Meckel Is Honored

Ben T. Meckel, director of veterans education and private vocational schools for the State Education Dept., will be honored at a testimonial dinner Friday at the Sheraton-Fontenelle Hotel in Omaha.

Hosts will be faculties of Nebraska's 7 accredited private vocational schools: Lincoln School of Commerce, National Business Institute, both of Lincoln, and Universal Trades School, Personnel Training Institute, Omaha Art School, Radio Engineering Institute, and C. E. School of Commerce, all of Omaha.

Dr. Floyd A. Miller, Nebraska Commissioner of Education, will be the main speaker. Others will include Dr. Freeman Decker, Nebraska State Teachers Colleges director, who will present Meckel with an official tribute; Omaha Mayor James Dworak; Dr. W. Ray Hill of Seward, State Board of Education vice president; and E. F. Agee, Sr., of Omaha, president of the C. E. School of Commerce.

Morrison Bill Takes On Political Flavor

3rd Term Decision May Hinge On Tourism, Industrial Action

By DEL SNODGRASS

A committee of the non-partisan Nebraska Legislature holds a public hearing Wednesday on a bill on which Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison has pegged his possible candidacy for a 3rd term in 1964.

The measure is LB767, the governor's proposal for the establishment of a New Department of Economic Development.

Earlier this year, Morrison said the Legislature's acceptance or refusal of his development program could influence his decision whether to seek another term as chief executive.

The statement, observers felt, cast a political light on the Morrison bill despite the Unicameral's usual non-partisan approach to legislative matters.

A study of the bill indicates a generally bi-partisan approach which could make the bill palatable to senators of either Republican or Democratic faith.

First, two of the 3 introducers—Sens. George Gerdes of Alliance and W. H. Hasebroock of West Point—are Republicans. The 3rd, Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington, is a Democrat.

Second, the bill calls for gubernatorial appointment of a bi-partisan commission, two bi-partisan committees subordinate to the commission and the director of the department.

Legislative approval of the department head and the committee choices would be required.

Similar legislative sanction of the commission members would not be required, however. This aspect of the bill could encounter opposition considering the political fuss that was raised when Morrison fired several members of the State Centennial Commission early this year.

As outlined by the bill, the Economic Development Commission would be charged with aiding the new department and the director in achieving the department's objectives.

The commission would consist of 7 members appointed to 4-year staggered terms. No more than 4 members could belong to one political party.

To assist the commission with its tourism function, 9 people would be named to 5-year staggered terms on the Tourism Advisory Committee. No more than 5 members could belong to one party.

The second subordinate committee would assist the commission with its other broad function, namely industrial development.

Nine people would be appointed to 5-year staggered terms on this group, which would be called the Nebraska Resources Committee. Again, no more than 5 members could belong to one party.

The commission and the two committees would be advisory bodies only. Members would serve without pay but would receive expenses. Members would have to live in all 3 congressional districts.

The department's top administrator would be paid $13,500, thereby putting him on the same plane with the state engineer, now the highest paid official directly responsible to the governor.

He could be fired by the governor and would be subject to replacement with a change of administrations.

The bill also authorizes the appointment of two assistant directors—one in charge of tourism, the other industrial development—and a staff to carry out the department's operations.

NU Gets 2 Grants

Projects Deal With Cancer

The University of Nebraska received over $25,000 in grants from the U.S. Public Health Service for two separate projects, both dealing with cancer research, it was announced Saturday.

A $9,800 grant has been awarded to the department of chemistry for the 5th year of a 6-year project directed by Dr. James H. Looker. The department of biochemistry and nutrition has received, for the 7th year of an 8-year grant, $16,000 for research headed by Dr. Patricia Weymouth.

Dr. Looker's project is concerned with compounds, related to the amino acids of protein. Compounds of this general group have been found effective in screening against cancer.

Compounds prepared in this research are sent to a national center in Maryland for testing against 3 kinds of cancer.

Dr. Weymouth's research is on problems of the development of cancer in the thymus gland, a cancer related to leukemia. Studies are made of the biochemical changes that take place in the compounds related to the formation of protein in these glands.

NU Professor Author of Text

Prof. Henry F. Holtzclaw Jr., of the University of Nebraska is the author of a college chemistry text the publication of which was announced here by D. C. Heath and Co., of Boston educational publishers.

The book, College Chemistry, with Qualitative Analysis, is the second edition and, like a previous work of Professor Holtzclaw's, General Chemistry, published in February of this year, includes the chemistry of the new compounds of Xenon which until recently were regarded as impossible to prepare.

Program Set At Arbor Lodge

Nebraska City—Mrs. Frank Morrison, wife of the governor, and John Rees, California authority on Communism, will be featured guests next Sunday at the annual Arbor Day celebration here.

The celebration begins with a 2 p.m. parade followed by a program at 2:30 p.m. at Arbor Lodge State Park.

Arbor Day, which is Apr. 22, is a Nebraska-created holiday.

Handcuffed 'Prisoner' Raises Some Eyebrows

By DUANE SNODGRASS

There's nothing unusual about seeing a deputy sheriff escort a handcuffed prisoner into the Courthouse for a court arraignment.

It happens virtually every day.

But even hardened Courthouse newsmen nearly dropped their notebooks last week over one such instance.

For down the hall and into the sheriff's office strolled Deputy Sheriff Bill Greiner, escorting a handcuffed woman "prisoner," decked out in an old-time, black and white striped prisoner's uniform.

Someone whispered that she looked like a set of venetian blinds at sundown.

But whatever she looked like, one thing was certain: that prisoner was none other than Mrs. Leonard Hoover, president of the Lincoln YWCA.

So what happened? Here's the way Mrs. Hoover explained it to this reporter:

Kangaroo Court

"Thursday morning, we had a board meeting at the Y. Instead of the usual formal meeting, this time we met as a kangaroo court with each person dressed as a judge, prisoner or attorney.

"Since I'm president this year, I was on trial to see if the Y is meeting the community's needs. So I went dressed as a prisoner and appeared at my arraignment wearing handcuffs which I'd borrowed from Sheriff Merle Karnopp."

After the meeting ended, one of the ladies tried to open Mrs. Hoover's handcuffs with the key that Karnopp had sent along.

But the cuffs were old. There was a horrified gasp as the woman realized she'd broken the key in the lock.

So what to do? A hurried phone call to Karnopp's office brought an answer.

Courthouse Call

To the Rescue

"We'll send a deputy sheriff over to the Y to pick up Mrs. Hoover and bring her over here," someone from the sheriff's office said. "Maybe we've got another key to fit the cuffs."

So away went Greiner to the rescue.

Three hours later, after finding a key that fit the old cuffs, Mrs. Hoover was once again "unchained."

Was she embarrassed? Mrs. Hoover says she wasn't. "Actually, it was a lot of fun. The looks I got!"

Rotary Award To Be Given

The first annual Cadwallader Award will be presented by the Nebraska-Iowa District of Rotary International at the district conference in Fremont April 20.

The award, honoring Charles N. Cadwallader, prominent Lincoln Rotarian and retired businessman, will be presented to an individual who has been outstanding in community, vocational, and international service.

Mere Mention

Polk Farm Bureau—Charles Marshall, state Farm Bureau president, will speak the evening of Apr. 24 at the annual Polk County Farm Bureau banquet in Osceola, according to county president Oscar Imm.

Governor's Dept. of Economic Development Bill to Be Aired

A bill which Gov. Frank Morrison has tabbed the most important proposal he has handed the 1963 Legislature will receive its public hearing Wednesday before the Government and Military Affairs Committee.

The measure, LB767, creating a new Department of Economic Development, is one of 18 to be aired during a week shortened by the Easter vacation. Because lawmakers will not end their recess until Wednesday morning, no hearings are scheduled Monday or Tuesday.

The week's hearings also will open up the subject of a statewide educational television (ETV) network for Nebraska.

Paired for hearing Thursday before the Education Committee are companion ETV bills, LB666 and LB667, both introduced principally by Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings.

As written, LB666 would levy a special property tax of .33 mill for 3 years, and .08 mill thereafter, to finance the creation of a statewide system. Sen. Clifton Foster of Bradshaw has since proposed, however, that a portion of the state temporary school fund now apportioned equally among school districts be used as the source of financing.

LB667 provides for the creation of a Nebraska Educational Television Commission.

The new department of economic development proposed in LB767 would handle tourism functions now performed by the State Game Commission, industrial development functions now performed by the Nebraska Resources Division, and in addition serve as the state planning agency.

The new department would become a full-fledged executive department on a par with such other code departments as Banking, Insurance, Motor Vehicles and Agriculture.

LB767 calls for the creation of a Commission of Economic Development, a Tourism Advisory Committee and a Nebraska Resources Committee as adjuncts to the new department.

The bill was delivered to the Legislature for the governor by Sens. George C. Gerdes of Alliance, Albert A. Kjar of Lexington and W. H. Hasebroock of West Point.

The measure is joined for hearing Wednesday with LB213, a bill to create a new office of tourism, aided by a tourism advisory board and a tourism coordinating advisory board. It grew out of interim studies by a legislative council committee headed by Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton.

Committee hearings begin at 2 p.m. at the statehouse. The week's hearing list:

WEDNESDAY

Budget

LB374—Requiring approval of the legislature or legislative council before state agencies can rent space outside the Capitol.

LB735—Increasing the amount for which Supreme Court reports shall be sold.

Government and Military Affairs

LB212—Establishing an office of tourism and providing for advisory boards.

LB767—Creating the Department of Economic Development to function as the state planning, tourism and industrial development agency.

Judiciary

LB497 and LB498—Redefining ward resident in Workmen's Compensation Law.

Labor and Public Welfare

LB636—Revising employment security law to provide that no individual shall be deemed unavailable for work who is taking a vocation course under specified conditions.

LB675—Revising provisions for fire and police pensions in Lincoln.

LB765—Providing for the expense of such members of each fire company as designated by the governing body to attend fire training schools.

LB681—Exempting the burning of property for fire department training purposes from the arson statutes.

Public Works

LB655—Providing that cabin trailers registered for operation on the highways need not secure a cabin trailer permit.

THURSDAY

Agriculture

LB771—Extending the limitation on the expiration of weed eradication districts.

Banking, Commerce and Insurance

LB676—Providing for appointment of agent for service by a nonresident foreign corporation, joint stock company, association or partnership when selling goods to Nebraska for sale or resale.

Governor's Dept. of Economic Development Bill to Be Aired

A bill which Gov. Frank Morrison has tabbed the most important proposal he has handed the 1963 Legislature will receive its public hearing Wednesday before the Government and Military Affairs Committee.

The measure, LB767, creating a new Department of Economic Development, is one of 18 to be aired during a week shortened by the Easter Vacation. Because lawmakers will not end their recess until Wednesday morning, no hearings are scheduled Monday or Tuesday.

The week's hearings also will open up the subject of a statewide educational television (ETV) network for Nebraska.

Paired for hearing Thursday before the Education Committee are companion ETV bills, LB666 and LB667, both introduced principally by Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings.

As written, LB666 would levy a special property tax of .33 mill for 3 years, and .06 mill thereafter, to finance the creation of a statewide system. Sen. Clifton Foster of Bradshaw has since proposed, however, that a portion of the state temporary school fund now apportioned equally among school districts be used as the source of financing.

LB667 provides for the creation of a Nebraska Educational Television Commission.

The new department of economic development proposed in LB767 would handle tourism functions now performed by the State Game Commission, industrial development functions now performed by the Nebraska Resources Division, and in addition serve as the state planning agency.

The new department would become a full-fledged executive department on a par with such other code departments as Banking, Insurance, Motor Vehicles and Agriculture.

LB767 calls for the creation of a Commission of Economic Development, a Tourism Advisory Committee and a Nebraska Resources Committee as adjuncts to the new department.

The bill was delivered to the Legislature for the governor by Sens. George C. Gerdes of Alliance, Albert A. Kjar of Lexington and W. H. Hasebroock of West Point.

The measure is joined for hearing Wednesday with LB213, a bill to create a new office of tourism, aided by a tourism advisory board and a tourism coordinating advisory board. It grew out of interim studies by a legislative council committee headed by Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton.

Committee hearings begin at 2 p.m. at the statehouse. The week's hearing list:

WEDNESDAY

Budget

LB234—Requiring approval of the Legislature or legislative council before state agencies can rent space outside the Capitol.

LB[illegible]—Increasing the amount for which Supreme Court reports shall be sold.

Government and Military Affairs

LB213—Establishing an office of tourism and providing for advisory boards.

LB767—Creating the Department of Economic Development to function as the state planning, tourism and industrial development agency.

Judiciary

LB497 and LB498—Redefining word "accident" in Workmen's Compensation Law.

Labor and Public Welfare

LB425—Revising employment security law to provide that no individual shall be deemed unavailable for work who is taking a vocation course under specified conditions.

LB429—Revising provisions for fire and police pensions in Lincoln.

LB443—Providing for the expense of such members of each fire company as designated by the governing body to attend fire training schools.

LB464—Exempting the burning of property for fire department training purposes from the arson statutes.

Public Works

LB455—Providing that cabin trailers registered for operation on the highways need not secure a cabin trailer permit.

600 Expected Here For Press Meeting

A record-shattering attendance has been predicted for the 89th annual Nebraska Press Assn. (NPA) convention in Lincoln Thursday through Saturday, said Vern Scofield, NPA manager.

He estimates that over 600 will be registered when Nebraska's newspapermen convene at the Lincoln Hotel Thursday. The Association announced it had hit 100% membership of Nebraska's 253 legal newspapers, 22 dallies, 1 tri-weekly, 8 semi-weeklies, 222 weeklies, for the second year in a row.

Scofield

Montgomery

E. R. Montgomery, publisher of the Morrill Mail, is the president of the association and will conduct all sessions.

Thursday afternoon awarding of the best ad idea will be conducted by Alton Wilhelms, Stromsburg publisher and president of the Nebraska Press Advertising Service. Talks will be given by Sam Lewis of Fairbury, state manager of the American Dairy Assn. and Sam Borwick, acting advertising manager of a Boston distillers firm. Board members for the coming year will be elected.

The program Thursday evening, starts with a 6 o'clock reception sponsored by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and Lincoln business people. Entertainment will be provided by the Nebraska State Fair Board.

The association's business sessions open Friday when President Montgomery names members of the nomination, resolutions, and legislative committees. A talk on tax rules will be given by Jack O'Malley, Omaha accountant and a 3-man briefing team from Langley Air Force Base, Va., will report on the Tactical Air Command.

Fred Herrington, former state tax commissioner and nominee for Lincoln mayor, will be the main speaker at the Friday noon luncheon. He will talk on "Nebraska's Tax Problems." The latter part of the afternoon will be taken up by round table discussions. Mrs. Eve Daly of Denver will show for the women a collection of 11 copies of famous historical hats, originals which appear in the New York Museum of Art and Smithsonian Institution. They will be modeled by publishers wives.

Ak-Sar-Ben's banquet will feature the Friday evening activities. Dr. R. C. S. (Scottie) Young, a native Scotsman who became an American professor, will talk to the newspapermen on "Why I Am An American." Newspaper awards in Community Service and Service to Agriculture and the association's General Excellence newspaper awards for 1962 will be awarded. The 6th annual NPA Ball will conclude the evening.

Young

Invited guests of honor at the Friday night banquet are Gov. and Mrs. Frank Morrison, the Nebraska congressional delegation, the state senators, Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney, and other statehouse officials.

A buffet breakfast Saturday morning will bring the convention to an end. At the breakfast will be the oldest and most exclusive group of Nebraska newspapermen, the NPA past presidents, said Scofield. W. E. (Boola) Buechler, Ogallala publisher and president of NPA in 1959 said that 15 or 16 of the 24 living past presidents will attend. Two other former presidents attending are: Horace Davis, of Lincoln, president in 1915; and Charles Kuhle, of Lincoln, president in 1928.

Highway Labor Dispute Hearing is Delayed

A U.S. Labor Dept. hearing on the carpenter's helper dispute that has been brewing for years in highway construction has been rescheduled from April 16 in Omaha to May 1 in Lincoln.

Purpose of the hearing is to try to resolve the carpenter's helper dispute which started in 1957 when L. N. Ress was state engineer and the late Victor Anderson was governor.

The dispute has continued since that time.

The controversy is based on the classification for carpenter's helper on Interstate Highway construction. It pits the union against the contractors.

The Associated General Contractors, whose membership does the bulk of highway construction in Nebraska, want carpenter helpers, who are paid less than carpenters, to continue to be allowed to to use tools on highway jobs.

The carpenters union has opposed this, saying in effect that helpers should be prohibited from doing carpenter duties and using tools.

Gov. Morrison could not be immediately reached to determine if the state will participate in the hearing.

The federal Davis-Bacon Act and the Interstate Highway Act require that the U.S. Labor Dept. consult with the state highway dept. prior to establishing wage rates to be used on Interstate jobs.

The 6th annual NPA Ball will conclude the evening.

Young

Invited guests of honor at the Friday night banquet are Gov. and Mrs. Frank Morrison, the Nebraska congressional delegation, the state senators, Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney, and other statehouse officials.

A buffet breakfast Saturday morning will bring the convention to an end. At the breakfast will be the oldest and most exclusive group of Nebraska newspapermen, the NPA past presidents, said Scofield. W. E. (Boola) Buechler, Ogallala publisher and president of NPA in 1959 said that 15 or 16 of the 21 living past presidents will attend. Two other former presidents attending are: Horace Davis, of Lincoln, president in 1915; and Charles Kuhle, of Lincoln, president in 1928.

Highway Labor Dispute Hearing is Delayed

A U.S. Labor Dept. hearing on the carpenter's helper dispute that has been brewing for years in highway construction has been rescheduled from April 16 in Omaha to May 1 in Lincoln.

Purpose of the hearing is to try to resolve the carpenter's helper dispute which started in 1957 when L. N. Hess was state engineer and the late Victor Anderson was governor.

The dispute has continued since that time.

The controversy is based on the classification for carpenter's helper on Interstate Highway construction. It pits the union against the contractors.

The Associated General Contractors, whose membership does the bulk of highway construction in Nebraska, want carpenter helpers, who are paid less than carpenters, to continue to be allowed to to use tools on highway jobs.

The carpenters union has opposed this, saying in effect that helpers should be prohibited from doing carpenter duties and using tools.

Gov. Morrison could not be immediately reached to determine if the state will participate in the hearing.

The federal Davis-Bacon Act and the Interstate Highway Act require that the U.S. Labor Dept. consult with the state highway dept. prior to establishing wage rates to be used on Interstate jobs.

House Of The Week — Country House for City Lot

By Associated Press

An 8-room country type ranch house which will fit comfortably on a 65 foot city lot sounds like a homehunter's daydream

But here it is A masterpiece of budget housing

Today's House of the Week not only has four bedrooms, but its L shape design, together with an excellent choice of exterior materials, gives it a distinctive character and a warm and expensive look Board and batten siding, wood shingles and a touch of shiplap combine with an arched portico and shuttered windows for a particularly homespun flavor

1,295 Square Feet

The house designed by architect Samuel Paul as J 69 in the weekly series contains only 1,295 square feet of basic living area in over all dimensions of 52'4" wide by 52 10" deep

Paul has left a couple of major decisions to the owners

For one, the house can be built either with or without a basement A full basement would mean an extra 1,394 square feet The stairs would be located in the heater space

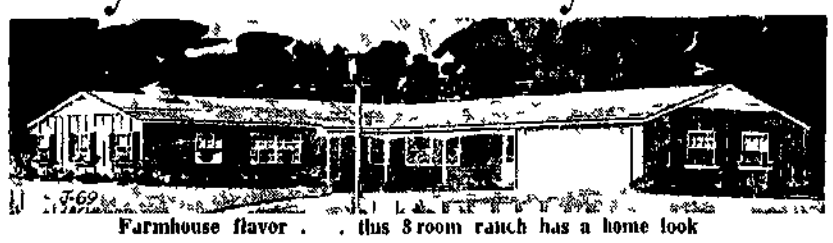
Dining Room Walls

The other option is the location of the dining room walls Paul shows dotted lines on the accompanying floor plan signifying that the room can open either to the living room or the family room or both

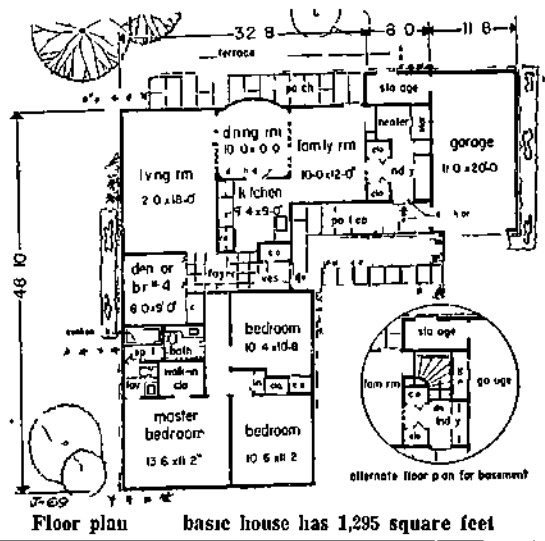
"The dining room bridges the formal and informal living areas" said Paul With neither wall you achieve a visually expanded living area and no clear separation of these two zones, a plan some prefer Or you could expand either the formal or the informal zone, depending on your need"

Kitchen Well Located

The kitchen is especially well located in this house A window is over the sink counter, which means that from that spot a housewife has full view of all three entrances to the house—front, side and rear Moreover the kitchen is convenient to all these entrances a perfect hub for all daylight activity



Farmhouse flavor . . this 8 room ranch has a home look



Floor plan basic house has 1,295 square feet

Quick Action Can Save Peonies From Blight

Are you looking forward to having large, beautiful peonies in your garden for Memorial Day? If so there are some things that must be done to avoid a disappointment

Each year blight attacks peonies which affects buds, stems and leaves Young shoots in all stages of growth may suddenly wilt and fall over

Careful examination reveals a soft brown to black rot of the stem that may extend down to, and in some instances below, the surface of the soil, says John Weihing, University of Nebraska Extension plant pathologist

Infected small buds stop growth and turn black Older buds turn brown and fail to open and often the petals become watery and matted The stalk for several inches below infected flowers is usually killed Leaves are attacked later than other parts of the plant

This damaging blight is caused by a fungus which lives from one season to the next on old diseased foliage Thus control should begin with a thorough clean up of the old stems leaves and other plant debris in the fall

In the spring any wilted or rotted shoots should be destroyed as soon as detected The new shoots should be sprayed as they come through the ground Here are the recommended materials

—Captan — 2 tablespoons per gallon

—Zineb—2 tablespoons per gallon

—Ferban — 2 tablespoons per gallon

—Manzate — 1 tablespoon per gallon

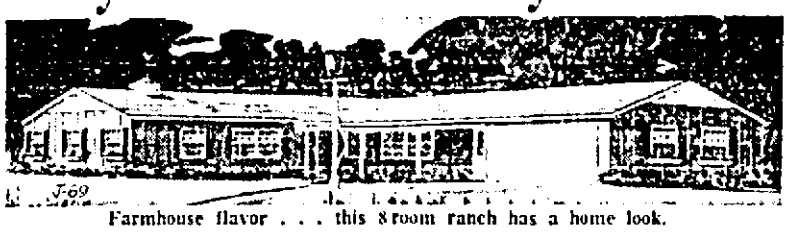
House Of The Week — Country House for City Lot

By Associated Press

An 8-room country type ranch house which will fit comfortably on a 65-foot city lot sounds like a househunter's daydream.

But here it is. A masterpiece of budget housing.

Today's House of the Week not only has four bedrooms, but its L-shape design, together with an excellent choice of exterior materials, gives it a distinctive character and a warm and expensive look. Board and batten siding, wood shingles and a touch of shiplap combine with an arched portico and shuttered windows for a particularly homespun flavor.



Farmhouse flavor . . . this 8-room ranch has a home look.

1,295 Square Feet

The house, designed by architect Samuel Paul as J-69 in the weekly series, contains only 1,295 square feet of basic living area in over-all dimensions of 52'4" wide by 52'10" deep.

Paul has left a couple of major decisions to the owners.

For one, the house can be built either with or without a basement. A full basement would mean an extra 1,394 square feet. The stairs would be located in the heater space.

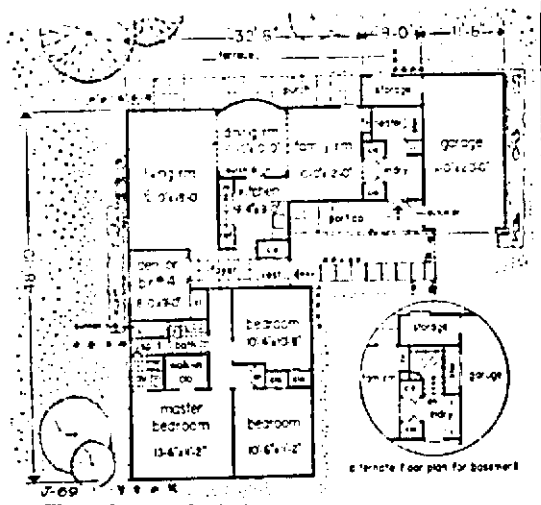
Dining Room Walls

The other option is the location of the dining room walls. Paul shows dotted lines on the accompanying floor plan, signifying that the room can open either to the living room or the family room or both.

"The dining room bridges the formal and informal living areas," said Paul. "With neither wall you achieve a visually expanded living area and no clear separation of these two zones, a plan some prefer. Or you could expand either the formal or the informal zone, depending on your need."

Kitchen Well Located

The kitchen is especially well located in this house. A window is over the sink counter, which means that from that spot a housewife has full view of all three entrances to the house—front, side and rear. Moreover, the kitchen is convenient to all these entrances, a perfect hub for all daylight activity.



Floor plan . . . basic house has 1,295 square feet.

Quick Action Can Save Peonies From Blight

Are you looking forward to having large, beautiful peonies in your garden for Memorial Day? If so, there are some things that must be done to avoid a disappointment.

Each year blight attacks peonies which affects buds, stems and leaves. Young shoots in all stages of growth may suddenly wilt and fall over.

Careful examination reveals a soft, brown to black rot of the stem that may extend down to, and in some instances below, the surface of the soil, says John Weihing, University of Nebraska Extension plant pathologist.

Infected small buds stop growth and turn black. Older buds turn brown and fail to open and often the petals become watery and matted. The stalk for several inches below infected flowers is usually killed. Leaves are attacked later than other parts of the plant.

This damaging blight is caused by a fungus which lives from one season to the next on old diseased foliage. Thus control should begin with a thorough clean-up of the old stems, leaves and other plant debris in the fall.

In the spring any wilted or rotted shoots should be destroyed as soon as detected. The new shoots should be sprayed as they come through the ground. Here are the recommended materials:

—Captan — 2 tablespoons per gallon.

—Zineb—2 tablespoons per gallon.

—Ferban — 2 tablespoons per gallon.

—Manzate — 1 tablespoon per gallon.

—Copper containing fungicide such as bordeaux mixture—use at rate recommended by the manufacturer.

Weihing suggests spraying peonies every two weeks until near blossoming. He suggests adding a regular household detergent to the spray solution at the rate of 1 teaspoonful per gallon if a wetting agent has not already been incorporated in the packaged material.

Story of Arbor Day Tree Had Its Beginning in Ancient Dust Storm

OPEN LETTER TO FIFTH GRADERS:

On Apr. 19th each of you will be receiving a small mountain ash tree. You should know the story of why you are getting this tree.

This story begins long before man arrived on earth. In pre-historic times Nebraska had giant dust storms that blotted out the sun for weeks at a time. No trees and plants were living to hold the soil in place.

When you travel to Nebraska City or Plattsmouth and see the big hills on either side of the Missouri River, you are looking at large piles of dust left by these storms.

The first white men that came to this country called it the Great American Desert. They thought it was unfit for anyone.

However, in the east the farmers who were to become Nebraska pioneers were having trouble. Trees had to be removed from almost every acre that was to be farmed. These farmers hated digging out thousands and thousands of trees to make a farm.

They found out about Nebraska where very, very few trees grew — where they could plant their crops over miles of area without removing a single tree. And they came to this country in droves.

Then a mighty peculiar thing happened. They had hated trees, but now they really missed them. Without trees, there was no wood. They had to build their houses from sod. They had no wood for fires to keep warm in winter. They had no shade when the temperature got to a hundred degrees in summer. Many of them died. Many of them were defeated by the cruel climate and went back east.

Then a man by the name of J. Sterling Morton got an idea. Why not set aside a day when everybody would plant trees? This was called Arbor Day.

The pioneers began to plant trees by the millions. Elms were planted for shade. Ash trees were planted for fuel. Osage orange trees were planted for fence posts.

Every farmer planted trees around his house and as you drive through the country today and see groves of trees around each farm house you are looking at the work of these pioneers.

The fame of Arbor Day spread throughout the world. Today millions of people of every race, color and creed celebrate Arbor Day by planting trees. It is the only special day that the United States has given to other countries of the world. And it all started right here in our own state.

As you plant your little tree, remember that millions of other people will be doing the same as you are. You and they are trying to make this world a nicer place in which to live, not only for ourselves, but also for all the unborn children who will sometime live on Earth.

Good luck — and happy planting!

They do grow . . . Linda Bailey of 2425 No. 65th and Austrian pine she planted when a fifth grader.

Electric Meet

The 10th annual electric meter short course will be held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education Wednesday through Friday. Eighty electric metermen from Nebraska will attend.

State Workshop To See Original Play Apr. 23

An original play, "These Are Not Children," will be a highlight of an all-day workshop Apr. 23 at the Lincoln Hotel for persons who work with the retarded.

The play, provided by the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare's vocational rehabilitation division, will be presented by University of Nebraska students.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Oliver Kolstoe, chairman of the Dept. of Special Education of Southern Illinois University. Dr. Marshall Hiskey, director of NU's educational psychology clinic, will be another speaker.

The state-wide workshop is sponsored by the Lancaster Assn. for Retarded Children and other units of the Nebraska Assn. for Retarded Children.

Tears, Cheers

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (AP) — Professional mourners are still very popular in many parts of Yugoslavia. They sob at funeral rites. They laud the virtues and good deeds of the deceased. Higher paid mourners even do this in rhyme. In payment they receive a little money, and their meals and drinks.

When you travel to Nebraska City or Plattsmouth and see the big hills on either side of the Missouri River, you are looking at large piles of dust left by these storms.

The first white men that came to this country called it the Great American Desert. They thought it was unfit for anyone.

However, in the east the farmers who were to become Nebraska pioneers were having trouble. Trees had to be removed from almost every acre that was to be farmed. These farmers hated digging out thousands and thousands of trees to make a farm.

They found out about Nebraska where very, very few trees grew — where they could plant their crops over miles of area without removing a single tree. And they came to this country in droves.

Then a mighty peculiar thing happened. They had hated trees, but now they really missed them. Without trees, there was no wood. They had to build their houses from sod. They had no wood for fires to keep warm in winter. They had no shade when the temperature got to a hundred degrees in summer. Many of them died. Many of them were defeated by the cruel climate and went back east.

Then a man by the name of J. Sterling Morton got an idea. Why not set aside a day when everybody would plant trees? This was called Arbor Day.

The pioneers began to plant trees by the millions. Elms were planted for shade. Ash trees were planted for fuel. Osage orange trees were planted for fence posts.

Every farmer planted trees around his house and as you drive through the country today and see groves of trees around each farm house you are looking at the work of these pioneers.

The fame of Arbor Day spread throughout the world. Today millions of people of every race, color and creed celebrate Arbor Day by planting trees. It is the only special day that the United States has given to other countries of the world. And it all started right here in our own state.

As you plant your little tree, remember that millions of other people will be doing the same as you are. You and they are trying to make this world a nicer place in which to live, not only for ourselves, but also for all the unborn children who will sometime live on Earth.

Good luck — and happy planting!

Record Easter Turnouts Expected To Fill Lincoln's Many Churches Today

By MIKE BAXTER

The story and significance of Christ's resurrection will be told to an expected record turnout of Protestant and Catholic congregations this Easter morning.

In holiday best, the pew-filling crowds will Easter parade to nearly a hundred Lincoln churches where pastors have prepared sermons with a common Resurrection theme.

One target of the pastoral message will be the once-a-year churchgoers who help shatter attendance records this one Sunday each year.

"You're aware that there'll be more people at the church on this one particular Sunday," observed the Rev. Robert Holbrook of Lincoln Heights Methodist Church. "This places more pressure on the minister in the sense that he wants to do as much as possible to reach these people."

A survey of Lincoln pastors indicated overlapping interpretations of the Easter events.

The Sunday congregation at Havelock Assembly of God Church will hear the Rev. J. Robert Birdwell describe the "Emotions of Easter Morning."

The message will "touch on the feeling of the Resurrection ... the reports of the various ones at the tomb and their reactions to what actually happened," The Rev. Mr. Birdwell said.

At Bethany Christian Church, the Rev. Carl A. Burkhardt Jr. will "discuss the words of Jesus that speak of eternal life and the message of his life as it demonstrates this."

In his first Easter sermon as a Lincoln minister, the Rev. E. W. Day of Pilgrim Congregational Church will preach a "Good Morning" sermon.

"It's been a good morning to human life since the Resurrection," he said about his sermon.

The Rev. Arthur L. Slaikeu, First Baptist Church, will use a modern thought—status—in his Easter sermon.

"Actually this experience with Christ," he noted, "gives us a new status—an eternal one—in our serving God."

At Fairhill Presbyterian Church, "a treatise on the meaning of the Resurrection for the believer and how it applies to the individual in the present life" will be given by the Rev. J. Dallas Gibson.

"For Christian believers," he said, "it means that the Resurrection life begins here and now, not entirely as a matter of future fulfillment."

Lincoln Unitarians this morning will hear their pastor, the Rev. Charles Stephen Jr., speak on "Therefore Choose Life."

"The mythology on Easter, like much mythology, grows from the need of men for an explanation of death," he said. "Such myths are universal and in them are found much truth."

"The truth of the Easter story," he continued, "is that men need not bow down to death. By accepting it openly they can gain a sense of the significance of life."

The Apostles John, James and Peter are confronted by an Angel and the empty tomb of Christ in this scene from Bethany Christian Church's Easter Pageant held at sunrise this morning. Left to right are C. W. Hoffman, Loren Christensen and George Kelley. The Angel is Mrs. Ethel Lehmann.

Pre-Easter Services Climaxed

Many Special Services Held

A rush of pre-Easter activity in Lincoln religious circles climaxed today as churches recalled the resurrected Christ and the symbolized eternal life.

Easter-oriented sermons, choral services and congregational spirit mark today's holiday.

Two special Easter observances today were sunrise services at Pinewood Bowl in Pioneers Park, a sunrise presentation of Bethany Christian Church's Easter Pageant and sunrise services in individual churches.

At the Masonic Temple this morning, the Rev. Harold C. Sandall, superintendent of the Lincoln District of Methodist Churches, spoke to nearly 250 Scottish Rite members in a breakfast Easter observance.

Intra-church activity highlighted the pre-Easter Lenten period.

Lenten services were held at Hope Reformed Church Mar. 1 to Apr. 5 with 7 Lincoln ministers participating.

A series of Lenten lectures at St. Paul Methodist Church brought Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of St. Louis and author Dr. Roy Smith of Los Angeles to Lincoln.

In other pre-Easter activity, joint Holy Week services were held at Northeast Community United Church of Christ, Grace Lutheran Church and St. Paul Methodist Church.

Nigerian Will Speak at Rally For Lutherans

A Nigerian student at Concordia Teachers College will be guest speaker at the spring rally of the Lincoln zone Lutheran Women's Missionary league.

Imoh Ikpe, educated in Lutheran mission schools in Nigeria, will discuss Lutheran mission work among Nigerians.

The rally will be held at Trinity Lutheran Church in Walton at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Women from 11 Lutheran congregations will participate. Mrs. Dearle C. Schatz of Lincoln will preside.

Church Marks Tenth Year

Members of Northeast United Missionary Church, 66th and Gladstone, will celebrate Easter Sunday with a commemoration of the Church's 10th anniversary.

The Rev. Walter Stump of Holt, Mich., the Church's first pastor from 1952 to 1955, will speak at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. today.

The Church will also launch building and debt-reducing programs, the Rev. James T. Hoskins said.

Women's Club Meets Friday

The Christian Women's Club will meet at the Hotel Cornhusker at 12:45 Friday.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. John Campbell of Central City. Dr. George Skworcow, a Lincoln pathologist, will provide special music.

Short Sermon

Key West, Fla. (AP) — The Rev. Joseph Beaver looked sympathetically at his sweltering congregation at St. Mary, Star of the Sea Roman Catholic Church and announced his sermon would be short because of the weather.

Said he: "Remember, there's a place a lot hotter than this and it lasts a lot longer. God bless you."

With that, he left the pulpit.

Field Beckons

Indianapolis (AP) — Opportunities for Protestant work in Latin America are greater than the churches are able to handle, says Jessie M. Trout, field liaison executive secretary for the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ).

Crisis Told

Dallas (AP)—A prediction was made at a Southern Baptist meeting here that church-related colleges will not survive another decade if present education trends continue and financial support does not improve.

Easter Differs Little From Other Sundays

By JACK MACY

"Each Sunday is a small Easter," observed one Lincoln minister.

For that reason, he continued, Easter Sunday services differ only in content even though congregations are traditionally larger.

"At Easter, people are more receptive to messages dealing with the death of Christ and that particular phase of his life," explained the Rev. Robert Holbrook of Lincoln Heights Methodist Church.

For this approach, he said, "I find there are many modern life illustrations. As with regular sermons, I use several sources—books, magazines, clerical publications, commentaries on scriptures and news incidents."

It is a challenge, he indicated, to prepare a better sermon, applying to more people attending Easter services.

Few changes are made in sermons during Easter, concurs Msgr. John Flynn of St. Mary's Cathedral Catholic.

"The topic is the only difference. We devote Sunday morning services to the glory of Easter and the Resurrection," he said.

"And perhaps we try to do a little better job," he added.

Modern literature and theology pointing up the spiritual value of Easter are the favorite sermon sources for the Rev. Lawrence L. Stanton of the First Plymouth Congregational Church.

"I try to figure out what the scripture ought to be and relate it to every day life—as I try to do with all my sermons," he said.

"If the message of the Scriptures has nothing to say to us today, it has nothing to say to us at all," he observed.

One difficulty he noted is the time factor he will face while giving the Easter radio sermon.

"It is necessary to abbreviate my sermon some, and at the last minute it may involve deleting a part to stay within the alloted time," he noted.

The Rev. J. Robert Birdwell of the Havelock Assembly of God Church noted that Easter is an ideal time to present the Gospel, since nearly all people observe Easter.

"We start a Loyalty Campaign, urging people to attend church for the following 7 Sundays between Easter and Pentecost Sunday, and we note its effectiveness in a substantial average yearly attendance increase," he commented.

Some changes in the church services are made, with more music featured, new members accepted, or, as for this Easter, baptisms, he noted.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Spread Easter Cheer

Colorful Easter favors in the form of decorated eggs, statuettes of chickens and bunnies and small trees garnished with flowers and baubles were delivered to nursing and childrens' homes in Lincoln last week as special acts of Easter commemoration.

Girl Scout and Brownie troops in the area illuminated the homes with individual visits and Easter tidings as they brought with them bundles of gifts.

Scouts from Troop 107 presented convalescents at the Beamis Rest Home with three 18-inch trees, made from lilac branches. Attached to the green-sprayed branches were hollowed eggs colored as flowers, chickens and bunnies.

Brownie Troop 49 made 100 large tray mats for the Lincoln General Hospital as their Easter project. The tray mats, to be used Sunday morning, are originally painted and colored with Easter scenes.

Also to decorate trays, Brownie Troop 23 made 101 place cards for Easter Sunday trays for the Tabitha Home. The girls visited each of the rooms and sang songs when they delivered the cards.

Chickens and bunnies perched on place cards were delivered to the Children's Ward at the State Mental Hospital by Brownie Troop 217. Three large centerpiece Easter baskets filled with candy eggs and chocolate bunnies were also given to the children.

Record Easter Turnouts Expected To Fill Lincoln's Many Churches Today

The story and significance of Christ's resurrection will be told to an expected record turnout of Protestant and Catholic congregations this Easter morning.

"At Easter, people are more receptive to messages dealing with the death of Christ and that particular phase of his life," explained the Rev. Robert Holbrook of Lincoln Heights Methodist Church.

For this approach, he said, "I find there are many modern life illustrations. As with regular sermons, I use several sources—books, magazines, clerical publications, commentaries on scriptures and news incidents."

It is a challenge, he indicated, to prepare a better sermon, applying to more people attending Easter services.

Few changes are made in sermons during Easter, concurs Msgr. John Flynn of St. Mary's Cathedral Catholic.

"The topic is the only difference. We devote Sunday morning services to the glory of Easter and the Resurrection," he said.

"And perhaps we try to do a little better job," he added.

Modern literature and theology pointing up the spiritual value of Easter are the favorite sermon sources for the Rev. Lawrence L. Stanton of the First Plymouth Congregational Church.

"I try to figure out what the scripture ought to be and relate it to every day life—as I try to do with all my sermons," he said.

"If the message of the Scriptures has nothing to say to us today, it has nothing to say to us at all," he observed.

One difficulty he noted is the time factor he will face while giving the Easter radio sermon.

"It is necessary to abbreviate my sermon some, and at the last minute it may involve deleting a part to stay within the alloted time," he noted.

The Rev. J. Robert Birdwell of the Havelock Assembly of God Church noted that Easter is an ideal time to present the Gospel, since nearly all people observe Easter.

"We start a Loyalty Campaign, urging people to attend church for the following 7 Sundays between Easter and Pentecost Sunday, and we note its effectiveness in a substantial average yearly attendance increase," he commented.

Some changes in the church services are made, with more music featured, new members accepted, or, as for this Easter, baptisms, he noted.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Spread Easter Cheer

Colorful Easter favors in the form of decorated eggs, statuettes of chickens and bunnies and small trees garnished with flowers and baubles were delivered to nursing and childrens' homes in Lincoln last week as special acts of Easter commemoration.

Girl Scout and Brownie troops in the area illuminated the homes with individual visits and Easter tidings as they brought with them bundles of gifts.

Scouts from Troop 107 presented convadescents at the Beamis Rest Home with three 18-inch trees, made from lilac branches. Attached to the green-sprayed branches were hollowed eggs colored as flowers, chickens and bunnies.

Brownie Troop 49 made 108 large tray mats for the Lincoln General Hospital as their Easter project. The tray mats, to be used Sunday morning, are originally painted and colored with Easter scenes.

Decorated bookmark crosses inscribed with "Happy Easter" were delivered to the Nursing Home at 17th & A by Brownie troop 178. Each of the bookmarks were decorated individually.

Another group of Brownies, Troop 208, converted hollow eggs into bright animals and strange faces for the Pediatrics Ward at Bryan Memorial. The eggs will be placed on meal trays for the patients.

Also to decorate trays, Brownie Troop 23 made 101 place cards for Easter Sunday trays for the Tabitha Home. The girls visited each of the rooms and sang songs when they delivered the cards.

Chickens and bunnies perched on place cards were delivered to the Children's Ward at the State Mental Hospital by Brownie Troop 217. Three large centerpiece Easter baskets filled with candy eggs and chocolate bunnies were also given to the children.

Other troops will devote part of Easter Sunday to visiting shut-ins and convalescents. Leaders of the above troops include Mrs. Dale Nearhood, Mrs. Bruce Herrington, Mrs. Reese Wilson, Mrs. Earl Jenkins, Mrs. William Smart, and Mrs. Ralph Reed.

Eminent British Historian Lecturing at Iowa College; Will Visit Lincoln

Grinnell, Ia. — Outwardly there was nothing to distinguish the tall, intense speaker from many others who had occupied this same Grinnell College platform.

He spoke with an easy fluency, gesturing occasionally with open palms or clinched fists.

Infrequently he would lean into a particular point, an expression of deep concentration sweeping across his face.

But mostly he simply stood and spoke — quietly, effortlessly — with open hands resting on the edge of the lectern.

His audience hung on every word he uttered. For from these lips were pouring ideas and concepts of world history gained over a long span of years in one of the most consuming and exhaustive studies of all cultures ever attempted and completed by mortal man.

Here was Arnold J. Toynbee — distinguished and controversial British historian, author of the monumental 13-volume "A Study of History" and other books and papers, renowned world traveler, lecturer, and teacher.

Dr. Toynbee was beginning his tenure as John R. Heath Visiting Professor of History at Grinnell College — an assignment covering the second semester of the current academic year. He is presenting a series of 26 additional lectures away from the campus.

Dr. Toynbee's appearance at Grinnell is part of a carefully calculated program to bring Grinnell students into informal intimacy with a variety of outstanding scholars.

Grinnell officials are frequently asked what the college has to attract the interest and the presence of such an internationally known scholar.

For here is a key figure in the world of scholarly pursuit. At 73 ears of age, Toynbee is riding the crest of a rigorously productive career. He is constantly in the spotlight of scholarly acclaim and approbation, certainly in a position to sit back and relax, reflecting on the impact of his mammoth contribution to the lore of the centuries.

The historian himself answers this question, simply and directly.

"I received a nice invitation," he says. "And I decided I wanted to accept it."

Shortly after his arrival in Grinnell, Dr. Toynbee revealed an insight into the breadth of his interests and the depth of his concern over the problems facing all of humankind.

The occasion was a press conference where representatives of leading newspapers and other communications media tossed a continuous barrage of questions covering a wide range of subjects. Among his comments:

"The United Nations is not — is not intended to be — a world government. It is a forum in which human problems can be discussed and where small nations can meet with their larger counterparts."

"Every person needs religion, although not necessarily in orthodox form. Such activities as the ecumenical council make me comfortable because religion has often been a source of conflict in human society."

"I feel the democratic forms of government are the best. However, democracy is a rather extravagant and expensive form of government."

Dr. Toynbee views history as a long succession of civilizations, all of which strive onward and upward, but few of which reach the heights.

Civilizations, he believes, live and stay vital as long as they respond successfully to challenges such as a hard climate, a complex technology, dangers, and opportunities of all kinds.

And when they stop responding, they become grandiosely mummified and then die; and they stop responding when they lose the will and power to make their own decisions and instead let themselves be paralyzed by such "false idols" as an empty nationalism or internationalism.

Hardly the stereotype of the "ivory tower" scholar, Dr. Toynbee is a friendly, gregarious individual. One soon learns that beneath this scholarly surface flows an undercurrent of humor that is clear and deep.

He responds to the small joke with the same eager enthusiasm given to a serious query. His eyebrows rise, and it is then that one clearly sees the sharp blue eyes that twinkle in genuine enjoyment. A wide smile may cross his lips, or he may respond with a hearty guffaw, followed by his own humorous interjection.

Another big Western shebang is set for the Auditorium at 8 p. m. Wednesday, feetcherin' those two guys who've twice won 'best songs' Grammy awards, Homer and Jethro.

This top twangin' and joke-tellin' team will co-star with Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys and Jim Reeves and his Blue Boys.

Wills is remembered perhaps for his "Take Me Back to Tulsa" whereas Reeves made "Yonder Comes a Sucker" popular.

"Song butchers" Homer and Jethro are currently featured on the "Beverly Hillbillies" show.

Those of you who wondered why you didn't see the "Old Smoothies" at the Ice Capades at the Auditorium recently might be interested in knowing it was because one of them, Orrin Markhus, somewhere in his 70's, fell at Sun Valley last summer and broke his hip. It's mending.

At 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Auditorium, Tommy Reed's Orchestra and "The Crew Cuts" will entertain at the annual Policemen's Benefit Ball.

Careful, Al!

Alfred Hitchcock has slimmed down to 200 pounds and endangered his profile.

Top Movies of the Week

By Joe Fitz Gerald

Debbie . . . with 3 loves.

She's (Ugh!) Lovely . . .

. . . that, is, she was "30 Years" ago.

'My Six Loves'

Stuart—Starts Thursday.

Six kids want to adopt Debbie Reynolds in this song-and-dancish film set in New York and the Connecticut countryside.

A glamorous actress, near collapse from overwork, retires to her farmhouse to "rest" for a while.

Life is anything but restful when she discovers 6 abandoned children, ragged and hungry, plus their dog, hiding in a shack on her property, and she takes them to her house to see what can be done for them. Which is a lot.

Real family entertainment, no matter how you look at it.

'30 Years of Fun'

Nebraska—Starts Friday.

Stars of this fast, funny film, which crowds some of the greatest comedy moments of the Gay Nineties and Roaring Twenties, include Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Harry Langdon, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. Together they recapture some warm entertainment.

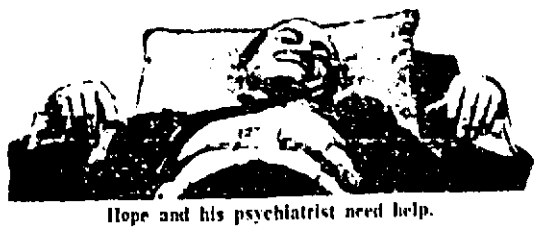
Co-feature: "A Day at the Races," starring the Marx Brothers, with the plot shifting from a sanitarium to a race track.

'Critic's Choice'

Varsity Attraction.

Bob Hope, Lucille Ball, Marilyn Maxwell, Rip Torn, Jessie Royce Landis and Jim Backus brighten the screen in this adult movie about a New York drama critic, Hope, who must review a play written by his wife, Lucille.

Further complicating their marital problems is the reappearance of Hope's first wife, a glamorous stage actress portrayed by Marilyn.



Hope and his psychiatrist need help.

'White Stallions'

State Attraction

Walt Disney horse story starring Robert Taylor and Lilli Palmer held over another week. About rescuing valuable steeds from the ravages of war in Nazi Germany.

Appraisal Data Are Sought

Letters Sent To 49 States

State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson reported Saturday he has sent letters to the other 49 states, trying to find out if any have laws making their state tax chiefs responsible for setting up property appraisal standards.

This will be a duty Johnson assumes next fall as the result of a recently-passed Nebraska law

It springs from one of the 3 Legislative Council Tax Study bills which have achieved Unicameral approval—bills of significance in the future administration of the Property tax system.

LB374 directs the tax commissioner to fix uniform rules and regulations for all property reappraisals in Nebraska's 93 counties

LB375 orders all counties to sponsor reappraisals on 6 16 years intervals, with an mutual timetable fixed by statute

And LB384 gives to the State Board of Equalization power to reverse any individual changes made in reappraisal figures at the local level

Johnson says he "wants to be in a position where we can set rules and standards so counties going ahead with reappraisals before required to do so will be doing the work uniformly."

There are about 7 or 8 counties which have never had a general reappraisal of all assessable property and these must have the comprehensive value reviews in the mill by Jan 1, 1966, according to LB375

Among these yet-to-be-reappraised counties are two of Nebraska's wealthier ones—Hall and Cherry

Because it did not carry the emergency clause, LB374 will become operative 90 days after the Legislature adjourns

That would make the law effective sometime in October if the Unicameral quits its labors in July, as anticipated

At that time Johnson wants to be ready to submit the proposed reappraisal standards to a public hearing

Such a public hearing, the tax commissioner feels, would be both improper and illegal before the date of the law's effectiveness

Chief of Nursing Home Group Talks Wednesday

William E Beaumont Jr., of Little Rock, Ark., head of the American Nursing Home Assn, will speak in Lincoln Wednesday.

Beaumont

He is listed as banquet speaker at the Nebraska Nursing Home Assn's annual 3-day convention opening Tuesday at the Cornhusker

State association officers look for about 200 nursing and care home representatives to attend the conference where progressive administration will be emphasized

The emphasis will come through 4 panel programs accounting and accreditation, public relations, practical techniques for mobilizing residents, and building, construction and equipment

Among the panel participants will be Mrs Eleanor B. Baird of New Milford, Conn, chairman of the American Nursing Home Assn's accreditation committee, and Mrs Margie S. Davis of Denver, secretary of the national association.

Other session speakers, representing medicine and hospitals, are Dr John R. Schenken, Omaha physician and NU College of Medicine pathology department chairman, and Spencer Brader of Omaha, executive director of Immanuel Deaconess Hospital

Nebraska association President Clifford M Dahl of Wayne said the organization's 25-point Plan for Progress, adopted by the board this winter, will be discussed

Dahl said this plan is highly important as nursing and care homes continue to grow in their role as one of the state's and nation's major health services.

It is estimated that Nebraska today has about 8,000 beds for the aged and infirm, with half of these in the skilled nursing home category

Scout Speaker

Appraisal Data Are Sought

Letters Sent To 49 States

State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson reported Saturday he has sent letters to the other 49 states, trying to find out if any have laws making their state tax chiefs responsible for setting up property appraisal standards.

This will be a duty Johnson assumes next fall as the result of a recently-passed Nebraska law.

It springs from one of the 3 Legislative Council Tax Study bills which have achieved Unicameral approval—bills of significance in the future administration of the Property tax system.

LB374 directs the tax commissioner to fix uniform rules and regulations for all property reappraisals in Nebraska's 93 counties.

LB375 orders all counties to sponsor reappraisals on 6-16 years intervals, with an initial timetable fixed by statute.

And LB381 gives to the State Board of Equalization power to reverse any individual changes made in reappraisal figures at the local level.

Johnson says he "wants to be in a position where we can set rules and standards so counties going ahead with reappraisals before required to do so will be doing the work uniformly."

There are about 7 or 8 counties which have never had a general reappraisal of all assessable property and these must have the comprehensive value reviews in the mill by Jan. 1, 1966, according to LB375.

Among these yet-to-be-reappraised counties are two of Nebraska's wealthier ones—Hall and Cherry.

Because it did not carry the emergency clause, LB374 will become operative 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

That would make the law effective sometime in October if the Unicameral quits its labors in July, as anticipated.

At that time Johnson wants to be ready to submit the proposed reappraisal standards to a public hearing.

Such a public hearing, the tax commissioner feels, would be both improper and illegal before the date of the law's effectiveness.

Life of Judge

A biography of the late Judge Learned Hand will be written by Max Freedman, Washington columnist for the Chicago Daily News Syndicate and the Manchester Guardian in England. Mr. Freedman will have access to the papers of Learned Hand. The book will be published by Little, Brown.

Chief of Nursing Home Group Talks Wednesday

William E. Beaumont Jr., of Little Rock, Ark., head of the American Nursing Home Assn., will speak in Lincoln Wednesday.

Beaumont

He is listed as banquet speaker at the Nebraska Nursing Home Assn.'s annual 3-day convention opening Tuesday at the Cornhusker.

State association officers look for about 200 nursing and care home representatives to attend the conference where progressive administration will be emphasized.

The emphasis will come through 4 panel programs: accounting and accreditation, public relations, practical techniques for mobilizing residents, and building, construction and equipment.

Among the panel participants will be Mrs. Eleanor B. Baird of New Milford, Conn., chairman of the American Nursing Home Assn.'s accreditation committee, and Mrs. Margie S. Davis of Denver, secretary of the national association.

Other session speakers, representing medicine and hospitals, are Dr. John R. Schenken, Omaha physician and NU College of Medicine pathology department chairman, and Spencer Brader of Omaha, executive director of Immanuel Deaconess Hospital.

Nebraska association President Clifford M. Dahl of Wayne said the organization's 25-point Plan for Progress, adopted by the board this winter, will be discussed.

Dahl said this plan is highly important as nursing and care homes continue to grow in their role as one of the state's and nation's major health services.

It is estimated that Nebraska today has about 8,000 beds for the aged and infirm, with half of these in the skilled nursing home category.

Scout Speaker

All - American quarterback Harry Stuhldreher, one of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen of the early 20's, will address over 1,000 Boy Scouts and leaders at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday at the Cornhusker Council Boy Scout Recognition Dinner at Pershing Auditorium. Stuhldreher, past president of the American Football Coaches Assn., is on the executive board of the Allegheny Boy Scout Council, Penn., and on the Board of Directors of the Boys Club of Pittsburgh. He has coached football at Villanova and was director of athletics and coach at the University of Wisconsin. He is currently assistant to the vice president of the United States Steel Corp., which he joined in 1950.

Hastings Has Honors Program

Hastings — An Honors Program for junior and senior students to go into effect in September, has been announced by Hastings College Dean M. G. Scarlett.

The program is designed to challenge and stimulate qualified students to read more widely, to think more critically and to gain additional competence in the areas of independent research, scholarly writing and intelligent discussion.

Basically, the program includes two honors courses, either or both of which may be elected by eligible students.

The first part of the program consists of a junior level, two-semester Reading for Honors Course, carrying two hours of credit each semester; the second, a Senior Departmental Independent Study Honors Course, also is a two-semester course carrying two hours of credit each semester.

The existing system of cum laude, magna cum laude and summa cum laude will remain in force. The diplomas and transcripts of students receiving junior or senior honors will, however, carry an added notation that the student has graduated with these honors.

Alliance On Stamp

A stamp honoring the Alliance for Progress will be issued by the United States on Aug. 17, and members of the Organization of American States (OAS) will be invited to follow suit.

The U.S. stamp was announced by Postmaster General J. Edward Day at a Miami Beach meeting with Central American postal officials. He asked the postal chiefs of Costa Rica, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama and the Canal Zone to participate in the joint issue. Other nations which are members of the Alliance will be sent similar invitations through the OAS.

Aug. 17 is the second anniversary of the signing of the Charter of Punta del Este at the Uruguay conference which set up the 10-year program for hemisphere economic and social development, financed in large part by U.S. foreign aid funds.

Inverted Airmail

The 1918 inverted 24c airmail stamp, which now brings up to $10,000 a copy, is the subject of an illustrated brochure which fills many gaps in the story of this famous find. The brochure was compiled with the help of Mrs. William T. Robey, widow of the man who bought the stamps at a Washington, D.C. post office. The brochure is available free from Washington Press, Maplewood, N.J.

Nationalist China has issued two stamps for the 20th Youth Day and a set of 3 commemoratives for the first anniversary of the Asian-Oceanic Postal Union, which includes China, Korea, the Philippines and Thailand . . . West Germany will issue 4 stamps Apr. 26 in connection with the Flowers and Philately Stamp exhibition at Hamburg.

The United Arab Republic, (Egypt) honored the new Yemeni Arab Republic, set up last fall with Egyptian military aid, with a stamp showing a flag and flaming torch.

Twin Talk

New York (UPI) — Actor Ernest Borgnine insists he heard one twin in a quarrel with the other say: "If it weren't for me, you'd have two heads."

Roundabout Route Taken

Hollywood (AP) — Jennifer Cryer, red-haired British stage actress, came to America to work in the British embassy in Washington. There, a Los Angeles businessman liked her efficiency and hired her as his private secretary.

Three months ago, she started doing some little theater work around Hollywood to occupy herself nights.

Director John Rich saw her and now she's doing a comedy role in "Wives and Lovers."

Study Made of TV in Nigeria

Imported Shows From U.S. Project Bad Image

Just for the sake of argument, assume you are a citizen of Nigeria.

Having only recently become acquainted with your country's official language—English—you have some kind of notions about that stupendous nation across the endless sea, the United States of America.

Then one day you cosy up to a television set, maybe in your national capitol, Lagos.

And what program is on?

Why, "Wrestling From Marigold," that's what.

If you're lucky, it might be "Superman" or something called "Panic."

This, says Jack McBride, general manager of KUON-TV, the University of Nebraska educational TV station, unhappily, is frequently how Nigerians today get their first contact with the U.S.A.

Last fall the Nebraskan accepted a Ford Foundation assignment and spent 2½ weeks evaluating radio and TV broadcasting in Nigeria.

So moved was he by the kind of U.S. image being projected in Nigeria that he felt compelled to produce an addendum to his technical report.

Virtually all of the television screened in Nigeria, except for those offered in schools, he wrote, is beamed to the upper income level citizens, the "influentials" in government, industry, business and opinion-making.

Yet because Nigeria's 4 TV stations must operate on limited budgets home grown production is rare, putting the heavy end of a telecast schedule in low-cost import offerings, continued the report.

"The owners of American and British television properties, having made their profits from domestic use, are frequently anxious to peddle programs overseas for little more than print cost," McBride wrote.

The result: programs like Wrestling From Marigold, Superman, etc.

"The key and influential Nigerians, those who make policy for their nation, have as a principal exposure to the United States," McBride wrote, "westerns which contain considerable gunplay in an artificial world, crime programs which show only the seamy side of American life, situation comedies in which the father is the bumbling butt of the jokes (this to a people who believe partriarchy supreme) and March of Time documentaries of American offensive action in Korea broadcast at a time of current international crisis."

McBride concluded:

"The total image of the United States left with these impressionistic people certainly is not what the Western world desires.

"As more nations activate television stations—and they will, for television is as much a status symbol as a steel plant—the situation becomes acute."

Peter O'Toole (right), who had the title role in "Lawrence of Arabia," makes his TV singing debut in a duet with Ed Sullivan today at 7 p.m. on KOLN-TV and WOW-TV.

NU Radio Program Wins Prize

A University of Nebraska documentary radio program has won the Bing Crosby Award in the American Foundation for the Blind National Radio and Television Contest.

Produced by radio students at the University, "The Stan and Berit Yank Story" dramatizes the lives of a young Omaha married couple, both blind.

According to the producer-director, William L. Cooper, a senior speech major from Omaha, the half-hour program shows how people can live normal lives even though they can't see.

Stan is a graduate of the University of Omaha, operates his own business in Omaha, and is the leader of a small band.

His wife, Berit, graduated from Iowa State University and teaches for the State of Nebraska's Department of Services for the Visually Impaired. They met when Stan was a student in one of Berit's classes. They have a 3½ year old daughter, Shelley, who has normal vision.

Also included on the program is a tribute to the couple by Gov. Frank B. Morrison.

Dr. M. Scheffel Pierce, assistant professor of radio and television at the University, said the program will be distributed to more than 2,000 radio stations throughout the nation.

Study Made of TV in Nigeria

Imported Shows From U.S. Project Bad Image

Just for the sake of argument, assume you are a citizen of Nigeria.

Having only recently become acquainted with your country's official language—English—you have some kind of notions about that stupendous nation across the endless sea, the United States of America.

Then one day you cosy up to a television set, maybe in your national capitol, Lagos.

And what program is on?

Why, "Wrestling From Marigold," that's what.

If you're lucky, it might be "Superman" or something called "Panic."

This, says Jack McBride, general manager of KUON-TV, the University of Nebraska educational TV station, unhappily, is frequently how Nigerians today get their first contact with the U.S.A.

Last fall the Nebraskan accepted a Ford Foundation assignment and spent 2½ weeks evaluating radio and TV broadcasting in Nigeria.

So moved was he by the kind of U.S. image being projected in Nigeria that he felt compelled to produce an addendum to his technical report.

Virtually all of the television screened in Nigeria, except for those offered in schools, he wrote, is beamed to the upper income level citizens, the "influentials" in government, industry, business and opinion-making.

Yet because Nigeria's 4 TV stations must operate on limited budgets home grown production is rare, putting the heavy end of a telecast schedule in low-cost import offerings, continued the report.

"The owners of American and British television properties, having made their profits from domestic use, are frequently anxious to peddle programs overseas for little more than print cost," McBride wrote.

The result: programs like Wrestling From Marigold, Superman, etc.

"The key and influential Nigerians, those who make policy for their nation, have as a principal exposure to the United States," McBride wrote, "westerns which contain considerable gunplay in an artificial world, crime programs which show only the seamy side of American life, situation comedies in which the father is the bumbling butt of the jokes (this to a people who believe partriarchy supreme) and March of Time documentaries of American offensive action in Korea broadcast at a time of current international crisis."

McBride concluded:

"The total image of the United States left with these impressionistic people certainly is not what the Western world desires.

"As more nations activate television stations—and they will, for television is as much a status symbol as a steel plant—the situation becomes acute."

Peter O'Toole (right), who had the title role in "Lawrence of Arabia," makes his TV singing debut in a duet with Ed Sullivan today at 7 p.m. on KOLN-TV and WOW-TV.

NU Radio Program Wins Prize

A University of Nebraska documentary radio program has won the Bing Crosby Award in the American Foundation for the Blind National Radio and Television Contest.

Produced by radio students at the University, "The Stan and Berit Yank Story" dramatizes the lives of a young Omaha married couple, both blind.

According to the producer-director, William L. Cooper, a senior speech major from Omaha, the half-hour program shows how people can live normal lives even though they can't see.

Stan is a graduate of the University of Omaha, operates his own business in Omaha, and is the leader of a small band.

His wife, Berit, graduated from Iowa State University and teaches for the State of Nebraska's Department of Services for the Visually Impaired. They met when Stan was a student in one of Berit's classes. They have a 3½ year old daughter, Shelley, who has normal vision.

Also included on the program is a tribute to the couple by Gov. Frank B. Morrison.

Dr. M. Scheffel Pierce, assistant professor of radio and television at the University, said the program will be distributed to more than 2,000 radio stations throughout the nation.

Embellishments Secret

Though the decorating committee, headed by Joseph Lotto, is keeping all decorations for the party a secret, the fact that this is a diamond jubilee for the Association suggests the probable theme Mr Lotto has promised that the decorations will be "fabulous."

Dwight Kirsch

Mr. Waugh, who has served many years as a member of the Association's board, is now an honorary member and will preside as master of ceremonies. Since leaving Lincoln, Mr. Waugh has done extensive traveling, especially during the years he served in governmental posts during the Eisenhower administration. Since leaving Lincoln, Mr. Waugh has done extensive traveling, especially during the years he served in governmental posts during the Eisenhower administration. He has been deputy under-secretary of state and president of the Export-Import Bank of Washington.

Mr. Waugh is no stranger to Nebraska and Lincoln, he was born in Plattsmouth, educated in the Lincoln public schools and is a graduate of the University of Nebraska. He received the Distinguished Service Award from NU in 1951. At present, he is Washington consultant for Blaw-Knox Co. of Pittsburgh and the Bank of New York.

Headed NU Galleries

Also well-known to Lincolnites is Mr. Kirsch, a former director of the NU Art Galleries and chairman of the NU art department. Mr. Kirsch will speak briefly in a reminiscent mood.

Samuel Waugh

When he left Lincoln, Mr. Kirsch, a nationally known figure in the art world, went to Des Moines, Ia., where he served as director at the Des Moines Art Center. Retiring from that position, he became artist-in-residence at Iowa State University at Ames.

Mr. Kirsch, who has exhibited his work in many shows in the U.S., is a graduate of Lincoln High School and the University of Nebraska. He studied in New York City at the Art Students' League for 3 years.

Principal speaker for the diamond jubilee event will be Mrs. Halpert, who is another important figure in the art world. She arranged the first municipal art exhibit in Atlantic City in 1929, the "Forum" exhibition at Radio City in New York in 1934, and in 1959 she was curator of the art section at the American National Exhibition in Moscow. For this last project she received a citation for distinguished service and merit award emblem from the U.S. State Dept.

Mrs. Halpert is considered an authority, not only on American contemporary art, but also on Early American art, according to Mr. Wells.

Among the other interesting features planned for the diamond anniversary dinner is a brief history of the Association in brochure form, which will be presented to each person attending.

About 250 Lincolnites and out-of-towners are expected Friday evening. Mrs. Richard Garlinghouse, who is in charge of reservations, noted.

Mrs. Halpert

The bride's floor-length gown of Chantilly lace featured a petal neckline, long sleeves tapering to bridal points and a voluminous skirt with tiers of lace and tulle flowing to a chapel train. Her bouffant veil was caught by a pearl and crystal crown, and she carried a white orchid with stephanotis on a white Bible.

Lloyd Davis of Rogersville, Tenn., was best man. Groomsmen were John Houston of Oakmont, Pa.; Yandall Goodwin of Waco, Tex.; Mike Chatterson of Alexandria, Ind., and Gary Kirkendall of Council Bluffs, Ia.

LINCOLN DIARY

Monday: "I see your ugly pills finally wore off," chortled 11-year-old David Critchfield as he cast a jaundiced eye on his 8-year-old sister Melissa. She was wearing her golden crown and clutching her trophy as Nebraska's winner in the Maid of Cotton contest, "Missy," daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Critchfield, will go to Memphis for the annual Cotton Carnival week to contend for the national title of Maid of Cotton. Her busy schedule includes riding on parade floats, TV interviews, and a boat trip down the Mississippi on the "Memphis Queen."

Tuesday: No bore was baby boar, Josephina, the pet of a resort in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico where Nona and Jim Lantz vacationed. Josephina was so enamoured of the Lantzes that she became their fast buddy, sunbathing with them, following them into the dining room and, speaking of strange bed-fellows, even turned up in their bedroom at 2 a.m.

Wednesday: One bridegroom-to-be was puzzled by the clerk's request for $300 for payment of the marriage license. His exclamation of "$300, are you kidding?" brought forth a gentle reply from his fiance who said, "She meant $3 dear, so why get so upset, after all, this is only the beginning."

Thursday: The Easter Seal Bunny is $5 richer today, thanks to University High girls Jeannie Wickless and Nancy Jenkins. They found a $5 bill on a downtown sidewalk and, putting temptation behind them, attached it to a note to Bill Gold asking that it be turned over to the Easter seal drive.

Friday: From Oslow, Norway, to Lincoln especially to attend the Pinewood Bowl Easter sunrise service comes Norwegian foreign exchange high school student Grethe Lindback. She will visit with her classmate from Findlay, O., Jeanette Imbody, at the home of Miss Imbody's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Meyer. Grethe should have many interesting notes to take back to Norway, ranging from the magnificence of the sunrise service to the current Lincoln teenage craze of exchanging livestock for Easter gifts. Inventory among local high school students show new gift pets ranging from baby chicks, ducks, puppies, bunnies and kittens to the lucky youngster who got a goat.

No-Stick Waffles

Don't try to clean the grids of a waffle iron so they look shiny-new! Scrubbing the grids usually makes waffle batter stick.

Heat Losses

In an average house, 25 to 35% of the heat is lost through the attic roof and floor and about 30% through the outside walls, doors and windows.

Ice Tray Finish

A special finish is used inside ice trays that simplifies removal of ice cubes. The trays should be washed in warm, not hot, water so the finish will not be damaged.

Campus Kernels

Ivy Halls Are Silent

By KAREN RASMUSSEN

Houses and halls were silent as the spring holiday brought a much welcomed vacation for student and professors. However, preceding the long-awaited holiday, a round of functions and parties highlighted campus activities.

Las Vegas found its match at the Phi Delta Theta casino party.

Testing out their domestic abilities, Arnie Carson and his assistants assumed the positions of head chefs for a Kappa-Sammy steak fry. One group nearly missed the function as "trusty" scout Dan Rosenthal got lost on the way to Pioneers Park, and arrived 45 minutes late.

A little flustered, Sigma Chi Dean Conley rushed upstairs from dinner to get his cigars and announce his pinning. He was so nervous that he started down 3 times to pass the cigars only to retreat to first floor after each valiant attempt. When he finally bolstered enough courage to get downstairs, there had been such a long delay that no one noticed him for several minutes. However, the cigars did get passed . . . amid the congratulations of Dean's fraternity brothers.

Cheerleading tryouts, formals and last-minute plans for vacation consumed most students' time as they said farewells to classes and books.

Campus Kernels

Ivy Halls Are Silent

By KAREN RASMUSSEN

Houses and halls were silent as the spring holiday brought a much welcomed vacation for student and professors. However, preceding the long-awaited holiday, a round of functions and parties highlighted campus activities.

Las Vegas found its match at the Phi Delta Theta casino party.

Testing out their domestic abilities, Arnie Carson and his assistants assumed the positions of head chefs for a Kappa-Sammy steak fry. One group nearly missed the function as "trusty" scout Dan Rosenthal got lost on the way to Pioneers Park, and arrived 45 minutes late.

A little flustered, Sigma Chi Dean Conley rushed upstairs from dinner to get his cigars and announce his pinning. He was so nervous that he started down 3 times to pass the cigars only to retreat to first floor after each valiant attempt. When he finally bolstered enough courage to get downstairs, there had been such a long delay that no one noticed him for several minutes. However, the cigars did get passed . . . amid the congratulations of Dean's fraternity brothers.

Cheerleading tryouts, formals and last-minute plans for vacation consumed most students' time as they said farewells to classes and books.

Heating Oven

If you've cooked roast beef in a slow oven and want to put Yorkshire pudding into a hot oven while the beef is "resting," count on it taking from 5 to 8 minutes for the oven to reach the high temperature.

Students To Marry

Cozad—Mrs. Edna Hergenrader announces the engagement of her daughter, Judy, to James Haver of Grand Island, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haver of Grand Island.

Miss Hergenrader will be graduated from Kearney State Teachers College (KSTC) this spring. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority.

Mr. Haver attended KSTC and will be a student at Creighton University School of Dentistry this summer.

The couple is planning a June 1 wedding.

No-Stick Waffles

Don't try to clean the grids of a waffle iron so they look shiny-new! Scrubbing the grids usually makes waffle batter stick.

Heat Losses

In an average house, 25 to 35% of the heat is lost through the attic roof and floor and about 30% through the outside walls, doors and windows.

Ice Tray Finish

A special finish is used inside ice trays that simplifies removal of ice cubes. The trays should be washed in warm, not hot, water so the finish will not be damaged.

Vinaigrette a Spirited Touch to Leftover Beef

By MALCOLM R. HEBERT
Chicago News World Service

The Gentleman Chef answers questions on cuisine!

Q. "I love Hollandaise sauce and yet every time I make it, it curdles. How can I prevent this?"

A. Hollandaise is one of the tricky French sauces that makes even a great French chef occasionally explode. There is no foolproof method for making Hollandaise, but there is an old French trick that will reduce errors. The butter is actually the culprit. Melt your butter ahead of time and let it settle. In 15 minutes you'll notice that a clear liquid is at the top and the butter solids at the bottom. Use the clear liquid on top. Discard the butter solids at the bottom.

Q. "In every recipe I've ever seen that calls for chicken to be sauteed, it says to use butter. Every time I try it, I burn the chicken. It doesn't come out brown, just black. What's wrong?"

A. The skin of a chicken is tender. Butter burns easily. Put the two together and you can have trouble. To avoid this, first, saute chicken on low heat. Second, add a little oil to the butter. This prevents the butter from breaking up and burning.

Q. "I hate leftover roast beef. Can you give me a gourmet recipe and help me enjoy life again?"

A. Try this. It's a hearty dish calling for French green beans almondine and a bottle of rose wine.

Beef Vinaigrette

- 4 cups julienne strips leftover roast beef
- ½ cup onion chopped fine
- ¼ cup red wine vinegar
- ½ cup olive oil
- 2 tablespoons parsley
- 2 tablespoons capers
- 2 teaspoons tarragon
- 2 teaspoons chervil
- 2 teaspoons chives
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 dashes Tabasco sauce
- Freshly ground pepper

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Let stand at room temperature for 3 hours. Stir occasionally. Chill in refrigerator for 1 hour. Yield: 3 servings.

They're Ready For Bunny Trail

It is time again for the furry animal with the long ears to come around with his Easter basket.

To the very young, the rabbit means gayly decorated eggs—which rarely get eaten—but are, nevertheless, a thrilling discovery resting in a nest of green grass. The older child may raise domestic rabbits.

To the pioneer family rabbits sometimes meant the difference between survival and starvation during the long winter months. The jackrabbit or cottontail was a toothsome morsel baked in a pie or stewed.

Peter Cottontail's diet consists of mostly green vegetables and carrots and in captivity may be fed a supplement called rabbit pellets.

Jim Ager tells me this is the case of the eight—or possibly more by now?????—rabbits at Antelope Zoo in their outdoor pen.

When moved to the Children's Zoo, the bunnies will have a home in the Climb In and Play Pen. Then your children may actually play with their beloved "Easter Bunny".

There are several breeds of tame rabbits. The pets we most frequently see are white and have pink eyes. They are albinos.

The jackrabbit of the American West is not actually a rabbit—although he is a very close relative. He is really a hare. True rabbits are born naked and blind. Hares are born with fur and with their eyes open.

Since this is Eastertime, why not go to the Zoo and visit our own Easter Bunnies! Don't let Peter Cottontail "hop down the bunny trail" unnoticed.

Keep It White

Status symbol in spring fashions is the white handbag—preferably white alligator, if you can afford it. But even if yours is just plain plastic, it deserves real status care.

At the first sign of soil, go over the surface with a sponge dipped into soap or detergent suds. It's best to keep your white bag clean, so you can avoid later scrubbing to get it clean.

Eastertime Brides

Mrs. Clarke R. Gellermann
(Miss Nancy R. Dahl)

Mrs. Ronavan Mohling
(Miss Virginia Hardy)

Miss Nancy R. Dahl and Clarke R. Gellermann of Humboldt exchanged wed- Saturday ceremony at First Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sam Dahl and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Gellermann of Humboldt.

The bride wore a full-length gown of white taffeta featuring a princess bodice enhanced by a back bow that topped a full chapel train.

A crown of seed pearls held her veil and she carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Gary C. Flack of Newark, Calif., was matron of honor and bridesmatrons were Mmes. Dennis Johnson of Stromsburg, Ned Kelly of Milford and Ray Rosenow.

Serving as best man was Steven Engstrom of San Jose, Calif., and groomsmen were Dave Glasgow of Humboldt, Dick Fankhauser of Humboldt and Ray Rosenow.

The newlyweds will make their home at 261 E. Cherrywood Dr. in Lincoln.

Beatrice — Miss Virginia Carol Hardy of Lincoln and Ronavan R. Mohling exchanged wedding vows in a 7:30 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. Edward Hardy of Fairbury and Raymond Mohling.

Chantilly lace formed the bodice of the bride's gown with a Sabrina neckline and long bridal point sleeves. Appliques of lace adorned the billowing organza skirt which featured a large obi bow and long streamers above the chapel train. Her 3-tiered veil was caught by a crown of pearlized blossoms, and she carried white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Ted Hardy of Fairbury was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Aldene Eisenhauer of Fairbury; Carolyn Rice of Manhattan, Kan., and Sharon Mihulka of Lincoln.

Larry Church of Lincoln was best man, groomsmen were James Arndt, Dick Hoelscher and Lloyd Mohling, all of Lincoln. Ushers were Ted Hardy and Wendell Mohling, both of Fairbury.

The couple will be at home at 3117 No. 66th in Lincoln.

News of the Zoos

They're Ready For Bunny Trail

It is time again for the furry animal with the long ears to come around with his Easter basket.

To the very young, the rabbit means gayly decorated eggs—which rarely get eaten—but are, nevertheless, a thrilling discovery resting in a nest of green grass. The older child may raise domestic rabbits.

To the pioneer family rabbits sometimes meant the difference between survival and starvation during the long winter months. The jackrabbit or cottontail was a toothsome morsel baked in a pie or stewed.

Peter Cottontail's diet consists of mostly green vegetables and carrots and in captivity may be fed a supplement called rabbit pellets.

Jim Ager tells me this is the case of the eight—or possibly more by now?????—rabbits at Antelope Zoo in their outdoor pen.

When moved to the Children's Zoo, the bunnies will have a home in the Climb In and Play Pen. Then your children may actually play with their beloved "Easter Bunny".

There are several breeds of tame rabbits. The pets we most frequently see are white and have pink eyes. They are albinos.

The jackrabbit of the American West is not actually a rabbit—although he is a very close relative. He is really a hare. True rabbits are born naked and blind. Hares are born with fur and with their eyes open.

Since this is Eastertime, why not go to the Zoo and visit our own Easter Bunnies! Don't let Peter Cottontail "hop down the bunny trail" unnoticed.

Keep It White

Status symbol in spring fashions is the white handbag—preferably white alligator, if you can afford it. But even if yours is just plain plastic, it deserves real status care.

At the first sign of soil, go over the surface with a sponge dipped into soap or detergent suds. It's best to keep your white bag clean, so you can avoid later scrubbing to get it clean.

Charcoal Broil

If you don't have a fireplace rack, you can charcoal cook without one. This trick also is handy on a hiking trip. Turn up the edges of a piece of foil and pour enough olive oil on it to keep meat moist while cooking. Place the meat on the foil, then put the foil directly on wood charcoal briquets. Turn the meat once. Remove from the fire when done, then season and serve.

Fish Tip

When cleaning fish, rub a little vinegar into the skin of the fish and it will make the job of removing the scales easier.

Overcalling Means Delicate Situation

By HOWARD SCHENKEN AND RICHARD L. FREY

When your partner has opened one no trump, showing a balanced distribution with 16-18 high-card points, it is usually easy to decide where to go and how far. But some delicate situations can arise if the second player overcalls one no trump with a suit bid

The overcall automatically deprives you of the possibility of exploring game chances with the Stayman convention, and makes it difficult to maneuver below the game level

Test your judgment in these circumstances. Neither side vulnerable, North deals and bids one no trump and East overcalls two hearts. What should South bid with each of the following hands?

a. ♠ K 9 8 4 3 ♡ 5 ◇ 8 7 2 ♣ 9 6 3 2

b. ♠ A J 7 4 2 ♡ 5 2 ◇ 8 7 ♣ K J 4 3

c. ♠ K 7 4 ♡ J 6 2 ◇ A 3 ♣ 10 8 5 4 3

d. ♠ K 5 2 ♡ J 4 ◇ A 7 5 4 ♣ 10 6 5 3

e. ♠ A J 6 3 ♡ 7 ◇ J 7 3 2 ♣ K J 6 4

f. ♠ 7 3 ♡ 8 4 ◇ Q 7 6 2 ♣ K J 8 6 3

Answers to Bridge Quiz

a. Two spades. Fighting for the part score, South simply indicates that he wishes to play two spades and has no game ambitions.

b. Three spades. Showing a five-card spade suit and asking North to choose between game contracts in spades and no trump. North is almost sure to raise to four spades if he has 3-card support, and might even do so with a strong doubleton spade if his hearts are weak.

c. Double. Game prospects are doubtful, but there is every reason to think that two hearts will be defeated at least two tricks. The dummy will have few points and few trumps.

d. Two no trump. Suggesting three no trump. The failure to double indicates heart weakness and if North is also weak in hearts, he might take out into a minor suit.

e. Three hearts. The cue-bid in this position need not indicate any control in the opponent's suit. Below the game level it may be used as a means of exploration. South hopes that partner will bid three spades. If North does not have a spade suit, he will bid three no trump if his heart holding looks good enough

f. Three clubs. Non-forcing and unconstructive. Superficially, this may sound like a strong bid, but a strong hand can always find a stronger action than three clubs. It is useful to be able to fight for the part score, and from South's point of view, three clubs is apt to be the right contract for his side

Herbert Lehman Clothed in Social Crusader's Mail by Biographer Nevins

Herbert H. Lehman and His Era. By Allan Nevins; Scribners.

It is a real honor when a man's biography is written while he still lives He is doubly honored when so capable a biographer as Allan Nevins does the job

Herbert Lehman's life story will not stir readers by revelations of long-secret "deals," or by its recounting of wild escapades of youth Lehman's life was exciting in its way, however.

Nevin tells a story of extraordinary moral courage in a man whose convictions went further than the mere aspiration to hold public office

The old (now 85) warrior of many a political crusade fought to win, surely, but his objectives in winning were the programs he could institute for public good once he was in office

Conversely, he battled also at times against influences he was convinced were against public good He is famous for his stand in the Senate against Joe McCarthy and for his attempts to scrap the McCarran-Walter immigration act

More recently he helped oust Carmine De Sapio from leadership of the Democratic Party in New York City.

From his first public job in the Navy Department during World War I Lehman seemed to triumph in politics for half a century by not acting like a politician His reputation for sincere integrity carried him through

Elected as lieutenant governor of New York under Gov Franklin D. Roosevelt, Lehman stayed on in Albany when F.D R. moved to Washington, and served an unprecedented 4 terms as Democratic governor Later he was federal foreign relief administrator, director of UNRRA, then a U S senator before retiring from public office in 1956

There was never any guesswork about where Lehman stood throughout his career. He was a determined liberal and battler for civil rights and public housing and against racial segregation and immigration restrictions

Adlai Stevenson once said of him "He built a great career on principles and not principles on a career"

Sand Creek Indian Massacre Foul Day in History

A Very Small Remnant. By Michael Straight; Knopf.

There is no page of American history dealing with the whites and Indians so foul and shameful as that documenting the Sand Creek Massacre of 1864.

There in southern Colorado, a troop of state militiamen, led by a one-time Methodist preacher astride a huge black mule, fell upon a community of peaceful and peace-seeking Indians .

Thus Col Chivington, once bishop of southern Nebraska Methodist churches and thought to have been a Lincoln resident, perpetually planted his name in the evil edged record

This novel, based on the bare bones of fact and fleshed out warmly, chronicles not the massacre so much as the efforts of a few whites to expose Chivington's murderous deed to the view of fellow Caucasians

It is entirely in sympathy with the Indians Well it ought to be, too

Herbert Lehman Clothed in Social Crusader's Mail by Biographer Nevins

Herbert H. Lehman and his Era. By Allan Nevins; Scribners.

It is a real honor when a man's biography is written while he still lives. He is doubly honored when so capable a biographer as Allan Nevins does the job.

Herbert Lehman's life story will not stir readers by revelations of long-secret "deals," or by its recounting of wild escapades of youth. Lehman's life was exciting in its way, however.

Nevin tells a story of extraordinary moral courage in a man whose convictions went further than the mere aspiration to hold public office.

The old (now 85) warrior of many a political crusade fought to win, surely, but his objectives in winning were the programs he could institute for public good once he was in office.

Conversely, he battled also at times against influences he was convinced were against public good. He is famous for his stand in the Senate against Joe McCarthy and for his attempts to scrap the McCarran-Walter immigration act.

More recently he helped oust Carmine De Sapio from leadership of the Democratic Party in New York City.

From his first public job in the Navy Department during World War I Lehman seemed to triumph in politics for half a century by not acting like a politician. His reputation for sincere integrity carried him through.

Elected as lieutenant governor of New York under Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Lehman stayed on in Albany when F.D.R. moved to Washington, and served an unprecedented 4 terms as Democratic governor. Later he was federal foreign relief administrator, director of UNRRA, then a U.S. senator before retiring from public office in 1956.

There was never any guesswork about where Lehman stood throughout his career. He was a determined liberal and battler for civil rights and public housing and against racial segregation and immigration restrictions.

Adlai Stevenson once said of him: "He built a great career on principles and not principles on a career."

Sand Creek Indian Massacre Foul Day in History

A Very Small Remnant. By Michael Straight; Knopf.

There is no page of American history dealing with the whites and Indians so foul and shameful as that documenting the Sand Creek Massacre of 1864.

There in southern Colorado, a troop of state militiamen, led by a one-time Methodist preacher astride a huge black mule, fell upon a community of peaceful and peace-seeking Indians.

Thus Col. Chivington, once bishop of southern Nebraska Methodist churches and thought to have been a Lincoln resident, perpetually planted his name in the evil-edged record.

This novel, based on the bare bones of fact and fleshed out warmly, chronicles not the massacre so much as the efforts of a few whites to expose Chivington's murderous deed to the view of fellow Caucasians.

It is entirely in sympathy with the Indians. Well it ought to be, too.

Book Gives 75 Opinions by Justice Black

One Man's Stand for Freedom; Mr. Justice Black and the Bill of Rights. Edited by Irving Dilliard; Knopf

Hugo Black, 77, justice, United States Supreme Court, is speaking

"My view is, without deviation, without exception, without any ifs, buts or wherefores, that freedom of speech means that you shall not do something to people either for the views they have or the views they express or the words they speak or write"

No paraphrasing could better explain Mr. Justice Black's position

It is a philosophy so broad that millions, in practice, would shrink it to their own limitations

Many do Or try to do so.

It is a philosophy earning for Hugo Black, the first Supreme Court appointee of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, scorn, abuse and disputation within his native land

It is the philosophy of a man with "a courage that is too rare in our times"

The praise comes from an admiring newspaperman Irving Dilliard He here presents, cogently and most scholarly, 75 of Mr. Justice Black's opinions. Dilliard has performed a major public service.

Running chronologically, these selected opinions make stunningly manifest what is truly great about this country — individual civil liberties constitutionally granted, constitutionally guarded

The world is light - years away from Dec 15 1791, when the Bill of Rights was ratified

Yet to Hugo Black, the injunction "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press ." mean just that . . . NO law.

Because most Americans or their legislative representatives or even members of the United States Supreme Court do not share the absolutist view, Justice Black has, since 1938, generally been in the camp of the dissenters from the majority.

Increasingly, however, the Court is beginning to share the Alabaman's outlook, even to reversing some of its previous positions.

"One Man's Stand" will strike differing marks among readers

From purely a historical consideration, not only do the judiciously selected opinions trace the continuing relevancy of civil rights cases to all but background notes with each opinion are most helpful.

Value is added with a reprint of justice Black's 1961 James Madison lecture on the Bill of Rights and a searching interview conducted one year ago

More Americans than will be the case should read this noble book, demonstrating a maturity then citizenship responsibility demands

Two Young College Grads Make Recording Words Profitable Deal

By WILLIAM D LAFFLER

New York (UPI) — Two young college graduates who developed an idea into a profitable enterprise have turned their energies and resources into making the American boy a better man

Ten years ago Barbara Holdridge and Marianne Mantell, fresh out of Hunter College were bored with their jobs They pooled what little savings they had into an experiment and today they are envied by everyone in the phonograph record business

Barbara and Marianne set up a record company designed to specialize not in rock and roll or symphonies or the vogue of a decade ago, but in the spoken word Their first big record was a reading of his own poems by Dylan Thomas

Since then they have produced an enviable catalog of some of the finest work in all literature, recited by such persons as Rex Harrison, Tyrone Power, Paul Scofield, Shirley Booth Sir John Gielgud Richard Burton and Boris Karloff

But Barbara and Marianne are not satisfied with their success What they want to do is present some recordings which will make young people want to know more about literature and become more informed adult citizens

These two women, still in their early 30's, have left a remarkable heritage to their own children to be shared with all youngsters who speak English This heritage consists of stereophonic recordings of major Shakespearean plays, among them, "Macbeth" and "Troilus and Cressida," that bring the Bard's characters to life Thus, they help the teacher make Shakespeare a pleasure rather than a chore

Julie Harris, Karloff, Edward G Robinson, Sir Ralph Richardson and others are in Barbara and Marianne's plans to bring more earthy characters, such as Sherlock Holmes, into the youngster's lore.

Big time movie and stage stars enjoy recording plays or readings for these two enterprising girls

"Rex Harrison was invited to perform at the White House," Barbara said during an interview in a restaurant near Broadway "But he was unable to go Yet he still made a recording at that time of 'Much Ado About Nothing' for us."

New York (UPI) — Two young college graduates who developed an idea into a profitable enterprise have turned their energies and resources into making the American boy a better man.

Ten years ago Barbara Holdridge and Marianne Mantell, fresh out of Hunter College, were bored with their jobs. They pooled what little savings they had into an experiment and today they are envied by everyone in the phonograph record business.

Barbara and Marianne set up a record company designed to specialize not in rock and roll or symphonies or the vogue of a decade ago, but in the spoken word. Their first big record was a reading of his own poems by Dylan Thomas.

Since then they have produced an enviable catalog of some of the finest work in all literature, recited by such persons as Rex Harrison, Tyrone Power, Paul Scofield, Shirley Booth, Sir John Gielgud, Richard Burton and Boris Karloff.

But Barbara and Marianne are not satisfied with their success. What they want to do is present some recordings which will make young people want to know more about literature and become more informed adult citizens.

These two women, still in their early 30's, have left a remarkable heritage to their own children to be shared with all youngsters who speak English. This heritage consists of sterophonic recordings of major Shakesperean plays, among them, "Macbeth" and "Troilus and Cressida," that bring the Bard's characters to life. Thus, they help the teacher make Shakespeare a pleasure rather than a chore.

Julie Harris, Karloff, Edward G. Robinson, Sir Ralph Richardson and others are in Barbara and Marianne's plans to bring more earthy characters, such as Sherlock Holmes, into the youngster's lore.

Big-time movie and stage stars enjoy recording plays or readings for these two enterprising girls.

"Rex Harrison was invited to perform at the White House," Barbara said during an interview in a restaurant near Broadway. "But he was unable to go. Yet he still made a recording at that time of 'Much Ado About Nothing' for us."

Pro Football Exhibition Sought for Seacrest Field

By CONDE SARGENT

Professional football may become an annual sporting event in Lincoln

Lincoln school officials are hopeful that a pro exhibition game every August can be arranged to be played at Seacrest Field, the year old grid home for the 3 local public high schools

Negotiations are under way to get a game this year, according to Dr Steven N Watkins, superintendent of schools

While nothing definite is set, some clubs have announced an interest in playing in Lincoln

The school system's best selling point in arranging the contest is the $375,000 plant which would accomodate as many as 14,000 fans who could comfortably watch a pro game at night under the field's superb lighting

The stadium proper seats 10,500 and present bleachers will hold an additional 1,200 Watkins says other temporary seats can easily be added to push the total up to 14,000

"All would be good seats," he concluded

In return for the pro attraction, school officials anticipate that gate receipts would insure successful remittance on a $350,000 loan for the plant at 75th and A Sts

The first payment on the loan is due in 1965. A donation of $25,000 in bonds from the J C Seacrest Trust has taken care of financial obligations until then. The Seacrest Trust donated an additional $25,000 to a park which will be built nearby

Although bad weather cut down the crowds at Seacrest Field last fall, school officials aren't panicky about meeting their obligation

"We are optimistic," said Watkins, in contrast "We had some miserable weather last fall"

Watkins indicated that one extra game a year was planned, excluding the regular high school schedules The game could serve as a financial backstop in case bad weather would besiege the prep program

Watkins said the Nebraska U intra-squad game at Seacrest Field to conclude NU's All-Sports Day program on May 7 would not be considered as this extra game

He stressed a contest between two professional teams

The All Sports Day game will also mean a profit for the public schools, however Nebraska has guaranteed $1,200 and income could surpass $3,000, depending on the attendance

Gate receipts at Seacrest Field for the 14 games last fall totalled $21,720 03 An additional $9,270 from advance $10 00 book ticket and $100 lifetime pass sales boosted total receipts to $30,990 03

Long Ball Hitters Take Spotlight

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The long ball hitters who have been taking a back seat to the pitchers this spring, staged a power display Saturday

Led by Willie Mays of San Francisco and Norm Cash of the Tigers, the big boys slammed 19 home runs in the 7 afternoon games

Mays 'blast, off Chicago's Paul Toth, came in the 8th inning and gave the unbeaten Giants their 4th victory 7 1 A homer by Willie McCovey had accounted for the Giants' first run that helped give Jack Sanford his second triumph on a 3 hitter

Len Gabrielson a rookie, cracked his first major league home run to give the Milwaukee Braves a 5 2 decision over the New York Mets The homer came with two on base in the first inning off loser Galen Cisco and paved the way for Lew Burdette's first victory

The veteran Braves' right-hander permitted only 3 hits as the winless Mets lost their 4th Two of the Mets' hits were home runs by Duke Snider, his second, and Jim Hickman

Frank Robinson cracked his second homer of the season for Cincinnati but Pittsburgh routed 3 Reds' pitchers for 17 hits—including a home run by Bill Mazeroski to hang the 3rd straight defeat upon Fred Hutchinson's contenders 12 4 The Pirates tied into loser Jim O'Toole for three runs in the first and rouged up relief John Tsitouris for 5 in the 9th

Bob Friend went the route for his first triumph but was charged with four balks, giving him 6 in two games That broke the old National League mark of 5 for a full season, set by Max Lanier in 1950, and tied the major league standard of 6, established by Joe Bochling in 1945 and Vic Raschi in 1950 There were 7 balks called in the game

Home runs by Carl Sawatski Julian Javier and Dick Groat featured the St Louis Cardinals 7 0 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies Curt Simmons spun the shutout, permitting the previously unbeaten Phillies but 5 hits

Pittsburgh's Friend Sets Balk Record

Cincinnati (AP) Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates in his second start of the year set Saturday one record for a full season and tied another—for balks He tied or set 3 other marks in the same department for a shorter span

Four balks were called against Friend who beat the Cincinnati Reds with a 6 hitter 12 4

Along with two balks picked up in his first start, Friend now has 6, which sets a National League record and ties the major league mark for a full season Max Lanier set the old NL season standard of 5 in 1950, and Joe Bochling in 1945 and Vic Raschi in 1950 established the major league standard of 6

Four balks in a game broke the National League game mark of 3 held by 3 pitchers and tied Raschi's major league record of 4

Two balks in an inning by Friend tied the National League mark, established in 1933 by Robert M Brown of the Boston Braves. Roger Craig of the New York Mets also tied the two in one inning record on opening day this season

The balk calls against Friend continue the rash of such calls in the National League so far this season Already, umpires in the NL have called 18 balks, against none in the American League Despite this, National League President Warren Giles has contended he did not tell his umpires to pay close attention to balk calls this year.

North Shrine Team Has 7-4 Edge in All-Staters

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

The North has a decisive edge in all staters in the selection of 66 high school football players for the 5th annual Shrine Bowl game this summer

The two 33 man squads, representing 42 schools in 29 Nebraska towns, were selected by the coaching staffs headed by Ollie Smith of Hastings (South head coach) and Dick Christie of Omaha Tech (North)

All Sunday Journal and Star All-Staters were tabbed, sending 7 to the North and 4 to the Rebel team that had won 3 straight Shrine games before losing last August

The teams, cream of this year's prep football crop, will battle on Aug 9 p m at Nebraska's Memorial Stadium in Lincoln

A two week training camp will open Aug 5 at Doane College in Crete for the South and at Midland College in Fremont for the North

North all staters are end Bob Thomas, North Platte tackle Pete Johnson, Gering, guards Morrie Bantner, Omaha Benson and LeRoy Kobsa David City Aquinas center Dick Luebbe, Grand Island, and backs Larry Wachholtz of North Platte, and Danny Miller, Omaha South

Wachholtz, Thomas, and fullback Pete Tatman are representatives of North Platte's state championship team

On the South roster are end Tom Smith Hastings tackle Don Loftus Omaha South and backs Wayne Weber of Hastings and Kaye Carstens of Fairbury

The Capital City is well fortified on the South team with representatives from all 4 football playing schools The 7 Lincoln gridders—all Sunday Journal and Star All City selectees— are

Northeast— fullback linebacker Stan Grell and guard Brad Paulson

Southeast — tackle Carel Stith and halfback Bill Rohrig

Pius X—guard Ladd Lonnquist and fullback Dale Champoux

Lincoln High—end George Vogel

Also tabbed were 3 players from the 8 man ranks Bancroft's Cliff Schulting went to the North and Dennis Florell, two time 8 man all stater from Loomis, and Don Teiral, Ceresco strongboy were picked by the South

Highways 30 30A serve as the dividing line for North-South selections Schools on the boundary lines are split equally for both teams

Only 6 schools landed 3 or more players Omaha North and Omaha South each had 4 representatives while Hastings the second ranked team, Creighton Prep North Platte and Omaha Ryan each had 3

The Omaha North group is the entire Viking backfield lineup of quarterback Bob Churchich, halfbacks Rick Davis and Roquel (Rook) Taylor, and fullback all-stater Miller

It is the first time that a complete backfield has been selected

David Dirkx Boys Town quarterback is a non all stater highly regarded Boys Town doesn't play enough Nebraska games to qualify for the football ratings or all state nominations

Assistant coaches for this year's game are Tom Dineen, Omaha Ryan, LeRoy Zentic, Tecumseh and Art Bauer, of Lincoln Northeast for the South and Fred Arnold, Schuyler Gordon (Fuzz) Watts Chadron and George Redding North Platte for the North

The South should be strong at quarterback with Hastings' Weber, Dirkx, Class B all-stater Roger Douglas of Crete, and Jack Vacek of Omaha Ryan.

The North's strongest point probably is its interior line with 14 guards and tackles drawing nominations

Proceeds from the charity game go to Shrine's Hospital's for Crippled Children The first 4 games have netted $234 000

The long ball hitters, who have been taking a back seat to the pitchers this spring, staged a power display Saturday.

Led by Willie Mays of San Francisco and Norm Cash of the Tigers, the big boys slammed 19 home runs in the 7 afternoon games.

Mays 'blast, off Chicago's Paul Toth, came in the 8th inning and gave the unbeaten Giants their 4th victory, 2-1. A homer by Willie McCovey had accounted for the Giants' first run that helped give Jack Sanford his second triumph on a 3-hitter.

Len Gabrielson, a rookie, cracked his first major league home run to give the Milwaukee Braves a 5-2 decision over the New York Mets. The homer came with two on base in the first inning off loser Galen Cisco and paved the way for Lew Burdette's first victory.

The veteran Braves' right-hander permitted only 3 hits as the winless Mets lost their 4th. Two of the Mets' hits were home runs, by Duke Snider, his second, and Jim Hickman.

Frank Robinson cracked his second homer of the season for Cincinnati but Pittsburgh routed 3 Reds' pitchers for 17 hits—including a home run by Bill Mazeroski to hang the 3rd straight defeat upon Fred Hutchinson's contenders, 12-4. The Pirates tied into loser Jim O'Toole for three runs in the first and roughed up reliever John Tsitouris for 5 in the 9th.

Bob Friend went the route for his first triumph but was charged with four balks, giving him 6 in two games. That broke the old National League mark of 5 for a full season, set by Max Lanier in 1950, and tied the major league standard of 6, established by Joe Boehling in 1915 and Vic Raschi in 1950. There were 7 balks called in the game.

Home runs by Carl Sawatski, Julian Javier and Dick Groat featured the St. Louis Cardinals' 7-0 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies. Curt Simmons spun the shutout, permitting the previously unbeaten Phillies but 5 hits.

Detroit also walloped 3

Pittsburgh's Friend Sets Balk Record

Cincinnati (AP) — Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates, in his second start of the year, set Saturday one record for a full season and tied another —for balks. He tied or set 3 other marks in the same department for a shorter span.

Four balks were called against Friend, who beat the Cincinnati Reds with a 6-hitter, 12-4.

Along with two balks picked up in his first start, Friend now has 6, which sets a National League record and ties the major league mark for a full season. Max Lanier set the old NL season standard of 5 in 1950, and Joe Boehling in 1915 and Vic Raschi in 1950 established the major league standard of 6.

Four balks in a game broke the National League game mark of 3, held by 3 pitchers, and tied Raschi's major league record of 4.

Two balks in an inning by Friend tied the National League mark, established in 1933 by Robert M. Brown of the Boston Braves. Roger Craig of the New York Mets also tied the two in one inning record on opening day this season.

The balk calls against Friend continue the rash of such calls in the National League so far this season. Already, umpires in the NL have called 18 balks, against none in the American League. Despite this, National League President Warren Giles has contended he did not tell his umpires to pay close attention to balk calls this year.

North Shrine Team Has 7-4 Edge in All-Staters

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

The North has a decisive edge in all-staters in the selection of 66 high school football players for the 5th annual Shrine Bowl game this summer.

The two 33-man squads, representing 42 schools in 29 Nebraska towns, were selected by the coaching staffs headed by Ollie Smith, of Hastings (South head coach) and Dick Christie of Omaha Tech (North).

All Sunday Journal and Star All-Staters were tabbed, sending 7 to the North and 4 to the Rebel team that had won 3 straight Shrine games before losing last August.

The teams, cream of this year's prep football crop, will battle on Aug. [illegible] p.m. at Nebraska's [illegible] Stadium in Lincoln.

A two-week training camp will open Aug. 5 at Doane College in Crete for the South and at Midland College in Fremont for the North.

North all-staters are end Bob Thomas, North Platte; tackle Pete Johnson, Gering; guards Morrie Bantner, Omaha Benson and LeRoy Kobsa, David City Aquinas; center Dick Luebbe, Grand Island; and backs Larry Wachholtz of North Platte, and Danny Miller, Omaha South.

Wachholtz, Thomas, and fullback Pete Tatman are representatives of North Platte's state championship team.

On the South roster are end Tom Smith, Hastings; tackle Don Loftus, Omaha South; and backs Wayne Weber of Hastings and Kaye Carstens of Fairbury.

The Capital City is well fortified on the South team, with representatives from all 4 football-playing schools. The 7 Lincoln gridders—all Sunday Journal and Star All-City selectees—are:

Northeast— fullback - linebacker Stan Grell and guard Brad Paulson.

Southeast — tackle Carel Stith and halfback Bill Rohrig.

Pius X—guard Ladd Lonnquist and fullback Dale Champoux.

Lincoln High—end George Vogel.

Also tabbed were 3 players from the 8-man ranks. Bancroft's Cliff Schilling went to the North and Dennis Thorell, two-time 8-man all-stater from Loomis, and Don Tejral, Ceresco strongboy, were picked by the South.

Highways 30-30A serve as the dividing line for North-South selections. Schools on the boundary lines are split equally for both teams.

Only 6 schools landed 3 or more players. Omaha North and Omaha South each had 4 representatives while Hastings, the second-ranked team, Creighton Prep, North Platte, and Omaha Ryan each had 3.

The Omaha North group is the entire Viking backfield lineup of quarterback Bob Churchich, halfbacks Rick Davis and Roquel (Rook) Taylor, and fullback all-stater Miller.

It is the first time that a complete backfield has been selected.

David Dirkx, Boys Town quarterback, is a non-all-stater highly-regarded. Boys Town doesn't play enough Nebraska games to qualify for the football ratings or all-state nominations.

Assistant coaches for this year's game are Tom Dineen, Omaha Ryan; LeRoy Zentic, Tecumseh; and Art Bauer, of Lincoln Northeast for the South; and Fred Arnold, Schuyler; Gordon (Fuzz) Watts, Chadron; and George Redding, North Platte, for the North.

The South should be strong at quarterback with Hastings' Weber, Dirkx, Class B all-stater Roger Douglas of Crete, and Jack Vacek of Omaha Ryan.

The North's strongest point probably is its interior line with 14 guards and tackles drawing nominations.

Proceeds from the charity game go to Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. The first 4 games have netted $234,000.

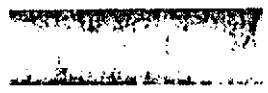
Kansas Edges NU, 4-3, to Win Series

Lawrence, Kan.—Kansas University pushed across a run in the bottom of the 6th inning here Saturday afternoon to defeat Nebraska, 4-3, in the rubber game of a 3-game Big 8 baseball series.



Friday the two teams split, Nebraska winning the opener 1-0 and Kansas winning the nightcap 3-2.

[illegible] loss left Nebraska at 3-3 in the conference and put Kansas at 2-4.

The Jayhawks jumped to a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning, but Nebraska tied it up in the top of the second on 3 hits. Kansas again went ahead in the 4th with Nebraska making it 3-3 in the top of the 5th on two base hits.

The visiting Cornhuskers threatened in the 7th but with men on second and 3rd, Carl Nelson registered a strikeout for the final out. Nelson is the pitcher who lost a one-hit, 1-0, verdict to the Huskers Friday.

Neither club was as sharp in the field Saturday as they were in the pair of pitching duels Friday when 48 batters were fanned and only two walks were allowed. Saturday Nebraska committed 4 errors. However, the 6 pitchers used Saturday gave only 5 walks and combined for 11 strikeouts.

Kansas outhit the visitors, 10-9. Ernie Bonistall was the losing pitcher. Monte Stewart was the winner.

Lincoln Wrestling Groups Place Third in Open, Novice Divisions

By TIM GARTNER

Bellevue and Kellom Community Center of Omaha captured top honors in the first Nebraska Junior Wrestling Championships held at the University of Nebraska Coliseum Saturday.

Bellevue won the Open Division with 69 points. West Kearney trailed with 41 points, while Lincoln Jaycees tallied 40.

In the Novice Division, Kellom (located in northeast Omaha) amassed 60 points to edge Bellevue's 55 points and Lincoln's Vine Street Bombers' 41.

Henry Jackson, representing the Vine Street aggregation, was the only Lincoln winner in the Open Division. Jackson captured the 160-pound title.

In the Novice Division, Craig Gade and Darrel Uribe of the Lincoln Jaycees scored victories. Gade won the 130-pound event and Uribe took the 140-pound title.

Dave Will of the Vine Street Bombers was the top 160-pound wrestler in the Novice class.

Dennis Cozad of Benson, the 70-pound Open champion, was recognized as the outstanding wrestler in the tournament and received a trophy.

Danny Kolb, 14-year-old Whittier 9th grader won the sportsmanship trophy. The huge trophy was almost as large as the little grappler.

Over 300 boys and 20 teams competed in the tournament which ran all day Saturday. Two mats were in use on the floor of the Coliseum. All winners received trophies.

Bob Mancuso, Nebraska wrestling coach, is an enthusiastic supporter of the tournament.

"This type of program is the answer to the rapid growth of wrestling in high schools and colleges.

"Wrestling has been held back. But programs like this help to promote it.

"In midget football and little league baseball these youth programs pay off," Mancuso said. "We know this type of program is already helping wrestling.

3 Coaches In Running For Job

Cipriano's Old Position Open

Portland, Ore. (UPI)—Lewis and Clark coach Jim Goddard is one of 3 men still being considered for the basketball coaching job at the University of Idaho, a Portland newspaper reported Saturday.

The Oregonian said an unnamed source in Moscow, Idaho, confirmed Goddard was interviewed Friday. It said Idaho's new coach probably will be announced Monday.

The other two finalists for the job reportedly are Jack Spencer, head coach of Nevada, and Frank Gompert, an assistant at Iowa State. The coaching vacancy was created when Joe Cipriano resigned to become head coach at Nebraska.

Lincoln Downs Feature Won By Test of Time

Lincoln, R. I. (AP) — Finishing with a well sustained rush through the home stretch, Peter B. Palovich's Test of Time scored his second important victory Saturday at Lincoln Downs when he beat W. W. Carroll's favored Charlie Boy by 2¾ lengths in the Bridgeport Handicap.

After finishing the 7-furlongs for 3-year-olds and up in 1 minute 26 seconds, the 4-year-old son of Poised paid $19.60, $7.40 and $3.60. Charlie Boy, who has won 3 sprint races at Lincoln this spring paid $3.60 and $2.60 after this 4th futile effort to win at a longer distance than 5 furlongs.

Filling Hoppy's Shoes Is Stapleton's Big Job

Ames, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton has a lot of sandbagging to do this spring to plug a big hole left by graduation of All-America tailback-quarterback Dave Hoppmann.

The Madison, Wis., star is the only member of the Cyclone starting backfield of 1962 who won't be back when spring drills start Tuesday. But Hoppmann was one of the all-time greats at Iowa State.

As a result, Stapleton said he planned to add the slot formation to the Cyclone offense to get more running from wing backs Dave Limerick and Otis Williams who have better than average speed.

Adjusting to the slot, the Cyclone mentor also plans to make less use of a running quarterback and use Larry Switzer primarily as a passer.

Veterans Ozzie Clay and Dave Hoover line up as top prospects for the tailback spot, while fullback Tom Vaughn appears the most likely prospect as a successor to Hoppmann on the All-America squads.

Although Stapleton listed only 56 men on his spring practice roster, it was likely at least a dozen more will be on hand for the opening drill Tuesday. Several from other sports indicated they would give football a try.

However, they have not been added to the list until Stapleton and his coaching staff have a "look-see" when the newcomers get into action.

Stapleton faces the task of finding a combination that will get the Cyclones back into the first division of the Big Eight standings.

13 Marks in Danger At Kansas U., Relays

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — At least 13 meet records will be in danger at the 38th Kansas Relays Friday and Saturday. The talented field will include at least 5 defending individual champions plus Texas Southern's powerful baton teams.

A highlight will be the efforts of little Tom O'Hara and his Chicago Loyola teammates to prevent another sweep of the college relay events by Texas Southern. The 130-pound O'Hara has run the mile in 3:59.2 and will test Southern severely in at least two events.

Southern scored an unprecedented slam of all 6 college baton events at Kansas last year and took 15 of 17 at the Texas, Kansas and Drake relays, losing only to Florida A&M at the Drake games.

This year Southern started the grand circuit by winning all 6 college relay events at the Texas Relays a week ago. The Tigers already this season have surpassed the Kansas meet records in 3 events — the 440 relay with 40.7 seconds, the mile relay with 3:10, and the distance medley with 10:04.4.

Led by Major Adams and lithe Ray Sadler, named the meet's top individual last year as a freshman, the Tigers will threaten all 6 relay records.

The university class records are among the nation's best and surpass the college division marks in every event. None is likely to fall this time, although Southern Illinois returns three members of its winning distance medley quarter — Jim Dupree, Brian Turner and Bill Cornell.

But 7 individual marks will be in danger, and an 8th — the 100-yard dash — could be tied.

John Camien, Emporia State sophomore who was a surprise mile winner at 4:02.6 in the Texas Relays over two sub-4-minute milers, Dyrol Burleson and Bill Dotson, will run the Glenn Cunningham Mile at Kansas. The record in this event is 4:03.1.

The high jump meet mark of 6-8 3-16 has been surpassed twice indoors by Colorado's Leander Durley, with a high of 6-10¼, and by two other entrants, including Charles Williams of Lincoln, the defending champ. Roger Sayers of Omaha, a 9.4 man in the 100, won the Texas 100 and could tie the meet mark of 9.4. Purdue's Nate Adams will challenge him.

Three record-holders will be on hand, including Bill Miller, McMurry, Tex., who broad jumped 25-6 last year; Phil Mulkey whose decathlon total of 7480 set a record last year and John Kelly, triple jump record holder at 50-3 in 1961.

Schoolboy tracksters again have managed to stir u enthusiasm with a fine start of the 1963 season.

Rarely has there been weather to permit such a outstanding start. But the good performances early d not mean that a record-shattering state meet is assure come May 17-18.

This same weather that has been so good could h miserable for those two days and ruin the prospects remarkable times.

A 13-0 pole vault would be anticipated since Scotts bluff's Jack Ehler already has hit that height. But he' be vaulting inside NU's East Stadium if the format last year's state meet is maintained.

If the weather outside is bad, it would be to th vaulters' advantage. Otherwise, the indoor surrounding could serve as a psych bit for these youngsters.

A lot can happen between now and May. Pulle muscles are a daily fret for coaches with top-notch run ners.

You may recall that Jim Beltzer, Grand Island lefty was less than 4 inches short of 60 feet with the shot early April a year ago. Yet the big guy never reache his hard-fought goal although he did obtain a state mee record.

An illness slowed Beltzer long enough to knock hi off stride in a training program hopefully designed t bring him into top stride at the state meet.

Earlier, a 175-0 discus throw by Ted Engelbart Columbus was listed as the No. 1 hurl in the history the state.

While Engelbart did reach that distance, it was n in a competitive meet and will be dropped from the lis He got the big throw off in practice while working t wards a decathlon contest sponsored by Nebraska U.

Backers have pointed to other returning veteran from last year's state meet, regretfully omitted from th 1963 preview stories. They include Mac Bailey, Boy Town, 3rd in the Class A 440; Ron Weber, Plainview 2nd in Class B 440; Edd Case of Culbertson, 5th in Clas D 880 and Frank Graham of Pawnee City, Class C mil champ.

Grayson Canned At Washington

Cage Mentor Seeks Reason; Wants to Stay in Catching

Seattle, Wash. (UPI)—The University of Washington announced officially Saturday that John Grayson is through as head basketball coach.

The announcement was made by Jim Owens, athletic director and head football coach, at a news conference here.

John Grayson

Owens said he was not yet in a position to name a successor to Grayson, "but I expect we will very soon."

Owens declined to elaborate on his reasons for not rehiring Grayson, who is in the last year of a 4-year contract. The athletic director would say only that after much consideration he decided that replacing Grayson was necessary "in the best interests of the basketball program."

Grayson sat in a nearby office typing a letter while the news conference was in progress. Obviously disappointed, Grayson said he did not know immediately what his next job will be.

Owens said arrangements were being made within the university to find another position for Grayson, "if that is agreeable with John."

Advised of this, Grayson said no one in the university had yet disclosed plans for another position to him.

"What I want to do is to continue to be a basketball coach," Grayson said. "If a person has given his life to the game and has been successful, it's only natural that he would like to continue. If I hadn't I would have resigned.

"The most important thing is to know why my contract was not renewed. There must be some reason," Grayson said. "If the reason is that I'm not good for the basketball program, then that reason — whatever it could be—should be stated."

In his 24 years as a basketball coach Grayson's teams have compiled a total of 461 victories against 136 losses. In his 4 years at Washington his teams scored 57 wins against 49 defeats. For the season just ended his team was 13-13.

Grayson came here from Idaho State at Pocatello, where his teams had an impressive record of 69 victories and only 17 defeats.

Prior to that he coached at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln, Neb.

Owens said the decision to replace Grayson left "up in the air" the positions of two assistant basketball coaches, Mac Duckworth and Frank Mace.

The athletic director said that he wanted to thank Grayson "for his dedicated efforts for the past 4 years and I hope he will do real good in his future endeavors."

Pennel Borrows Pole to Clear 16-0¼ in Vault

Lafayette, La. (AP)—Rocketing John Pennel, vaulting with a taped ankle and a sore back, cleared 16 feet ¼ inch with his lucky borrowed pole Saturday to shatter two meet records at the 35th Southwestern Relays.

The Miami, Fla., flyer made 3 unsuccessful tries at 16-5, one inch above his 16-4 pending world mark set last Wednesday.

In the javelin, Ed Red, a defensive back on Rice's football team, uncorked a toss of 260 feet 7½ inches to raise his own meet record by 30 feet. Red was voted the meet's top field man.

Pennel, a 22-year-old senior at Northeast Louisiana State, had a sprained back muscle, pulled in a triangular meet Wednesday.

Warming up for the duel with Rice's Fred Hansen, the national collegiate co-champion who had cleared 16-1 on April 6, Pennel jammed his right ankle. He missed the sawdust pit and landed heavily on a sandbag.

Northeast Coach Bob Groseclose taped Pennel's ankle. Pennel also got heat treatment and a massage for his back.

Hansen, who had loaned his fiber glass pole to Pennel on Mar. 23 when the latter first raised the world mark to 16-3, cleared 15-6. He missed at 16¼.

Using Hansen's pole, Pennel's winning effort erased the Relays open record of 15-5¼ and the meet's collegiate mark of 15-10¼.

Monte Carlo Tennis Meet Enters Finals

Monte Carlo (AP) — Jan-Erik Lundquist of Sweden and Pierre Darmon of France won their way to the finals of the men's singles in the Monte Carlo Tennis Tournament Saturday.

Darmon defeated Jack Brichant of Belgium, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, and Lundquist defeated Istvan Gulyas of Hungary, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

An all-Australian final was set up in the women's singles as Lesle Turner defeated Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-3, and Jan Lehane eliminated Jeannine Lieffrig of France, 6-4, 6-1.

Nicola Pietrangeli and Sergio Tacchini of Italy won their way to the finals of the men's doubles with a 9-7, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4 victory over Gardnar Mulloy and Ed Rudinoff of Miami. Alberto and Luis Arilla of Spain also gained the finals by defeating John Fraser and Robert Howe of Australia, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Lehane and Miss Turner of Australia will play in the women's doubles final. They defeated Francoise Durr and Mille. Lieffring of France, 6-2, 6-2.

The other women's doubles finalist team is Mrs. Jones and Angela Mortimer of Great Britain. They eliminated Kay Denning and Carol Newman of Australia, 6-3, 6-2.

North-South Golf Title at Stake

Pinehurst, N.C. (AP)— A new champion will be crowned in the 61st annual Women's North and South Amateur Golf Tournament opening Monday.

Clifford Ann Creed, last year's winner, has turned professional, leaving the title undefended.

The tournament, which runs through Friday over the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, starts with match play Monday. The field is limited to 32 invited players.

The course will measure about 6,000 yards with par of 74.

The only former champ in the field is Mrs. Philip Cudone of West Caldwell, N.J., 1958 winner.

Karras Returns To Rassle Mats

Detroit (AP)—Alex Karras, on the griddle twice recently in the National Football League's gambling probe and for roughness in basketball games played by the Detroit Lions, is returning to pro wrestling.

The Lions' all-NFL defensive tackle will grapple with Dick the Bruiser at Detroit's Olympia Stadium April 27. The Bruiser is one of the more notorious villains in midwest wrestling circles.

Karras first started as a pro wrestler shortly after ending his career as an All-America tackle at Iowa.

Von Erich Wins

Omaha (AP) — Waldo Von Erich won the Texas death match Saturday night from Verne Gagne.

Gagne was unable to report for the 8th fall of the caged event at the City Auditorium arena.

Gagne's championship belt was not at stake in the match.

for student activities tickets used at football games.

Northeast was host school for 5 games, taking in $10,075.49 at the gate. Lincoln High had 5 home games also with receipts of $8,357.78. Southeast's 4 games totalled $3,236.68.

Southeast's low average was caused primarily by 3 rainy engagements and by being the "visiting" team for both of its intra-city games. The biggest Knights gate was $1,200 with Hastings.

The games between the 3 Lincoln schools were the top drawing cards. The Southeast-Lincoln High game had a $2,200 gate; Lincoln High-Northeast just short of $1,000; and the dedication game between Southeast and Northeast the state's best of $5,000.

Only a smattering of fans braved a steady, cold rain to watch Lincoln High and Tech. Receipts were just $472.25, the lowest of the year.

Total expenses in getting the plant in shape and running the football program reached $26,781.36.

Much of this expense was in grounds upkeep and repairs to prepare for the opening season, according to school officials.

"We don't expect nearly so much expense in the future," Watkins said.

The water and light bill almost cost a thousand dollars. The light costs were $483.00, nearly $35.00 a night, while the water used to keep the sod in top shape cost $484.61.

Income from Seacrest Field also defrayed seasonal football costs, excepting new uniforms and equipment, for the 3 schools. This figure was $3,354.86. Big items were game officials for Seacrest games ($840) and travel ($884.30).

New York (AP) — Half of the top 10 scorers in the National Football League last season didn't score a touchdown.

The official league statistics, released today, showed Green Bay fullback Jim Taylor as the individual scoring champion with 114 points, breaking the 3-year reign of the Packers' Paul Hornung.

Taylor's winning margin was only 4 points over Lou Michaels of Pittsburgh who kicked a record 26 field goals.

Others in the top 10 who got all their points by kicking were Don Chandler of New York, Sam Baker of Dallas, Lou Groza of Cleveland and Roger Leclerc of Chicago.

Hornung had the best one game scoring performance, 28 in the Packers' 34-7 victory day. Baker had the most points after touchdown, 50.

Finishing second close behind Baker was Ned Jarrett of Conover, N.C., in a 1963 Ford. Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., driving a 1963 Plymouth, failed in a comeback try and finished 3rd.

Terrell Gets Nod Over Williams With Decision

Philadelphia (AP)—Ernie Terrell, fighting with a cut over his right eye, upset No. 4 ranked heavyweight contender Cleveland Williams Saturday night in a 10-round nationally televised bout at the Arena. Terrell won by a split decision.

Terrell, ranked No. 10 and a transplanted Chicagoan now living in Philadelphia, weighed 198½ while Williams, of Houston, Tex., weighed 210.

Judge Jack Styles scored it 46-44 for Terrell. Referee Pete Tomasco also had it 46-44 for Terrell. Judge Pete Pantaleo scored it 46-44 for Williams. The Associated Press had Williams out in front 46-45.

The fight matched two of the tallest men in ring history against each other. Terrell is 6-foot-6 and Williams 6-4.

SEC Unit Withholding Judgment in Fix Probe

Atlanta (AP)—The executive committee of the Southeastern Conference said Saturday it was withholding judgment in the football-fix charges against Wallace Butts and Paul Bryant.

But the committee said it deplored "such conduct as has been alleged" and if the charges were true, then the alleged passing of information from Butts to Bryant "can only be held as being highly unethical, unsportsmanlike and detrimental to intercollegiate athletics."

After a 7 hour meeting here, the committee directed its commissioner, Bernie Moore of Birmingham, Ala., to continue an investigation of Saturday Evening Post charges.

The Post said in its March 23 issue that Butts gave vital information to Bryant about Georgia's football team prior to the Georgia-Alabama game.

Butts, former athletic director at Georgia, and Bryant, Alabama coach, have denied the allegations. Both have filed libel suits against the magazine publishers.

This is the statement of the committee:

"The executive committee of the Southeastern Conference has examined the results of investigations of published charges of 'a football fix' by the Saturday Evening Post involving Wallace Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, and Paul Bryant of the University of Alabama.

"Since further investigations are under way and litigation is in progress, the executive committee withholds its judgment for the present except for the following:

"There is evidence that a telephone conversation between Wallace Butts and Paul Bryant occurred on Sept. 13, 1962.

"If the nature of the information given in the telephone conversation was in fact as alleged, the executive committee believes that the giving of any such information can only be held as being highly unethical, unsportsmanlike and detrimental to intercollegiate athletics.

"The executive committee deplores such conduct as has been alleged and hereby directs Commissioner Moore to continue his investigations in full cooperation with other investigative agencies until such time as a positive conclusion can be reached."

Moore said the meeting began at 8:30 a.m. in a motel near the Atlanta airport. He said it lasted until nearly 4 p.m.

"That is the only statement we've got to make," Moore said. "That's the feeling of the executive committee.

"We examined all the evidence, including the report turned over by the governor of Georgia and some evidence some other members had collected."

The session was headed by Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, president of the SEC and the University of Florida.

Others attending were Dr. Ralph Draughon, president of Auburn University; Chancellor J. B. Williams of the University of Mississippi; Dr. Earl M. Ramer, faculty chairman of athletics for the University of Tennessee, and Dean J. W. Mason of Georgia Tech.

The SEC investigation started shortly after publication of the Post article. In addition to it and the Georgia probe, an Alabama legislative committee and the National Collegiate Athletic Association are investigating.

After completing his probe, Georgia Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook reported his conclusion was that Butts gave vital information about his team to the Alabama coach. His report came under strong attacks from attorneys for Butts and Bryant as unwarranted and inaccurate.

Change of Pace

by Del Black

Rex Grossart, former Nebraska prep coach, has turned author and will drop out of coaching for the time being.

The Doane College grad has announced his resignation as head track coach and football assistant at Bakersfield, Calif., College.

Grossart will concentrate on a book, "Weight-Training and Athletics," which he is co-authoring. He'll also go into graduate study in the field of nutrition.

Aide at KU

Grossart went to Bakersfield after a stint as assistant to Kansas track Coach Bill Easton.

His Bakersfield teams established 12 school and 3 national junior college records while winning 19 dual meets against only two losses. He was there 4 years.

At Bakersfield he became known also for his work in the field of weight-training and body development. He has lectured on the subject before many national groups.

Racing Schedule

The Nebraska Modified Racing Association has already a well-rounded schedule of races on tap for the fast-approaching season.

The Association will stage an Apr. 21 race in Beatrice and another Apr. 28. It will follow with a race every Saturday evening at the Beatrice track.

A new track is being constructed two miles east of Eagle and the Association is tentatively set to race there every Friday night.

A May 17 outing is slated for Columbus.

The association now has about 100 members.

Red Wings Must Triumph Tonight

Toronto Has 2-0 Series Lead for Stanley Cup

Detroit (UPI)—The Detroit Red Wings, who believe it's the darkest before the dawn, will be on the brink of oblivion tonight when they clash with the Toronto Maple Leafs in the 3rd game of their Stanley Cup final series.

With Toronto holding a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 series, a win is a must for Detroit if the Wings are even going to make the series interesting.

But the Wings not only are confident they can prevent a 4-game Toronto sweep that Maple Leaf fans are confidently predicting, they also feel they can still win it.

"We've done it before and we can do it again," manager-coach Sid Abel said.

"But this is the one we've got to win or it'll be all over but the shooting," he added.

Toronto is a top-heavy favorite to go all the way but the Wings hope the stage is set for another of their patented comebacks.

"The team just let down after winning that Chicago series in such a spectacular fashion," Abel said.

"But now we've had a couple of days to rest, we're back home and we should change things."

The 4th-place Wings, who won 6 of their final 7 regular season games to finish just 5 points out of first place in the tight National Hockey League race, lost the first two games of their semi-final series. But Detroit then charged back to grab 4 straight wins.

Lefty Kegler Wins PBA's Pontiac Open

Pontiac, Mich. (AP) — Bill Allen of Orlando, Fla., became the first left-hander to win a Professional Bowlers Association tournament in two years when he edged Bill Johnson of Kansas City 226-195 for the Pontiac Open championship Saturday.

The 28-year-old Allen moved into the finals by upsetting Dick Weber of St. Louis 206-200, while Johnson advanced with a 216-199 triumph over Tony Puglie of Detroit.

Allen won $5,000 in the $23,400 tournament to bring his total winnings for the PBA circuit up to $8,722.

In winning $2,500 for the second place finish, Johnson pushed his total winnings to $8,910. He won the Dallas Open earlier this year.

Weber collected $1,250 for a $10,513 total. It was the first finish in the money for Puglie, who picked up $1,000.

The last lefty to win a PBA tournament was Roy Lown of El Paso in 1961.

Other money winners were: Al Savas of St. Louis, $900; Carmen Salvino, Chicago, the defending champion at Pontiac, $875; Bill Karach, Kenosha, Wis., $850; Tom Harnish, Detroit, $800; Bob Strampe, Detroit, $725; Harry Smith, St. Louis, $700; George Howard, Detroit, $675; Bill Parp, Kansas City, $650; Max Fair, South Bend, Ind., $625; J. Wilbert Sims, Chicago, $600; Jim Schroeder, Buffalo, $575, and Bill Hardwick, San Mateo, Calif., $550.

Set Tourney

Kansas City (AP)—The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics announced Saturday its annual golf tournament will be held June 4-7 at Swope Park course No. 1 in Kansas City. It is expected to attract 150 golfers.

Steve Spray, Eastern New Mexico College, took individual honors last season. West Illinois won the team title.

Natural Hatred Spices NBA Title Playoffs

Boston (AP) — The Boston Celtics—aging but proud—open their bid tonight for an unprecedented 5th straight National Basketball Association title against the eager Los Angeles Lakers, who have vowed to end the dynasty

One year and 87 games after the Celtics edged the Lakers 110 107 in overtime in their 7th game showdown, the clubs open the final playoff series at Boston Garden

No special incentives are needed for this one The teams genuinely hate each other on the court, though some players are friendly off of it Coach Red Auerbach of Boston and the Lakers' Fred Schaus are not on speaking terms

Boston does have the extra push of a promise to win this title for Bob Cousy, in his 13th and final NBA season The Celtics bristle at the reminder they dropped the regular season series to LA 5 games to 4

Los Angeles is an established power with class, finesse and an edge in youth which breaks down to 3½ years per man over their Boston counterparts And the Lakers have their super stars, Elgin Baylor and a fully recovered Jerry West The latter missed a 3rd of the season with a severe leg muscle pull

Boston again pegs its hopes on the players' choice as league Most Valuable Player, Bill Russell, the superb defender rebounder, plus the shooting of Sam Jones and Tommy Heinsohn, and Cousy's playmaking magic

"The Celtics will win, no question about it," predicts Walter Brown, club president "They'll win because they're the best team in basketball It's as simple as that This is barring injury of course Injuries could change every thing

From Schaus the pre battle summation is concise "We have the personnel to cope with the Celtics"

The series may well be settled at the foul line and in the corners

Los Angeles counted all 5 season victories over Boston and the 3 in the playoffs last April on free throws with the Celtics even or ahead in field goals In the 9 meetings of the campaign just passed, Boston outscored Los Angeles 443 377 in baskets while the Lakers had a 292 192 bulge in free throws made

After a mid season loss to the Lakers in which Los Angeles had 10 more free throw attempts than the Celtics, Cousy forecast trouble in the playoffs if "we don't get any better shake in foul calls With two evenly balanced teams like this, there should n t be such a wide difference in fouls anyhow"

Russell is the premiere pivotman though Jim Krebs and Gene Wiley can be sheer murder Los Angeles has an edge in backcourt firepower, especially since leaping Dick Barnett has hit 4 points over his season's average against Boston, 21 9 to 18 0

Los Angeles has the unexcelled Baylor in a corner with strong support from Rudy LaRusso Tom Sanders, disappointing at times this season, draws the unenviable assignment of covering Baylor.

Heinsohn must not only cope with a tough rival in LaRusso but hit his expected 20 points Boston also uses its bench fireman, Frank Ramsey, shortest front-liner in the NBA at 6-foot-4, and sometimes John Havlicek in the corners

Four Lincoln schools plus Omaha Central Omaha South, and Omaha Tech will comprise most of the entries in the big school division for Class A and B schools

Other teams in that division are Ashland, Beatrice, Bellevue, Crete, Fairbury, Falls City, Nebraska City, and Papillion

Tech and Fairbury should be chief threats for the team title

Boundary Commission Proposed

S.D.'s Farrar Offers Plan

Yankton, S D (AP) — South Dakota Attorney General Frank Farrar still feels the Gavins Point fishing waters dispute should be settled by a boundary commission

"It is unfortunate that Mel Steen, Nebraska game commission director, refuses to cooperate in such negotiations when other Nebraska state officials appear willing to do so," Farrar said during an inspection of the Gavins Point dam tailwaters area

Nebraska Gov Frank Morrison Friday asked members of the State Game Commission to reconsider closing the tailwaters to South Dakota fishermen Steen and the Nebraska commission maintain the waters are within Nebraska boundaries

Farrar told authorities and sportsmen here that he will try to claim for South Dakota only the area which a map study now underway shows there is a good basis for claiming

Lake Is Like Layer Cake

Angler Aided By Research

By PETE CZURA

Forget the greek sounding names attached to layers of water, but always found on the top one

A fishing expert, by crude but penetrating definition, is a guy who can tell where all the fish were—yesterday

And just as you suspected, there is a good reason behind all this

The neophyte who buys his first fishing license yesterday blossoms into an expert authority tomorrow

This is a healthy but not a helpful condition

Take a term like thermal stratification for example Anyone who has whiled away an hour with a copy of a boondocks magazine in a doctor's waiting room can tell you all about that

He can tell that any fairly deep northern lake isn't really a big pot of water at all Instead, it's an assortment of 3 layers of waters, something like a sandwich And fish congregate in the warmer, well oxygenated water of the upper story

And there you are It is all very simple and beautiful and it is even true part of the time

But not in the spring that's coming up, bringing a promise of finny combat and dreams of big ones

Then warming air temperatures bring on the 'turn over' of a lake and for a time leave them mixed without any layers at all

Nor in the fall when cooling air brings on the same phenomenon

Nor in the winter when the warmer water is at the bottom of the lake and the cooler water is up against the ice—but still contains more oxygen

Getting back to the Greek names, there are 3 layers in a body of water epilimnion, the top, thermocline, the middle and hypolimnion, bottom

Under certain conditions, all 3 layers will produce fish, but you have to know when to fish these layers

Yellow perch, for instance, a schooling species, tend to hang about in shallow water during early weeks of summer. Then they tend to move into deeper waters and beds of submerged vegetation

By midsummer, the cold water species, lake trout, and rainbow trout, will hightail it into the basement of the lake to seek the air conditioned levels

Warm-water species like, bass, sunfish, perch, pike and walleye will be in the shallow sections

Sometimes an angler has to be a sort of scientific Einstein in figuring where his line will produce the most action

Finding fish in certain areas of water will vary from day and place to place

Just when you think you have the fish solved, they will fool you completely and make you look like a fool

This by the way, just tells where the fish are

It has nothing whatever to do with whether they're biting that's your problem!

Solstice Fishing Table

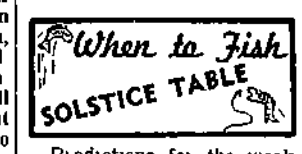
The Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star announces the beginning of a special weekly fishing table for anglers in Nebraska

This will be a regular feature written and compiled by our Outdoor Editor Pete Czura

Each Sunday, the Solstice Table will inform anglers which days are best, good, or fair, for fishing during the week

Predictions are based on position of the sun and computed with predetermined factors to obtain accurate analysis of future fishing potential

However, this is no guarantee that anglers will catch fish—or his limit—or any fish



Predictions for the week commencing this Sunday

Sunday—best
Monday—best
Tuesday—best
Wednesday—best
Thursday—best
Friday—good
Saturday—good

With warm weather upon us, the crappie, walleye, and northerns will provide first opponents for anglers going afield But don't overlook trout and bass, too

Best periods during best days this week will be in morning

Reason for Controversy

Henry Schrieber, Laurel, Neb, displays a big sauger he landed in the disputed Missouri River tailwaters below the Gavins Point Dam The Nebraska Game Commission maintains the entire tailwater area is in Nebraska and is requiring Nebraska licenses of fishermen there Because of the fine fishing the question has been a particularly sore point with South Dakotans

Bait Your Fish Hooks On These State Marks

Operation Outdoors

by Pete Czura

Basset—Seeing those thousands of ducks on the local Sandhill ponds made us wonder if someone hadn't flipped a gasket in predicting another bad nesting year for ducks.

Most of the waters were blanketed with mallards, scaup, pintails, widgeons, teal and a few wood ducks

Cavorting in the shallow waters they presented a picture which should gladden the heart of all waterfowl hunters

Last year was a particularly lean one since ducks had been clobbered by drought and late snow melts in Canadian nesting grounds which prevented any successful nesting

Bright Future

The U S Fish and Wildlife has issued results of the 1963 Central Flyway winter waterfowl survey

Their reports are completely different from the ones posted a year ago—in fact, the duck future has improved tremendously

It's apparent the curtailed hunting season of 1962 helped in preserving waterfowl breeding stock

Observers reported 15% more waterfowl were seen this winter than in 1962

Ducks observed in the U S portion of the Central Flyway were up 23% over 1962 but still 18% below the long-term average

Some Hold Their Own

Redheads for the past few seasons were dwindling at an alarming rate But the closed seasons on this bird has helped to slow or stop their decline

More pintails were spotted during this survey but the total was 40% below the long-term average

While ducks were battling to hold their own, geese the monarchs of the skyways increased their populations

Snow and blue geese tallies were up 72% over 1962, and up 23% over the long-term average

Less in Nebraska

Twice as many waterfowl were recorded in New Mexico, Oklahoma and North Dakota by the 1963 than in 1962

In Montana, 19% more waterfowl were noted, while fewer waterfowl were seen in South Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas and Texas.

The annual midwinter count was carried out by 309 observers in the Central Flyway They flew 21,668 miles in 30 planes, and travelled another 25,000 miles by car, boat, and even snowplane dropped passes made it ragged.

Devaney said one disappointing feature was the fact "5 or 6 passes were dropped by supposedly good receivers — but, on the other hand, there were some fine catches made, too."

The Husker coach said the play of some candidates on the lower units — like frosh quarterback Henry Woods of San Antonio, Tex., squadman Bobby Hohn of Beatrice and frosh linemen Verne Allers of Davenport, Ia., and Bruce Wright of Lincoln — was particularly encouraging.

Hohn turned in several good runs for the No. 3 Red unit, one a 35-yarder and another a 13-yard TD sprint.

Standout defensive linemen on the top units were Bob Brown and Lloyd Voss for the Claridges and frosh Walter Barnes of Chicago, Ill., Dick Czap of Essexville, Mich., and Ed Pavoris of Detroit, Mich. Frosh quarterback Duda also sparkled on defense.

Here's the way the scoring went when the No. 3 Reds went against the No. 3 Whites:

— After Hohn's 35-yard dash, Woods scored on a 20-yard broken-field keeper.

— Hohn circled left end for 13 yards.

— Halfback John Vujevich, a 1962 squadman, passed 33 yards to frosh end Rick Myslenski of Cleveland, Ohio.

— Varsity fullback Joe McNulty intercepted a White pass and raced 48-yards down the sidelines to score

The Huskers will now take a week off for vacation. Devaney said there might be a movie scrimmage a week from Wednesday, with the next full-scale contact slated for a week from Saturday.

Missing Saturday's scrimmage were veteran Willie Ross and frosh halfback Ted Vactor. Halfbacks Dave Theisen and John Sebastian picked up leg injuries.

The Orioles had won 4 straight and had beaten the Yankees 10 straight times, the last six games in 1962, 3 in the spring exhibitions and their first league meeting this season.

Dave Morehead, 19-year-old Boston right-hander, pitched a 5-hit shutout in his major league debut as the Red Sox defeated the Washington Senators 3-0.

The Red Sox scored all their runs in the second inning when Dick Stuart led off with a home run, Roman Mejias singled and Lu Clinton homered. All runs were scored off Don Rudolph, who was charged with his second loss.

In night games, the Kansas City Athletics and the Los Angeles Dodgers racked up victories behind stout pitching.

Kansas City trimmed the Minnesota Twins 3-2, at Kansas City, with both teams bunching all their runs in the 6th inning. The Twins broke the scoreless tie in the top of the sixth with two runs on 4 hits, and the A's answered with 3 in their half. Chuck Essegian's two-run double was the winning blow, as Dave Wickersham got the victory. John Wyatt got the last out in relief.

Point Blank

By Don Bryant
Sunday Sports Columnist

It's surprising how much country you can cover on the mashed potato circuit—quite by accident, that is.

Last Monday I joined the Sidney Rotary Club in honoring the athletes from Sidney High and Sidney St. Patrick's at a gala banquet. And Tuesday night I feasted on chef Elmer Groene's roast turkey at Oakland where the Chamber of Commerce paid tribute to the Viking preppers.

But it wasn't exactly an easy double.

My itinerary called for a flight from Sidney to Lincoln Tuesday morning, lunch with my family, a change of clothes and a leisurely drive to Oakland.

No sweat. Except it was a bit damp in Sidney Tuesday morning and I had to wave as the Frontier plane which was to fly me home passed overhead without even honking.

From that point on, it was a race against the clock—and a lot of people helped me win.

But How?

The Frontier agent devised a way for me to get to Omaha if I could get to Denver.

That problem was solved by a Good Samaritan in the form of Sidney photographer Alvin Duis. I hitched a ride with him and we flew to Denver in his Olds—a 175-mile sprint.

United took over from there and got me to Omaha in 1:04, less time than it took to drive to Oakland after a car agency put me in the driver's seat.

Panting and almost on the ropes, I staggered to the Oakland Municipal Auditorium—complete with dirty shirt, gravy-stained tie and baggy suit.

Fortunately, Oakland is preparing for a June Centennial and my beard was just the shortest.

Spirit High

Despite the hectic two-day whirl, it was a lot of fun visiting with old friends, meeting new ones and sampling the enthusiasm and excitement created outstate by Nebraska's athletic rejuvenation.

Sidney is a bustling community, nearing the 9,000 population mark. Country Club president Tom Kokjer conducted a tour of the now-being-constructed 9-hole grass green golf course. And there were oldtimes sessions with ex-Husker star Bobby Decker—now a dime store executive—Carl Schmidt, Baldy Goodwin, Coach Harold Chaffee, Bill Robinson, John Elwell, a star on the 1913 Cornhusker football team, and many others.

In Oakland football-basketball-track star Robin Groene indicated he had decided to attend Nebraska.

His decision was met by cheers from chief NU booster Paul Johnson and fellow-fans like Independent editor Bob Bogue, Mel Worth, Ray Anderson, Al Backstrom, Coach Clarence Goracke and Fred Harding, and a host of others.

Yessir, there's fun aplenty on the banquet circuit—but occasionally you can have a sinking spell.

Like being at the Sidney airport at 9 a.m., knowing you're supposed to be in Oakland at 6 p.m., and having no idea how you'll get there.

Omaha Beats Hastings, 9-0

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha University shut out Hastings College 9-0 in a non-conference baseball game here Saturday.

The victory was Omaha's 5th with no losses. It was Hastings first game of the season.

The Indians got 15 hits but managed to hold Hastings down to 6 with rookie pitchers Larry Krehbiel, John Bozak and Bill Drefts on the mound.

Each team made two double plays.

Greek Money Is Winner in NY

New York (AP) — Brandywine Stable's Greek Money, who won the 1962 Preakness but has done little since, captured the $28,100 Excelsior Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday, but the 53,277 fans got a real eyeful earlier in the sunny afternoon.

Greentree Stable's Kentucky Derby hope, No Robbery, won the 5th race by 10 lengths with blazing speed and stamped himself as favorite for next Saturday's $75,000 Wood Memorial.

Sally Ship Wins

Lexington, Ky. (AP)—The Cain Hoy Stables Sally Ship overtook the favored Bonnie's Girl in the stretch and hung on for a nose victory in the $24,050 Ashland Stakes at Keeneland Saturday.

Strong Wins Three Events

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) —Missouri's depth and distance strength overcame a fine individual effort by Oklahoma State's Charles Strong as the Tigers posted an 81-64 victory in a dual track meet here Saturday.

Strong figured in 5 of Oklahoma State's 8 victories. The senior ace won the 220, 440 and broad jump and anchored Oklahoma State's two relay teams to victory.

Missouri's Greg Pelster set a stadium record with a 1:50.4 clocking in the 880-yard run. The Tigers outscored the Cowboys 23-4 in the 3 distance races to insure their victory.

Preston Holsinger and Mickey Baller of Oklahoma State tied the stadium record in the pole vault as they deadlocked at 15-3¾.

Sanders' Birdies Up Cush

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — Doug Sanders shot a 3-under-par 58 Saturday, thanks to a flurry of 4 closing front nine birdies, to move 5 shots in front in the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament after 54 holes.

His 201 total, 12 under par, but he is 5 shots ahead of California veteran Jimmy Clark.

Sharing 4th place at 207, six shots off the pace, were Sam Snead, a 7-time winner here, who had his third 69, and Canadian Stan Leonard, also a former Greensboro victor, whose 68 was one of 5 shot Saturday, the lowest of the round.

Sanders' 5-year-old son Brad tagged along behind him on every hold of his journey over the 7,000-yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course. "He settles me down," explained the proud 29-year-old father, a native of Georgia who plays out of Ojai, Calif. "He's been with me on 3 previous tournaments and I won two and was 4th in the other. He must be a good luck charm."

Brad's principal comment: "I want to go home."

Sanders opened the round with a 3-stroke lead over Dave Marr on the wings of a 5-under-par second round back nine.

Paper Says Coach Quit

McQuire Gives Up NBA Job

Detroit (AP)—The Detroit News said Saturday it had learned Detroit Pistons Coach Dick McGuire has resigned from his $13,000 a year job with the National Basketball Association team.

The News quoted McGuire as saying, "I've sent a letter to Mr. Zollner (team owner Fred Zollner) informing him that I've decided not to come back next season."

Zollner, the Pistons' millionaire owner who lives in Fort Wayne, Ind., could not be reached for comment.

McGuire, who spent 11 years as a player in the NBA before taking over the Pistons' coaching job, had been rumored on the verge of being fired several times during the 1962-63 season.

Although they made the NBA semifinals playoffs, later being eliminated by the St Louis Hawks, the Pistons finished the season with a record 46 losses

Laurel Winner

Laurel, Md. (AP)— Wheatley Stable's Bold Commander, trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, won the $25,000-added Chesapeake Stakes at Laurel race course Saturday in track record time for the 1 1-16 miles.

The 3-year-old son of Bold Ruler, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, won by two lengths over Mrs. Alfred J. Giodano's Hot Dust in 1 minute, 43 2-5 seconds. Pivot was 3rd.

Lincoln Wrestling Groups Place Third in Open, Novice Divisions

By TIM GARTNER

Bellevue and Kellom Community Center of Omaha captured top honors in the first Nebraska Junior Wrestling Championships held at the University of Nebraska Coliseum Saturday.

Bellevue won the Open Division with 69 points. West Kearney trailed with 41 points, while Lincoln Jaycees tallied 40.

In the Novice Division, Kellom (located in northeast Omaha) amassed 60 points to edge Bellevue's 55 points and Lincoln's Vine Street Bombers' 41.

Henry Jackson, representing the Vine Street aggregation, was the only Lincoln winner in the Open Division. Jackson captured the 160-pound title.

In the Novice Division, Craig Gade and Darrel Uribe of the Lincoln Jaycees scored victories. Gade won the 130-pound event and Uribe took the 140-pound title.

Dave Will of the Vine Street Bombers was the top 160-pound wrestler in the Novice class.

Dennis Cozad of Benson, the 70-pound Open champion, was recognized as the outstanding wrestler in the tournament and received a trophy.

Danny Kolb, 14-year-old Whittier 9th grader won the sportsmanship trophy. The huge trophy was almost as large as the little grappler.

Over 300 boys and 20 teams competed in the tournament which ran all day Saturday. Two mats were in use on the floor of the Coliseum. All winners received trophies.

Bob Mancuso, Nebraska wrestling coach, is an enthusiastic supporter of the tournament.

"This type of program is the answer to the rapid growth of wrestling in high schools and colleges.

"Wrestling has been held back. But programs like this help to promote it.

"In midget football and little league baseball these youth programs pay off," Mancuso said. "We know this type of program is already helping wrestling.

Filling Hoppy's Shoes Is Stapleton's Big Job

Ames, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton has a lot of sandbagging to do this spring to plug a big hole left by graduation of All-America tailback-quarterback Dave Hoppmann.

The Madison, Wis., star is the only member of the Cyclone starting backfield of 1962 who won't be back when spring drills start Tuesday. But Hoppmann was one of the all-time greats at Iowa State.

As a result, Stapleton said he planned to add the slot formation to the Cyclone offense to get more running from wing backs Dave Limerick and Otis Williams who have better than average speed.

Adjusting to the slot, the Cyclone mentor also plans to make less use of a running quarterback and use Larry Switzer primarily as a passer.

Veterans Ozzie Clay and Dave Hoover line up as top prospects for the tailback spot, while fullback Tom Vaughn appears the most likely prospect as a successor to Hoppmann on the All-America squads.

Although Stapleton listed only 56 men on his spring practice roster, it was likely at least a dozen more will be on hand for the opening drill Tuesday. Several from other sports indicated they would give football a try.

However, they have not been added to the list until Stapleton and his coaching staff have a "look-see" when the newcomers get into action.

Stapleton faces the task of finding a combination that will get the Cyclones back into the first division of the Big Eight standings.

13 Marks in Danger At Kansas U., Relays

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — At least 13 meet records will be in danger at the 38th Kansas Relays Friday and Saturday. The talented field will include at least 5 defending individual champions plus Texas Southern's powerful baton teams.

A highlight will be the efforts of little Tom O'Hara and his Chicago Loyola teammates to prevent another sweep of the college relay events by Texas Southern. The 130-pound O'Hara has run the mile in 3:59.2 and will test Southern severely in at least two events.

Southern scored an unprecedented slam of all 6 college baton events at Kansas last year and took 15 of 17 at the Texas, Kansas and Drake relays, losing only to Florida A&M at the Drake games.

This year Southern started the grand circuit by winning all 6 college relay events at the Texas Relays a week ago. The Tigers already this season have surpassed the Kansas meet records in 3 events — the 440 relay with 40.7 seconds, the mile relay with 3:10, and the distance medley with 10:04.4.

Led by Major Adams and lithe Ray Sadler, named the meet's top individual last year as a freshman, the Tigers will threaten all 6 relay records.

The university class records are among the nation's best and surpass the college division marks in every event. None is likely to fall this time, although Southern Illinois returns three members of its winning distance medley quarter — Jim Dupree, Brian Turner and Bill Cornell.

But 7 individual marks will be in danger, and an 8th — the 100-yard dash — could be tied.

John Camien, Emporia State sophomore who was a surprise mile winner at 4:02.6 in the Texas Relays over two sub-4-minute milers, Dyrol Burleson and Bill Dotson, will run the Glenn Cunningham Mile at Kansas. The record in this event is 4:03.1.

The high jump meet mark of 6-8 3-16 has been surpassed twice indoors by Colorado's Leander Durley, with a high of 6-10¼, and by two other entrants, including Charles Williams of Lincoln, the defending champ. Roger Sayers of Omaha, a 9.4 man in the 100, won the Texas 100 and could tie the meet mark of 9.4. Purdue's Nate Adams will challenge him.

Three record-holders will be on hand, including Bill Miller, McMurry, Tex., who broad jumped 25-6 last year; Phil Mulkey whose decathlon total of 7480 set a record last year and John Kelly, triple jump record holder at 50-3 in 1961.

Schoolboy tracksters again have managed to stir up enthusiasm with a fine start of the 1963 season.

Rarely has there been weather to permit such an outstanding start. But the good performances early do not mean that a record-shattering state meet is assured come May 17-18.

This same weather that has been so good could be miserable for those two days and ruin the prospects of remarkable times.

A 13-0 pole vault would be anticipated since Scottsbluff's Jack Ehler already has hit that height. But he'll be vaulting inside NU's East Stadium if the format of last year's state meet is maintained.

If the weather outside is bad, it would be to the vaulters' advantage. Otherwise, the indoor surroundings could serve as a psych bit for these youngsters.

A lot can happen between now and May. Pulled muscles are a daily fret for coaches with top-notch runners.

You may recall that Jim Beltzer, Grand Island lefty, was less than 4 inches short of 60 feet with the shot in early April a year ago. Yet the big guy never reached his hard-fought goal although he did obtain a state meet record.

An illness slowed Beltzer long enough to knock him off stride in a training program hopefully designed to bring him into top stride at the state meet.

Earlier, a 175-0 discus throw by Ted Engelbart of Columbus was listed as the No. 1 hurl in the history of the state.

While Engelbart did reach that distance, it was not in a competitive meet and will be dropped from the list. He got the big throw off in practice while working towards a decathlon contest sponsored by Nebraska U.

Backers have pointed to other returning veterans from last year's state meet, regretfully omitted from the 1963 preview stories. They include Mac Bailey, Boys Town, 3rd in the Class A 440; Ron Weber, Plainview, 2nd in Class B 440; Edd Case of Culbertson, 5th in Class D 880 and Frank Graham of Pawnee City, Class C mile champ.

Newsboys Spend Day Visiting German Spas

Frankfurt, Germany (UPI) — The 83 "Young Columbus" American newsboys went shopping Saturday, carrying bundles from the Bad Nauheim Spa so big they hardly could board their bus.

Ezra Dolan, an executive of Parade Magazine, the Sunday supplement sponsoring the trip of newsboys to Europe, said "The boys spent another wonderful day today. They enjoyed it very much."

Three busloads of newsboys, including Sunday Journal and Star carriers Jon. A. Camp, 3750 Washington, Lincoln, and Allan D. Klaus of Beatrice, made a quick tour through spas near Frankfurt.

They first drove to Bad Nauheim, where they were received by the spa director. They had an opportunity to play miniature golf and go rowing.

Then they returned to Bad Homburg for lunch.

In this famous spa, which is called the "Mother of Monte Carlo," because the first roulette tables were installed here, they went sightseeing through the town and parks.

"We decided a visit to the gambling casino was not appropriate for the youngsters," said Dolan. "They did not miss it."

Other stops included the ruins of the Saalburg, a Roman fort in the Taunus mountains, reconstructed by the late emperor Wilhelm II.

In the afternoon the boys returned to Frankfurt to see the Zoological Garden and the Exotarium, the most famous aquarium in Europe.

"This was certainly was the highlight of the whole trip," said Dolan.

The reaction of the boys proved it.

James Zalegowski, 14, of Reading, Pa., said, "This was just wonderful. I liked the Roman ruins in the mountains, but the Frankfurt Zoo simply topped everything I have seen in Europe."

Daniel O'Malley, of Youngstown, O., said, "That was a terrific show in the aquarium. It is so well planned and constructed. Everything was fascinating."

After the visit to the zoo, the boys were given a reception and dinner in the zoo restaurant by the city of Frankfurt.

Around City Hall

Non-Voters Receive No Sympathy

Cassidy: Votin Sacred Right

By LEO SCHERER

City-County Election Commissioner Fred Cassidy has no sympathy for local registered voters who don't vote.

He feels that voting is a sacred right that should be used at each election regardless of the candidates or issues.

"City elections are extremely important because those elected will direct a governmental subdivision close to home," said Cassidy.

In the last 3 city primary elections, less than half of the registered voters went to the polls, election records show.

One for Boyles

District Judge Pat Boyles likes elections, especially if he is just observing.

The judge, a former Lincoln mayor, was once a deputy election commissioner and dropped in the office after the primary to visit with friends.

Judge Boyles even received one write-in vote for mayor.

Voting trends can be quickly detected usually by election officials after only a few precincts come in for tabulation.

Kep Kept Brown

Police Officer Ron Flansburg is now proudly wearing his sergeant stripes.

But his patrol dog, Kep, hasn't been promoted and is wearing the same brownish coat.

One possible reason is that Flansburg has been on the force longer than Kep who also hasn't learned the English language.

Although now a sergeant, Flansburg is still working with the dog at least two nights per week.

Kep, a German Shephard, is one of 3 police dogs now being used by the Lincoln Police Department.

Lincolnite Aids Opera Talent Hunt

The New York Metropolitan Opera has selected its annual contract winner — Justino Diaz, a 23-year-old bass from New York City.

While no Nebraskan was among the 10 finalists for the coveted recognition, a Lincoln woman, Mrs. Phil Sidles, aids the opera association in its search for musicians.

As a regional representative on the association's National Council, Mrs. Sidles is among a national group of civic leaders which establishes regional audition programs for young artists and which is available to the Metropolitan's board of directors for advice and consultation.

Vets Losing GI Insurance

The habit of "riding the 31-day grace period" has caused the lapse of GI insurance policies for many hundreds of veterans in recent years, A. H. Duxbury, Lincoln VA Regional Office manager, said.

Too many veterans on "grace period" time forget their final deadlines, and eventually allow their policies to lapse, often at a time when their dependents need protection the most, he said.

Duxbury advised veterans to make up the monthly payment that they may be running behind, even if they have been making their payments each time during the grace period.

Johnston Quits At Hastings

Hastings—Robert P. Johnston, assistant professor of art and director of art exhibitions, has resigned at Hastings College to accept a $4,000 teaching fellowship in the College of Fine Arts at Ohio University.

Johnston, at Hastings College since September 1958, will work on his Ph.D. degree at Ohio.

Johnston's resignation will become effective at the end of summer school.

Cairn terrier . . . gaining popularity.

Lincoln-Owned Cairn Terrier Helps Build Reputation of Spunky Breed

By JUDI LEE

A somewhat rare, natural canine breed, known for their spunk and fighting spirit, seem to be gaining wide popularity among dog-lovers — with Jiminy Cricket as one of the prime examples

Jiminy, a pint-sized, long-haired Cairn Terrier, has been building a reputation for his breed and exhibiting his zesty personality traits

Lincoln's first male Cairn champion, Jiminy recently won these honors at 3 Kansas dog shows: Best of Breed, 4th in the Terrier group and Best of Winners for a 3-point major win.

Jiminy's owner, Mrs Bob Danley of 1610 So. 51st, describes her shaggy pet's disposition as primarily and "instinctively scrappy."

"This trait is common among most Terriers, but particularly among Cairns. It is derived from their Scottish ancestry," Mrs. Danley said.

Used For Fox-Hunting

During fox-hunts, Scotsmen would hoist the small Cairn upon a horse and when it was known a fox was near send him down into rock piles to force the foxes out into the open

Bred to fight, Cairns were likewise bred for a shrill bark, necessary to signal the hunter, Mrs. Daniels explained.

In his 3 years, however, Jiminy hasn't yet had the opportunity to scare up foxes. But he seems to project this feisty attitude toward other dogs and some strangers.

Mrs. Danley commented that he must be carefully guarded at dog shows: "He'll take on a Doberman any day."

"Scrappy as they may be, Cairns are good pets and generally get along well with children," she added.

Currently Jiminy has spent much of his time standing upright against a bird cage seemingly contemplating a strategy to trap the Danley's parakeet, Chipper.

"Jiminy's personality far exceeds his appearance," said Mrs. Danley, and she conceded that she may be a little partial.

Not Glamorous

Though not a glamorous show dog, Jiminy comes from a family of champions. His sire is an outstanding Cairn in Denver and his champion mother and brother, are owned by Lincolnites Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Goldburg

Jiminy's several trophies and plaques, crowding shelves in the Danley's living room, have become more than "just something else to dust."

Mrs. Danley, formerly a long-time collie breeder, said she has become accustomed to polishing awards and is proud of them

Jiminy is the third-ranking Cairn Terrier in the country, according to the April National Terrier Talk magazine. To date Jiminy has defeated 65 dogs in shows in the Midwest only

Lincoln Lions Make Things Much Clearer for Many School Pupils

Without any big roar about it, some human male variety of lions have been making things much clearer for many Lincoln boys and girls since 1945.

About $10,000 clearer, estimates a spokesman for this Lincoln Lions Club, which is as vision saving-conscious as has been its national organization for the past half century.

Since opthamologists also serve by billing low fees, the $10,000 represents a good many pair of glasses and examinations

For instance 36 pairs needed by Lincoln students in 1961-62 school year cost $617.-40 or $19.65 each. This included examinations.

Others Help Too

Nine other pairs were purchased through Aid for Dependent Children, University Place Lions Club, Elks Club and the Bethany Lions Club.

Two students examined by the doctor aren't wearing glasses Examination proved no need This cost $10 each from the Lions fund.

This school year to date 20 pairs have been purchased by Lions money, two pairs were repaired and another 5 pupils examined and found not needing glasses.

Whenever possible parents of the students pay for part of the glasses cost. This builds up the Lions' fund for other vision-troubled students.

Mrs. Helen Miller, coordinator of nursing service for Lincoln Public Schools, recalled one girl with new glasses who paid $5 monthly until the total cost was covered.

School nurses test students for vision, referring them to eye doctors whether or not the cost can be covered by the family.

Glasses . . . clear up school, work and play world.

The school system, however, has no money to cover the cost.

With a small staff and a growing school population, this nurse's examination on vision has even been cut to first, 3rd, 5th, 7th, 9th and 11th grades now.

At one time all grades were automatically screened by the nursing service.

All new students, plus those in non-testing grades who seem to be having vision difficulty, still are automatically tested.

NU Sets Masters Program

4 Successful Alumni Will Visit Students

The University of Nebraska will start its first Masters Program, Apr. 22 and 23, with 4 successful University graduates highlighting the program.

The Masters Program, the first of its kind at the University, is designed to give the students a chance to know and learn from the Masters and the Masters a chance to know the students and discover how young Americans think today, said Dave Smith, chairman of the Masters Program.

"Informality is the hallmark of the program," said Ken Keller, a member of the NU Public Relations Dept. "It is set up in an informal manner in order to stimulate and encourage the students in a way that a formal program could not."

The Masters will explain the possibilities for advancement in various professions, how they achieved success in their respective field, the importance of a college education and the practical aspects of the business world, said Smith

The Innocents and Mortar Board members will be the official hosts and hostesses for the Masters. The program originated at the University after Chancellor Clifford Hardin returned from the Masters Program at Purdue University and referred the idea to the NU Student Council.

The 4 Masters are

J. Lee Rankin, who was graduated from the University in 1930 with a Bachelor of Laws degree and was named solicitor general of the United States in 1956 He will be the speaker at the Honors Convocation, Apr 23 He is a former Lincoln lawyer

Natural Hatred Spices NBA Title Playoffs

Boston (AP) — The Boston Celtics—aging but proud—open their bid tonight for an unprecedented 5th straight National Basketball Association title against the eager Los Angeles Lakers, who have vowed to end the dynasty.

One year and 87 games after the Celtics edged the Lakers 110-107 in overtime in their 7th game showdown, the clubs open the final playoff series at Boston Garden.

No special incentives are needed for this one. The teams genuinely hate each other on the court, though some players are friendly off of it. Coach Red Auerbach of Boston and the Lakers' Fred Schaus are not on speaking terms.

Boston does have the extra push of a promise to win this title for Bob Cousy, in his 13th and final NBA season. The Celtics bristle at the reminder they dropped the regular season series to LA 5 games to 4.

Los Angeles is an established power with class, finesse and an edge in youth which breaks down to 3½ years per man over their Boston counterparts. And the Lakers have their super stars, Elgin Baylor and a fully recovered Jerry West. The latter missed a 3rd of the season with a severe leg muscle pull.

Boston again pegs its hopes on the players' choice as league Most Valuable Player, Bill Russell, the superb defender-rebounder, plus the shooting of Sam Jones and Tommy Heinsohn, and Cousy's playmaking magic.

"The Celtics will win, no question about it," predicts Walter Brown, club president. "They'll win because they're the best team in basketball. It's as simple as that. This is barring injury, of course. Injuries could change everything."

From Schaus the pre-battle summation is concise: "We have the personnel to cope with the Celtics."

The series may well be settled at the foul line and in the corners.

Los Angeles counted all 5 season victories over Boston and the 3 in the playoffs last April on free throws with the Celtics even or ahead in field goals. In the 9 meetings of the campaign just passed, Boston outscored Los Angeles 443-377 in baskets while the Lakers had a 292-192 bulge in free throws made.

After a mid-season loss to the Lakers in which Los Angeles had 10 more free throw attempts than the Celtics, Cousy forecast trouble in the playoffs if "we don't get any better shake in foul calls. With two evenly-balanced teams like this, there shouldn't be such a wide difference in fouls anyhow."

Russell is the premiere pivotman though Jim Krebs and Gene Wiley can be sheer murder. Los Angeles has an edge in backcourt firepower, especially since leaping Dick Barnett has hit 4 points over his season's average against Boston, 21.9 to 18.0.

Los Angeles has the unexcelled Baylor in a corner with strong support from Rudy LaRusso. Tom Sanders, disappointing at times this season, draws the unenviable assignment of covering Baylor.

Heinsohn must not only cope with a tough rival in LaRusso but hit his expected 20 points. Boston also uses its bench fireman, Frank Ramsey, shortest front-liner in the NBA at 6-foot-4, and sometimes John Havlicek in the corners.

Doane Invitational Has 62 Prep Entries

Hastings College Meet Also Big on Track Slate

Doane and Hastings Colleges vie for high school track attention this week with their annual invitational meets, both this Friday.

The two meets are the highlights of the week's cinder slate.

Doane has announced its field will include 62 schools, split into two divisions.

Four Lincoln schools, plus Omaha Central, Omaha South, and Omaha Tech, will comprise most of the entries in the big school division for Class A and B schools.

Other teams in that division are Ashland, Beatrice, Bellevue, Crete, Fairbury, Falls City, Nebraska City, and Papillion.

Tech and Fairbury should be chief threats for the team title.

The small school division has 47 team entries.

Adams, Alexandria, Avoca, Beaver Crossing, Bennet, Bradshaw, Cedar Bluffs, Ceresco, Clarks, Clatonia, Clay Center, Davenport, DeWitt, Dewitt, Dillon, Doerchester, Endicott, Exeter, Fairfield, Fairmont, Falls City Sacred Heart, Gresham, Guide Rock, Hamilton;

Harvard, Henderson, Hickman, Louisville, Loup City, McCool, Mead, Milford, Milligan, Odell, Osceola, Panama, Palmyra, Platteview, Polk, Shelby Public, Sutton, Tobias, Waco, Waverly, Weeping Water, Western, and Wilber.

The Central Nebraska Invitational at Hastings will have Hastings and Grand Island in the line of powerful teams.

This meet has just one class and is one of the few meets in the state that offers some of the state's better small school performers a shot at big school athletes.

Lincoln High will participate at Hastings while Southeast, Northeast, Pius X, and Uni High go to Doane.

Three other invitationals are spread throughout the state Friday—at David City, Norfolk, and Ainsworth.

Other top meets during the week are the Mustang Conference at Nebraska Wesleyan Wednesday, Ravenna Invitational Thursday, and Western Conference at Scottsbluff Saturday.

Dual competition finds Southeast at Beatrice Monday and North Platte hosting Scottsbluff Monday and Kearney Friday.

Track schedule:

Monday—Southeast at Beatrice dual, 2 p.m.; Scottsbluff at North Platte dual.

Tuesday—Southern Frontier Conference at McCook; Knox County at Creighton, Ed Weir Invitational at Superior; Cedar Valley at Greeley.

Saturday—Western Nebraska at Scottsbluff.

Boundary Commission Proposed

S.D.'s Farrar Offers Plan

Yankton, S.D. (AP) — South Dakota Attorney General Frank Farrar still feels the Gavins Point fishing waters dispute should be settled by a boundary commission.

"It is unfortunate that Mel Steen, Nebraska game commission director, refuses to cooperate in such negotiations when other Nebraska state officials appear willing to do so," Farrar said during an inspection of the Gavins Point dam tailwaters area.

Nebraska Gov. Frank Morrison Friday asked members of the State Game Commission to reconsider closing the tailwaters to South Dakota fishermen. Steen and the Nebraska commission maintain the waters are within Nebraska boundaries.

Farrar told authorities and sportsmen here that he will try to claim for South Dakota only the area which a map study now underway shows there is a good basis for claiming.

Doane Golfers Play in Lincoln

Crete—Doane's golfers will open the season April 23, competing in the Nebraska Wesleyan Invitational against Wesleyan, Hastings, Dana, Concordia and Midland.

Doane will play its home matches at Lincoln's Pioneers Course. The schedule:

Lake Is Like Layer Cake

Angler Aided By Research

By PETE CZURA

Forget the greek sounding names attached to layers of water, but always found on the top one.

A fishing expert, by crude but penetrating definition, is a guy who can tell where all the fish were—yesterday.

And just as you suspected, there is a good reason behind all this.

The neophyte who buys his first fishing license yesterday blossoms into an expert authority tomorrow.

This is a healthy but not a helpful condition.

Take a term like thermal stratification for example. Anyone who has whiled away an hour with a copy of a boondocks magazine in a doctor's waiting room can tell you all about that.

He can tell that any fairly deep northern lake isn't really a big pot of water at all. Instead, it's an assortment of 3 layers of waters, something like a sandwich. And fish congregate in the warmer, well oxygenated water of the upper story.

And there you are. It is all very simple and beautiful, and it is even true part of the time.

But not in the spring that's coming up, bringing a promise of finny combat and dreams of big ones.

Then warming air temperatures bring on the "turn over" of a lake and for a time leave them mixed, without any layers at all.

Nor in the fall when cooling air brings on the same phenomenon.

Nor in the winter when the warmer water is at the bottom of the lake, and the cooler water is up against the ice—but still contains more oxygen.

Getting back to the Greek names, there are 3 layers in a body of water; epilimnion, the top, thermocline, the middle and hypolimnion, bottom.

Under certain conditions, all 3 layers will produce fish, but you have to know when to fish these layers.

Yellow perch, for instance, a schooling species, tend to hang about in shallow water during early weeks of summer. Then they tend to move into deeper waters and beds of submerged vegetation.

By midsummer, the cold water species, lake trout, and rainbow trout, will hightail it into the basement of the lake to seek the air-conditioned levels.

Warm-water species like, bass, sunfish, perch, pike and walleye will be in the shallow sections.

Sometimes an angler has to be a sort of scientific Einstein in figuring where his lure will produce the most action.

Finding fish in certain areas of water will vary from day and place to place.

Just when you think you have the fish solved, they will fool you completely and make you look like a fool.

This by the way, just tells where the fish are.

It has nothing whatever to do with whether they're biting . . . that's your problem!

Solstice Fishing Table

The Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star announces the beginning of a special weekly fishing table for anglers in Nebraska.

This will be a regular feature written and compiled by our Outdoor Editor, Pete Czura.

Each Sunday, the Solstice Table will inform anglers which days are best, good, or fair, for fishing during the week.

Predictions are based on position of the sun and computed with pre-determined factors to obtain accurate analysis of future fishing potential.

However, this is no guarantee that anglers will catch fish—or his limit—or any fish.

When to Fish
SOLSTICE TABLE

Predictions for the week commencing this Sunday:

Sunday—best
Monday—best
Tuesday—best
Wednesday—best
Thursday—best
Friday—good
Saturday—good

With warm weather upon us, the crappie, walleye, and northerns will provide first opponents for anglers going afield. But don't overlook trout and bass, too.

Best periods during best days this week will be in morning.

Reason for Controversy

Henry Schrieber, Laurel, Neb., displays a big sauger he landed in the disputed Missouri River tailwaters below the Gavins Point Dam. The Nebraska Game Commission maintains the entire tailwater area is in Nebraska and is requiring Nebraska licenses of fishermen there. Because of the fine fishing the question has been a particularly sore point with South Dakotans.

Bait Your Fish Hooks On These State Marks

As warm weather brings increased interest in fishing, Nebraska sportsmen are reminded by the Game Commission to look for record-breakers in their creels this summer.

Last year 3 state fishing records were set. George Ford of Madrid caught a 3-pound 15-ounce smallmouth bass, Delmer Butler of Sidney a 3-pound 15-ounce crappie, and Cletus Jacobsen of Big Springs a 27-pound 8-ounce northern pike. All three fish were taken from Lake McConaughy.

The present list of Nebraska record fish compiled by the Game Commission includes:

Zoo Pin Tourney

Starts Today; Daily Prizes

A Lincoln bowling tournament will be held this week to help raise funds for the city's Children Zoo.

The tournament, according to City Park Supt. James Ager, will be held at all Lincoln bowling establishments and the Lincoln Air Force Base.

It begins today and ends Friday.

Ager said the tournament would be for "most pins over average for a 3-game series" and the series would be bowled as apart of the regular league play.

Ager said prizes, totaling close to $600, have been donated by different merchants and a daily cash prize would be awarded.

"We feel the tournament will help our children's zoo project," said Ager.

Meet Apr. 19

The Nebraska Game Commissioners will hold their next meeting at 9 a.m. Friday, Apr. 19, on the 9th floor of the State Capitol, announced M. O. Steen, Game Commission director.

Basset—Seeing those thousands of ducks on the local Sandhill ponds made us wonder if someone hadn't flipped a gasket in predicting another bad nesting year for ducks.

Most of the waters were blanketed with mallards, scaup, pintails, widgeons, teal and a few wood ducks.

Cavorting in the shallow waters they presented a picture which should gladden the heart of all waterfowl hunters.

Last year was a particularly lean one since ducks had been clobbered by drought and late snow melts in Canadian nesting grounds which prevented any successful nesting.

Bright Future

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife has issued results of the 1963 Central Flyway winter waterfowl survey.

Their reports are completely different from the ones posted a year ago—in fact, the duck future has improved tremendously.

It's apparent the curtailed hunting season of 1962 helped in preserving waterfowl breeding stock.

Observers reported 15% more waterfowl were seen this winter than in 1962.

Ducks observed in the U.S. portion of the Central Flyway were up 23% over 1962 but still 18% below the long-term average.

Some Hold Their Own

Redheads for the past few seasons were dwindling at an alarming rate. But the closed seasons on this bird has helped to slow or stop their decline.

More pintails were spotted during this survey but the total was 40% below the long-term average.

While ducks were battling to hold their own, geese the monarchs of the skyways increased their populations.

Snow and blue geese tallies were up 72% over 1962, and up 23% over the long-term average.

Less in Nebraska

Twice as many waterfowl were recorded in New Mexico, Oklahoma and North Dakota by the 1963 than in 1962.

In Montana, 19% more waterfowl were noted, while fewer waterfowl were seen in South Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas and Texas.

The annual midwinter count was carried out by 309 observers in the Central Flyway. They flew 21,668 miles in 30 planes, and travelled another 25,000 miles by car, boat, and even snowplane.

Neutralist Laos Units 'Will Counter-Attack'

Vientiane, Laos, (UPI) — Neutralist army commander Gen Kong Le warned Saturday his forces will counter-attack against pro-Communist troops unless the International Control Commission (ICC) arranges a peaceful settlement of their conflict

Kong Le spoke to newsmen on the Plaine des Jarres, scene of heavy fighting between his men and those of the Pathet Lao The general said more than 200 persons were killed in the fighting, including troops of both sides and civilians

The ICC sent inspection teams to the plain and two other Laotian trouble spots to investigate charges of foreign intervention

Americans have said there is "evidence" that troops from Communist North Vietnam are in northern Laos The Communists have charged that U S and Thai troops are in southern Laos

The 14-nation Geneva conference ending the Laotion civil war provided that all foreign troops withdraw soon after a cease fire went into effect

The commission teams — made up of Indian, Canadian and Communist Polish delegates — were sent to the Plaine des Jarres and to Savannakhet and Saravane provinces in the south

There have been some indications in the past that the Communist North Vietnamese troops aided the Laotion Pathet Lao forces in fighting which erupted on the plain between neutralist and Communist forces

The flareup of fighting and the assassination Friday night of left-leaning "neutralist" police Col Khantha Visaphanthong heightened tension in Laos and brought fears of renewed civil war.

Khantha was shot and killed by an unknown assailant as he sat reading in his suburban home He was reported close to anti American foreign minister Quinim Pholsena, who also was assassinated, in Vientiane on April 1

Missouri Tips OSU In Track

Strong Wins Three Events

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) —Missouri's depth and distance strength overcame a fine individual effort by Oklahoma State's Charles Strong as the Tigers posted an 81-64 victory in a dual track meet here Saturday.

Strong figured in 5 of Oklahoma State's 8 victories. The senior ace won the 220, 440 and broad jump and anchored Oklahoma State's two relay teams to victory.

Missouri's Greg Pelster set a stadium record with a 1:50.4 clocking in the 880-yard run. The Tigers outscored the Cowboys 23-4 in the 3 distance races to insure their victory.

Preston Holsinger and Mickey Baller of Oklahoma State tied the stadium record in the pole vault as they deadlocked at 15-3¾.

Boston Red Sox right fielder Lou Clinton (6) falls over centerfielder Roman Mejias going for a fly ball Saturday (next to Mejias' elbow). The ball dropped and Clinton was charged with a two-base error.

Sanders' Birdies Up Cushion

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — Doug Sanders shot a 3-under-par 58 Saturday, thanks to a flurry of 4 closing front nine birdies, to move 5 shots in front in the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament after 54 holes.

His 201 total, 12 under par, but he is 5 shots ahead of California veteran Jimmy Clark.

Sharing 4th place at 207, six shots off the pace, were Sam Snead, a 7-time winner here, who had his third 69, and Canadian Stan Leonard, also a former Greensboro victor, whose 63 was one of 5 shot Saturday, the lowest of the round.

Sanders' 5-year-old son Brad tagged along behind him on every hold of his journey over the 7,000-yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course. "He settles me down," explained the proud 29-year-old father, a native of Georgia who plays out of Ojai, Calif. "He's been with me on 3 previous tournaments and I won two and was 4th in the other. He must be a good luck charm."

Brad's principal comment: "I want to go home."

Sanders opened the round with a 3-stroke lead over Dave Marr on the wings of a 5-under-par second round back nine.

His first nine began with 5 pars, then he ripped off 4 birdies in a row, making the turn in 32, four under par. It gave him a two-day 18-hole score of 62, starting with that back nine 30 of Friday.

His 201 total equalled the event record for 54 holes and was one stroke off the lowest 54-hold total of this year's PGA tour. South Africa's Gary Player shot 200 for three rounds at San Diego, Calif., where he scored his only victory this year.

Sanders, looking ahead to today's windup, said he thought "a man should be able to hold a 5-shot lead in the last round."

Asked if he planned to play safe, he replied, "I hope I can play the 3 par 5 holes well and shoot between 69 and 71. Then I should be all right, unless somebody else shoots about 65. But I'd rather win by one stroke than try to win by 10 and lose by one."

His first birdie came on the long 6th, where he two-putted from 35 feet. On the next 3 he rolled in putts of about 3½ feet.

He hit his tee shot into the water on No. 11 and took his first bogey, but two-putted from 30 feet to birdie No. 14.

On the 17th he left his second shot just off the green and needed three shots to get down from 70 feet.

Nagle, a sturdy 42-year-old who beat Arnold Palmer by one stroke to win the 1960 British Open and was runner-up to Palmer last year, had nines of 34-35.

Paper Says Coach Quit

McQuire Gives Up NBA Job

Detroit (AP)—The Detroit News said Saturday it had learned Detroit Pistons Coach Dick McGuire has resigned from his $13,000 a year job with the National Basketball Association team.

The News quoted McGuire as saying, "I've sent a letter to Mr. Zollner (team owner Fred Zollner) informing him that I've decided not to come back next season."

Zollner, the Pistons' millionaire owner who lives in Fort Wayne, Ind., could not be reached for comment.

McGuire, who spent 11 years as a player in the NBA before taking over the Pistons' coaching job, had been rumored on the verge of being fired several times during the 1962-63 season.

Although they made the NBA semifinals playoffs, later being eliminated by the St Louis Hawks, the Pistons finished the season with a record 46 losses.

Laurel Winner

Laurel, Md. (AP)— Wheatley Stable's Bold Commander, trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, won the $25,000-added Chesapeake Stakes at Laurel race course Saturday in track record time for the 1 1-16 miles.

The 3-year-old son of Bold Ruler, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, won by two lengths over Mrs. Alfred J. Giodano's Hot Dust in 1 minute, 43 2-5 seconds. Pivot was 3rd.

FFA Groups from Over State Win Awards Here

Eddie Hellman of Cambridge was elected president of the Nebraska Association of the Future Farmers of America at the final session of the Association's 35th annual convention here.

Hellman

Hellman succeeds Lane Tederman of Gothenburg. Douglas Kuhn, Columbus, was named Secretary, and Glen Strain, Lincoln was re-elected as state FFA advisor.

Under new election procedures effective this year, the state association offices of treasurer, news reporter and a single vice president were not filled.

To achieve greater geographical distribution of officers around the state 4 area vice presidents will preside over all area meetings, assisted by area chairmen. Both the area vice presidents and the area chairmen will assist the state president and secretary in planning the 1964 state convention.

Area Officers are:

Southeast — Larry Hudkins, Waverly, vice president; Sonny Brown, York, chairman.

Northeast — Kenneth Schoch, Pender, vice president; Robert Milligan, Hooper, chairman.

Central — Gary Wahlgren, Gothenburg, vice president; Warren Sanger, Franklin, chairman.

Western — Dewey Knuth, Oxford, vice president; Jay Dee Fox, Harrison, chairman.

Newsboys Spend Day Visiting German Spas

Frankfurt, Germany (UPI) — The 83 "Young Columbus" American newsboys went shopping Saturday, carrying bundles from the Bad Nauheim Spa so big they hardly could board their bus.

Ezra Dolan, an executive of Parade Magazine, the Sunday supplement sponsoring the trip of newsboys to Europe, said "The boys spent another wonderful day today. They enjoyed it very much."

Three busloads of newsboys, including Sunday Journal and Star carriers Jon. A. Camp, 3750 Washington, Lincoln, and Allan D. Klaus of Beatrice, made a quick tour through spas near Frankfurt.

They first drove to Bad Nauheim, where they were received by the spa director. They had an opportunity to play miniature golf and. go rowing.

Then they returned to Bad Homburg for lunch.

In this famous spa, which is called the "Mother of Monte Carlo," because the first roulette tables were installed here, they went sightseeing through the town and parks.

"We decided a visit to the gambling casino was not appropriate for the youngsters," said Dolan. "They did not miss it."

Other stops included the ruins of the Saalburg, a Roman fort in the Taunus mountains, reconstructed by the late emperor Wilhelm II.

In the afternoon the boys returned to Frankfurt to see the Zoological Garden and the Exotarium, the most famous aquarium in Europe.

"This was certainly was the highlight of the whole trip," said Dolan.

The reaction of the boys proved it.

James Zalegowski, 14, of Reading, Pa., said, "This was just wonderful. I liked the Roman ruins in the mountains, but the Frankfurt Zoo simply topped everything I have seen in Europe."

Daniel O'Malley, of Youngstown, O., said, "That was a terrific show in the aquarium. It is so well planned and constructed. Everything was fascinating."

After the visit to the zoo, the boys were given a reception and dinner in the zoo restaurant by the city of Frankfurt.

Ex-Vaudeville Performer Dies At Age 76

Omaha (AP) — An old-time vaudeville performer, Nathan Buddy De Loach of Omaha has died at a Knoxville, Iowa, hospital at the age of 76.

Funeral services will be at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Thomas Funeral Home. Rosary recitation will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the mortuary.

A singer, dancer and trumpet player, he twice toured the Orient with a group known as the Wilbur Blackbirds. He also played at theaters across the United States and in Europe.

In 1936, he took his own show to the Hawaiian Islands and performed there a year. His wife, Eva, his only survivor, performed with him, playing the saxaphone and piano.

Cancer Institute Opens June 10th

Omaha (AP) — Dedication ceremonies here for the Eppley Institute for Research of Cancer and Allied Diseases will be June 10.

Three scientific panels will be held at the institute June 10 in which faculty members and a group of visiting scientists will take part.

The official opening ceremony will be at 4 p.m., June 9 after the University of Nebraska College of Medicine commencement.

Nuss to Board Of Directors

Omaha—Herschel E. Nuss, finance director at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, has been elected to the board of directors and executive committee of the Nebraska Credit Union League.

He was elected to a two-year term at the League's annual meeting in Grand Island as one of the 4 league directors at large. The other 9 directors are chosen by districts.

There are 130 credit unions now in the Nebraska Credit Union League.

Around City Hall

Non-Voters Receive No Sympathy

Cassidy: Votin Sacred Right

By LEO SCHERER

City-County Election Commissioner Fred Cassidy has no sympathy for local registered voters who don't vote.

He feels that voting is a sacred right that should be used at each election regardless of the candidates or issues.

"City elections are extremely important because those elected will direct a governmental subdivision close to home," said Cassidy.

In the last 3 city primary elections, less than half of the registered voters went to the polls, election records show.

One for Boyles

District Judge Pat Boyles likes elections, especially if he is just observing.

The judge, a former Lincoln mayor, was once a deputy election commissioner and dropped in the office after the primary to visit with friends.

Judge Boyles even received one write-in vote for mayor.

Voting trends can be quickly detected usually by election officials after only a few precincts come in for tabulation.

Kep Kept Brown

Police Officer Ron Flansburg is now proudly wearing his sergeant stripes.

But his patrol dog, Kep, hasn't been promoted and is wearing the same brownish coat.

One possible reason is that Flansburg has been on the force longer than Kep who also hasn't learned the English language.

Although now a sergeant, Flansburg is still working with the dog at least two nights per week.

Kep, a German Shephard, is one of 3 police dogs now being used by the Lincoln Police Department.

Lincolnite Aids Opera Talent Hunt

The New York Metropolitan Opera has selected its annual contract winner — Justino Diaz, a 23-year-old bass from New York City.

While no Nebraskan was among the 10 finalists for the coveted recognition, a Lincoln woman, Mrs. Phil Sidles, aids the opera association in its search for musicians.

As a regional representative on the association's National Council, Mrs. Sidles is among a national group of civic leaders which establishes regional audition programs for young artists and which is available to the Metropolitan's board of directors for advice and consultation.

Vets Losing GI Insurance

The habit of "riding the 31-day grace period" has caused the lapse of GI insurance policies for many hundreds of veterans in recent years, A. H. Duxbury, Lincoln VA Regional Office manager, said.

Too many veterans on "grace period" time forget their final deadlines, and eventually allow their policies to lapse, often at a time when their dependents need protection the most, he said.

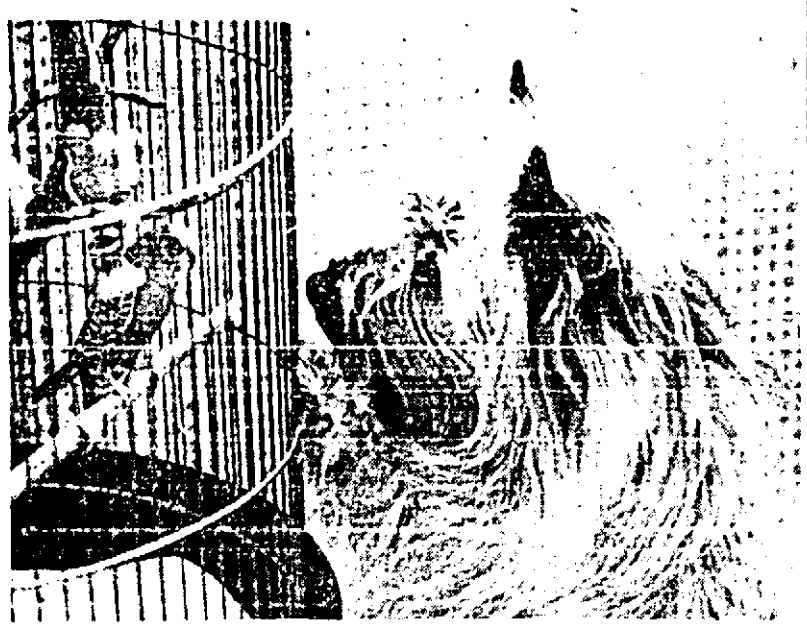
Duxbury advised veterans to make up the monthly payment that they may be running behind, even if they have been making their payments each time during the grace period.

Johnston Quits At Hastings

Hastings—Robert P. Johnston, assistant professor of art and director of art exhibitions, has resigned at Hastings College to accept a $4,000 teaching fellowship in the College of Fine Arts at Ohio University.

Johnston, at Hastings College since September 1958, will work on his Ph.D. degree at Ohio.

Johnston's resignation will become effective at the end of summer school.



Cairn terrier . . . gaining popularity.

Lincoln-Owned Cairn Terrier Helps Build Reputation of Spunky Breed

By JUDI LEE

A somewhat rare, natural canine breed, known for their spunk and fighting spirit, seem to be gaining wide popularity among dog-lovers — with Jiminy Cricket as one of the prime examples.

Jiminy, a pint-sized, long-haired Cairn Terrier, has been building a reputation for his breed and exhibiting his zesty personality traits.

Lincoln's first male Cairn champion, Jiminy recently won these honors at 3 Kansas dog shows: Best of Breed, 4th in the Terrier group and Best of Winners for a 3-point major win.

Jiminy's owner, Mrs. Bob Danley of 1610 So. 51st, describes her shaggy pet's disposition as primarily and "instinctively scrappy."

"This trait is common among most Terriers, but particularly among Cairns. It is derived from their Scottish ancestry," Mrs. Danley said.

Used For Fox-Hunting

During fox-hunts, Scotsmen would hoist the small Cairn upon a horse and when it was known a fox was near send him down into rock piles to force the foxes out into the open.

Bred to fight, Cairns were likewise bred for a shrill bark, necessary to signal the hunter, Mrs. Daniels explained.

In his 3 years, however, Jiminy hasn't yet had the opportunity to scare up foxes. But he seems to project this feisty attitude toward other dogs and some strangers.

Mrs. Danley commented that he must be carefully guarded at dog shows: "He'll take on a Doberman any day."

"Scrappy as they may be, Cairns are good pets and generally get along well with children," she added.

Currently Jiminy has spent much of his time standing upright against a bird cage seemingly contemplating a strategy to trap the Danley's parakeet, Chipper.

"Jiminy's personality far exceeds his appearance," said Mrs. Danley, and she conceded that she may be a little partial.

Not Glamorous

Though not a glamorous show dog, Jiminy comes from a family of champions. His sire is an outstanding Cairn in Denver and his champion mother and brother, are owned by Lincolnites Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Goldburg.

Jiminy's several trophies and plaques, crowding shelves in the Danley's living room, have become more than "just something else to dust."

Mrs. Danley, formerly a long-time collie breeder, said she has become accustomed to polishing awards and is proud of them.

Jiminy is the third-ranking Cairn Terrier in the country, according to the April National Terrier Talk magazine. To date Jiminy has defeated 65 dogs in shows in the Midwest only.

Lincoln Lions Make Things Much Clearer for Many School Pupils

Without any big roar about it, some human male variety of lions have been making things much clearer for many Lincoln boys and girls since 1945.

About $10,000 clearer, estimates a spokesman for this Lincoln Lions Club, which is as vision saving-conscious as has been its national organization for the past half century.

Since opthamologists also serve by billing low fees, the $10,000 represents a good many pair of glasses and examinations.

For instance 36 pairs needed by Lincoln students in 1961-62 school year cost $617.-40 or $19.65 each. This included examinations.

Others Help Too

Nine other pairs were purchased through Aid for Dependent Children, University Place Lions Club, Elks Club and the Bethany Lions Club.

Two students examined by the doctor aren't wearing glasses. Examination proved no need. This cost $10 each from the Lions fund.

This school year to date 20 pairs have been purchased by Lions money, two pairs were repaired and another 5 pupils examined and found not needing glasses.

Whenever possible parents of the students pay for part of the glasses cost. This builds up the Lions' fund for other vision-troubled students.

Mrs. Helen Miller, coordinator of nursing service for Lincoln Public Schools, recalled one girl with new glasses who paid $5 monthly until the total cost was covered.

School nurses test students for vision, referring them to eye doctors whether or not the cost can be covered by the family.

Glasses . . . clear up school, work and play world.

The school system, however, has no money to cover the cost.

With a small staff and a growing school population, this nurse's examination on vision has even been cut to first, 3rd, 5th, 7th, 9th and 11th grades now.

At one time all grades were automatically screened by the nursing service.

All new students, plus those in non-testing grades who seem to be having vision difficulty, still are automatically tested.

Serving as vice president will be John J. O'Connor Jr., sophomore from Worcester, Mass.

Spring Cleaning Time at Offutt

Offutt Air Force Base—Everything from bulldozers to brooms will be used in spring clean-up at Offutt Air Force Base.

Base Commander Col. Elkins Read Jr. set the coming week to give the base a general spring cleaning, including the removal of fire and safety hazards.

Safety Awards To SAC Units

Two Strategic Air Command units that completed 1962 without accidents will receive Air Force missile safety awards.

Selected for the annual safety honors are the 576th Strategic Missile Squadron of Vandenberg AFB, Calif., and the 390th Bob Wing of Eglin AFB, Fla.

Pharmacists Meet in Omaha

Omaha (AP)—The 80th annual convention of the Nebraska Pharmaceutical Assn. will be held here Saturday through Monday.

More than 400 persons are expected to attend.

Speakers will include V. B. H. Rees, Santa Monica, Calif.; Dr. R. D. Gibson, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Pharmacy; Dr. O. A. Kostal, president of the Nebraska State Medical Assn. and Harvey J. Norgaard, executive secretary of the Colorado Pharmacal Assn.

The group also will select a successor to president Frank Kersenbrock of Ogallala.

NU Sets Masters Program

4 Successful Alumni Will Visit Students

The University of Nebraska will start its first Masters Program, Apr. 22 and 23, with 4 successful University graduates highlighting the program.

The Masters Program, the first of its kind at the University, is designed to give the students a chance to know and learn from the Masters and the Masters a chance to know the students and discover how young Americans think today, said Dave Smith, chairman of the Masters Program.

"Informality is the hallmark of the program," said Ken Keller, a member of the NU Public Relations Dept. "It is set up in an informal manner in order to stimulate and encourage the students in a way that a formal program could not."

The Masters will explain the possibilities for advancement in various professions, how they achieved success in their respective field, the importance of a college education and the practical aspects of the business world, said Smith.

The Innocents and Mortar Board members will be the official hosts and hostesses for the Masters. The program originated at the University after Chancellor Clifford Hardin returned from the Masters Program at Purdue University and referred the idea to the NU Student Council.

The 4 Masters are:

J. Lee Rankin, who was graduated from the University in 1930 with a Bachelor of Laws degree and was named solicitor general of the United States in 1956. He will be the speaker at the Honors Convocation, Apr. 23. He is a former Lincoln lawyer.

Percy Craig Spencer, who holds the Distinguished Service Award at the University of Nebraska, was graduated from NU in 1916 with a Bachelor of Laws degree. He became president of the Sinclair Oil Corp. in 1947.

Chris L. Christensen, retired vice president and chairman of the executive committee of the Celotex Corp. and a 1920 NU graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree in agriculture, who was president of the Student Council during his college years. He has worked in the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, was dean of the University of Wisconsin Agricultural College and has been president of the National 4-H Club since 1960.

Elmer H. Dohrmann, director of personnel for data processing for IBM Corp., who was an active athlete while at the University, was graduated from NU in 1938 with a Bachelor of Science degree. He has been director of the District of Columbia chapter of American Red Cross and recently was awarded the silver anniversary All-America award.

Neutralist Laos Units 'Will Counter-Attack'

Vientiane, Laos, (UPI) — Neutralist army commander Gen. Kong Le warned Saturday his forces will counter-attack against pro-Communist troops unless the International Control Commission (ICC) arranges a peaceful settlement of their conflict.

Kong Le spoke to newsmen on the Plaine des Jarres, scene of heavy fighting between his men and those of the Pathet Lao. The general said more than 200 persons were killed in the fighting, including troops of both sides and civilians.

The ICC sent inspection teams to the plain and two other Laotian trouble spots to investigate charges of foreign intervention.

Americans have said there is "evidence" that troops from Communist North Vietnam are in northern Laos. The Communists have charged that U.S. and Thai troops are in southern Laos.

The 14-nation Geneva conference ending the Laotion civil war provided that all foreign troops withdraw soon after a cease-fire went into effect.

The commission teams — made up of Indian, Canadian and Communist Polish delegates — were sent to the Plaine des Jarres and to Savannakhet and Saravane provinces in the south.

There have been some indications in the past that the Communist North Vietnamese troops aided the Laotion Pathet Lao forces in fighting which erupted on the plain between neutralist and Communist forces.

The flareup of fighting and the assassination Friday night of left-leaning "neutralist" police Col. Khanthi Visaphanthong heightened tension in Laos and brought fears of renewed civil war.

Khanthi was shot and killed by an unknown assailant as he sat reading in his suburban home. He was reported close to anti-American foreign minister Quinim Pholsena, who also was assassinated, in Vientiane on April 1.

'Proceeding As Before'

Miami (UPI) — The Coast Guard said a Liberian motor vessel which earlier reported it was sinking in the Yucatan channel later radioed the damage had been repaired and it no longer was in distress.

The 173-foot Atlantic Reefer said it was proceeding on its way and was in no need of help, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard said the vessel, owned by Hemisphere Shipping Co. of Monrovia, Liberia, sent out an S-O-S that it was sinking and its 17-man crew had abandoned ship about 400 miles south of Havana, Cuba.

Q. Is it true that no TV network in America will telecast The Truman Years because they don't like Harry Truman?—L. Peterson, Salt Lake City, Utah.

A. David Susskind, (l.), producer of that TV series, has been unable to sell it to the networks. Recently he sold all rights to the story of ex-President Truman's administration to Screen Gems for $150,000, taking a loss of $250,000 on the project. Screen Gems may have better luck in syndicating the series.

Q. Is it true that both Raymond Burr and Van Johnson have cancer?—F. P., Los Angeles, Calif.

Q. Allen Dulles, former chief of the CIA, has a favorite story about the ruthlessness of Russian secret service agents. It involves an agent and his sister. Do you know the story? It's a famous one. — Clare Beaton, Miami, Fla.

A. Possibly it's the one Dulles tells about General Abakumov, the Soviet intelligence chief in World War II. A Russian woman was arrested for speculating in the black market. The papers in the case were sent to Abakumov. Reading the details, he noticed that the defendant was his sister. He scribbled across the first page: "Speculation in wartime is treason. Shoot her." She was shot.

Q. Does Josephine Baker really have 11 children?—Amos Williams, White Plains, N. Y.

A. Josephine Baker, U.S. expatriate and Parisian night club entertainer, has 11 adopted children, ages 3 to 11. They are war orphans from a variety of nations, live with Miss Baker and husband, orchestra leader Jo Bouillon, in a French castle.

A. Best bet: Vice-Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, Minister of Economics.

Q. Who is the author of the quotation: "Folks who have no vices have very few virtues"?—Charles Searle, Des Moines, Iowa.

A. Abraham Lincoln.

Q. I'd like to know what ever happened to screen star Mae West. — Jane Reese, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Mae West now lives in Hollywood, owns an apartment house, watches herself in old movies on television.

Q. Is it true that President Kennedy is in perpetual pain because of his back and could never make it on a one-day 50-mile hike?—George Henderson, Charlotte, N. C.

A. From time to time, the President's back troubles him so much that he cannot play golf, touch football, lift his son, dive into the White House pool, engage in strenuous physical activity of any sort. His back trouble stems from a football injury suffered in his Harvard undergraduate days. In his present condition, his completion of a 50-mile hike in one day would be most unlikely.

Q. In London this past winter I saw paintings by Émile Gauguin. What is his relation to the famous painter Paul Gauguin?—Diane Everett, Rutland, Vt.

A. Émile is the 62-year-old half-caste son of Paul Gauguin. For years he was a tourist attraction in Tahiti as the son of the famous painter. From time to time he was jailed in Papeete for getting drunk. Two years ago he was bailed out by a Frenchwoman, Josette Giraud, who set him up in her home, ordered him to paint. Gauguin produced some childlike primitives which are now on sale in London. They reflect little of his father's talent, are considered curiosity items.

Q. What position does Frank Sinatra occupy with the Nevada gambling syndicate? — Henry Dunlap, Sacramento, Calif.

A. Sinatra is the majority owner of the Cal-Neva Lodge near Lake Tahoe. He is also rumored to have an interest in the Sands Hotel, Las Vegas.

AN INSPIRING STORY FOR EASTER

THE TALL AMERICAN WHO LOVES CHILDREN

With little money but much heart, this man is building a lasting people-to-people bond between North and South America

The tall American greeted by village children at Versalles.

Dr. Richard Saunders' program at Versalles, Col., gave this chronically diseased, underfed child a new lease on life.

by ED KIESTER

VERSALLES, COLOMBIA

NOT SO VERY LONG AGO, the solemn-eyed boy in the photo (left) was clearly doomed.

Like most children of the Antioquian region of Colombia, he suffered from parasitic intestinal diseases. Furthermore, he did not get enough to eat. And he was believed to have tuberculosis.

Even if he lived, he was likely to spend his life in abject ignorance and grinding poverty. There was a school in Versalles, but few children went to it. The boy probably would never learn to read or write.

Then one day something happened. A tall, fair, dignified American came to town. He walked up to some men and women who were filling pails at the town's central water outlet. He sat down at the side of the road and took off his coat.

"Is the water good?" the American asked.

The men and women waited for one of the American's companions to translate the question, and then shrugged. "No, it is polluted," answered one.

"Doesn't this harm the children?"

"Yes," said a mother sadly. "They are all sick, and many die."

"Where is there good water?"

"High up on the mountain," said one of the men. "At the top of the mountain the water is pure."

By now a crowd was beginning to gather. They were all interested in the strange American and his questions.

"How can we get the pure water down here?" the American pressed.

One of the men snorted. "I will see the eyes of God before there is pure water in this village," he scoffed. But the others were silent. They were intrigued by the way the American said "we." Suddenly a babel of voices broke out.

"We would need pipe," one man said.

"It would be a good idea to build a catch basin to collect the water," suggested another.

"We would need to build a road so that we could bring materials to the catch basin," a third added.

"We would need tools," said a fourth, and then his face fell—"but we have no tools and no money."

"We don't have much money, either," said the American. "But what tools do you need? [Tools cost 60 pesos—about $6.] Now you choose someone to handle the money and here it is. When can we get started?"

By now the men were excited. "Sunday, when we do not work in the fields," said one. "Or tomorrow," said another. "Let us go now, my friend," said a third, "and look at the place where we will get pure water to help our children." And with that, the Versalles water co-operative was born.

Now There's Pure Water

The day the American came to town was two years ago. Since then, great changes have taken place in Versalles. Pure water now flows from nine new community faucets. Six homes even have running water indoors. The next step for Versalles is a community center. They've already made a down payment on the land and are discussing numerous other improvements, with the welfare of their children always in mind.

But the greatest change in Versalles has been in its spirit. For the first time, the villagers have learned the power of working together. Simple co-operation—which Americans take for granted but which is practically unknown in this part of the world—has shown them how to benefit all.

All over Colombia, the tall, fair American—a 61-year-old sociologist and former college president named Dr. Richard P. Saunders—has been driving this lesson home.

Operating a shoestring organization called Futures for Children, with an annual cash outlay of only $3,000, he has succeeded in bringing new hope and a new vision to 40 villages and 16,000 youngsters. He has inspired schools, clinics, roads, bridges, water purification systems and sanitary hookups. Dr. Saunders has been called a one-man Peace Corps.

But the real measure of his success is not in physical improvements but in human values. And in the end his program may have more impact on the world than all the cash outlays and improvement projects of foreign aid.

Dr. Saunders' method is to capitalize on what he calls "the most dynamic and potent motivating force in the world—parents' concern for their children." Experience in all parts of the globe has shown him that adults can be spurred to great accomplishments if they think it will benefit the young. Often they are only waiting for someone to furnish the know-how.

Dr. Saunders shakes people out of their apathy by the very techniques he used at Versalles. A gentle, soft-spoken man, he comes into a village without fanfare and simply strikes up a casual conversation about children. Sometimes the talk grows into an informal town meeting. Dr. Saunders never suggests projects himself, but lets the villagers express what they think the children need. The discussion often grows hot and heavy, but usually a consensus develops without the necessity of a vote. Then Dr. Saunders helps the villagers figure out how to carry out the project. In rare cases, his associates furnish technical aid.

Often the villagers are astonished to find how easy it is to carry out a project at little expense. In Versalles, for instance, the villagers managed to buy second-hand pipe at a price their meager treasury could afford. They found municipal officials willing to contribute cement. A landowner gave them a right-of-way for the road.

From Apathy to 3-Point Program

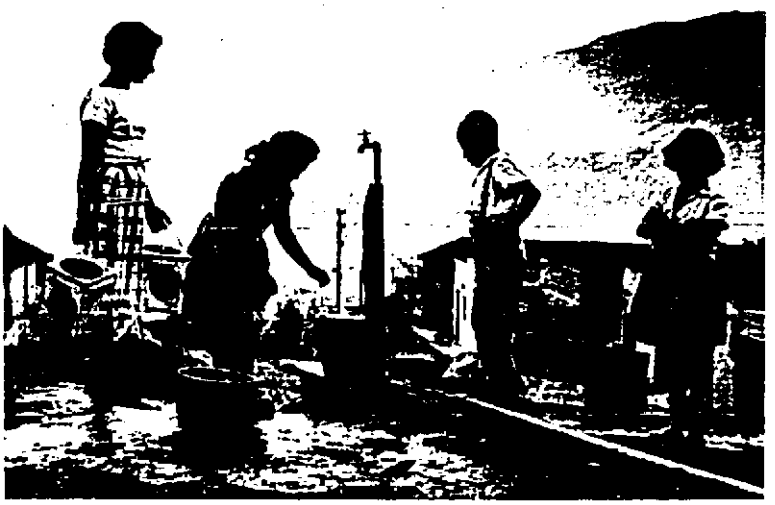
Once started, the villagers plan additional co-operative projects, like Versalles' school. Sometimes their enthusiasm is astounding. A few weeks ago, Dr. Saunders traveled on horseback to the village of LaMani, a mountain settlement accessible only by trail, which had sunk into apathy and idleness. Before he left next day, the villagers had mapped an ambitious three-point program for children which included an improved school, a community sewing machine to produce better clothes and a clinic for public health examinations.

The man who started all this has had a deep and abiding concern for children all his life. As an educator, Dr. Saunders founded two colleges which specialized in giving a second chance to students who had flunked out elsewhere. Later he went into international child welfare work and supervised programs in France, Italy, Greece, Lebanon, Korea, the U.S.

Recently Dr. Saunders joined the Association for Higher Education, an affiliate of the National Education Association, with Washington headquarters, but he did not lose interest in welfare work. Told by some government officials of the plight of the young in Colombia, he organized Futures for Children as a spare-time task. He finances it from friends' contributions and out of his own pocket.

Actually, Futures for Children is perhaps the world's most loosely organized charity. It has not a single paid employee. Here in Colombia, a group of dedicated volunteers manage the operation while Dr. Saunders is back on the job in Washington.

An unusual group, they include one of Colombia's foremost public health experts, a prominent architect, a young attorney, a physician and a government official, who sacrifice their own time and money to look in on projects and furnish advice to villagers. Dr. Saunders' dream is to hire a full-time paid counselor to direct the work. Now the budget can't afford it.



Children of Versalles draw pure water from community tap, one of nine installed in pure water project. Before Dr. Saunders arrived, villagers obtained water from central outlet, which was polluted and caused many children to sicken and die.

Landowners Grumble

Dr. Saunders' group has received no material help from Colombian government sources, but national officials have been, in Saunders' words, "interested and helpful." State and municipal officials have been co-operative in furnishing technical assistance, materials and transportation, as they did in the Versalles case. There has been some grumbling among landowners—traditionally opposed to peasant movements—against Futures, but no organized opposition.

The opinions of these few landlords, moreover, are readily offset by those of the villagers. When Dr. Saunders comes into a village like Versalles, men, women and children seem to pop up from everywhere to embrace him and to shake his hand. "It is like our father coming home to see us," one woman in Versalles says. As he walks through town on an inspection trip, three or four children hang from each hand and a procession tags in his wake. The interesting thing is that he cannot communicate with them, for Dr. Saunders never has learned Spanish. He has recently begun to take lessons, but doesn't really think his kind of rapport depends upon language.

He is a man of straightforward opinions. He believes the kind of continuing self-help program which Futures represents is the best hope for Latin America. "It is the only one I know of which is sufficiently economical and effective to assure the rapid progress of the peasants without enormous and long-continued monetary support from outside the country," he says.

And he believes that such a program should be expanded to underdeveloped nations elsewhere as well. Hopefully, such a program would stress the same principles as Futures: A maximum of self-help and a minimum of outside assistance; projects that represent the felt needs of the villagers; a basic concern for the enhancement of human values; and sharp focus on the welfare of children.

"With these emphases, projects develop naturally and the community continues to move ahead," says Dr. Saunders. "No one knows how far the process can extend. But there is the suggestion that it can continue to the limits of the potential of the human spirit." ■

At 46 Olivia de Havilland claims she has the best of two worlds—career and marriage—attributes her happiness to her French husband.

Olivia de Havilland

"Every woman needs a Frenchman in her life"

by LLOYD SHEARER

HOLLYWOOD.

EIGHT YEARS AGO, after three unhappy American love affairs, "but always with talented, imaginative, creative men," and one disastrous American marriage — to novelist Marcus Goodrich — screen star Olivia de Havilland married a French magazine editor, Pierre Galante.

Today at 46, Miss de Havilland, looking 15 years younger, is the complete, happy, fulfilled woman. In her own words: "I have it made. I have the best of two worlds, the career and the domestic."

Olivia lives in Paris on the Right Bank in a charming white town house, 4 stories tall and 20 feet wide. She has two handsome children, a boy 13, Benjamin Goodrich, by her first marriage, who is being raised in the Episcopalian faith, a daughter of 5, Gisèle, who is being raised a Roman Catholic, plus a nurse, a cook and, of course, an upstairs maid.

In addition, Olivia stars only in those motion pictures she likes, generally one a year. She has just finished a cinematic tour de force here for Paramount called Lady in a Cage and is currently reading nine other film scripts.

Most important to the actress, however, is her French husband, a quiet, sophisticated, diplomatic intellectual of 50 from Nice who helps edit Paris-Match, a magazine roughly equivalent to our Life.

Olivia plays emotional scene in latest film, Lady in a Cage, acts only in the pictures that she likes, usually one a year.

Pierre has done such a superb job on Olivia that she now emphatically declares, "Every woman needs a Frenchman in her life."

"The typical Frenchman," she explains, "is interested in women and is not embarrassed to show it. He starts on the assumption that if you're a woman, you're sexy, and that's it. He has studied his subject for years so that when the moment comes to specialize in it, he is prepared. And if I have learned any lesson from life it's that preparation helps most to solve problems.

"Before I married Pierre, I was under the impression—most American women are—that Frenchmen make terrible husbands because supposedly they always wind up with mistresses. After 10 years of living in Paris, I have learned that the French husband is remarkably faithful. One afternoon at tea I asked André Maurois, the writer, why this is. He explained to me that mistresses used to be the style in the romantic period when Frenchmen had inherited fortunes and leisure in which to enjoy them! But nowadays Frenchmen have neither the time, money or energy for a mistress so they marry young, father children and concentrate on their wives.

The Wisdom of Resilience

"And I mean really concentrate. They teach you things. For example, I've learned from Pierre not to like waste or cultivate it or squander money. I've learned to preserve. I've also been taught the wisdom of resilience. Here in America the thing to do is to take a position, take a stand and come what may, hold it. But the French take a position merely in order to change it. They add variety to a woman's life. And frankly, do you know the unpardonable, the unforgiveable sin any husband can perpetrate on his wife?

"The number-one sin is to bore her, to turn one's marriage into a dull, tiresome relationship. That's why the Frenchman places such a high premium on intelligence. What counts most to him is the combination of intelligence and emotion. He believes both go hand in hand. Here in America if a woman is intellectual, men feel she is not emotional or passionate. The result is that so many intelligent American girls are told to hide their intelligence or they will scare a potential husband away.

"In France a woman's intelligence is no handicap, because the Frenchman is convinced that the intelligent woman has enough sense to express her emotions and passions. They are a very civilized people, the French, correct, gracious, and yet extremely imaginative, lively, creative, brilliant, daring and individualistic—and I guess also, anarchistic.

"To me, however," the actress continues, "the vital factor is that the Frenchman considers woman important. She is not a sometime thing as she is in many Anglo-Saxon countries. At a formal dinner in Paris, men and women do not separate as they do in, say, London or in some American homes.

"I never will forget a dinner party given in Paris by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. It was simply adorable. Although they live in Paris and have for many years, the Windsors follow the English custom after dinner. The men go into one room, and the women retreat into another. Well, when this particular dinner was finished, the Duchess rose and started into the salon and, of course, all of us women followed behind. Then suddenly one man, a dinner guest smoking a cigar, wandered in among all of us girls. He did it by instinct, by nature, by background. Of course he was a Frenchman.

"That's the way they are—so wonderful. Eternally they believe in cherchez la femme." ■

The higher you go, the hotter it gets in this modern sauna. The wooden pail is filled with cool water for sloshing over the body if the going gets too hot.

THE HEAT IS ON

by ROSALIND MASSOW and WILL YOLEN

Have you tried the sauna? This hothouse fad is catching on fast in the United States

THE SAUNA, Finland's answer to America's hot tub bath, is making sweating a social event in the United States.

Chic hostesses who used to toss guests into their swimming pools on gala Saturday nights now program the sauna bath, in between cocktails and the soup, as part of the evening's festivities.

Others just extend invitations for "sauna at 6" instead of the cocktail hour.

The sauna is becoming a way of life, too, in the daily activities of big business. Chairmen of the board of the nation's leading companies invite other corporate types to sweat it out together in a custom-built hot box for two—right in a corner of the plush executive suite.

President Kennedy is getting a sauna. Premier Khrushchev has one, so have Peter Lawford, Dave Brubeck and Bernard Baruch. Curtis Swift of the Chicago meat-packing family has four, one in each of his diversely located homes.

What has the sauna got that captivates hostesses and politicians alike? Hot air, that's all!

Adherents of the 180-to-200 degree dry bath, however, bestow upon it the order of the therapeutic bath. Devotees claim that the dry hot heat (it's got less than 10 per cent humidity) calms the nerves, clears the pores, eliminates body odors, tones up circulation and melts pounds away. In addition, it leaves you as tractable as a rag doll.

For all the heat the dry bath has generated in the last few years in this country, in physical appearance the sauna is as homely as Abe Lincoln's log cabin. It is a wooden shack, a closet, or an 8' x 10' room made of red cedar. The only extras needed, besides cool-to-the-touch wooden walls, are a wooden bench or chair to sit on, a stove—either electrically heated or wood-burning—and stones to keep atop the stove to retain the high heat.

A cool head in the hot box is maintained by sloshing water over yourself from a wooden pail.

In Finland, where bathtubs are not as plentiful as they are in this country, the sauna is the answer to the Saturday night bath.

In big cities, the sauna is an adjunct to public bathhouses. In country areas Finns gather around a wood stove in a specially built wooden shack and oven-bake themselves in temperatures up to 250 degrees. Because wood stoves don't generate as much heat as electric ones, the Finns flog each other with birch twigs. It increases the circulation, they say.

A Romp in the Snow

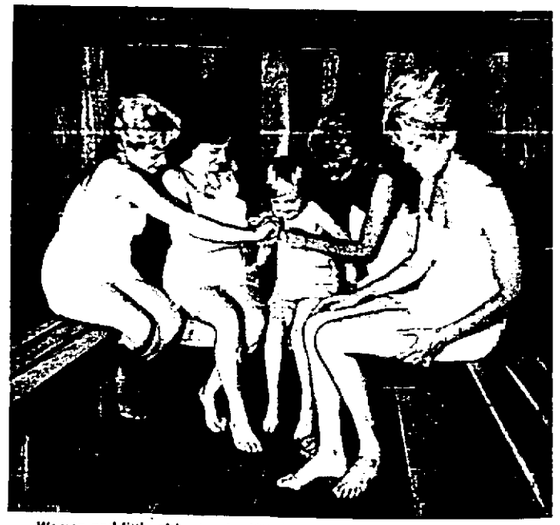
When their bodies are burning up with 104-degree fever, their skins red hot from the flogging and the dry heat, they dash out into the cold for a roll in the snow or a dive into an ice-cold lake or pool. This closes the pores, cools them off and also offers a kind of joyous shock treatment that supposedly keeps Finns physically fit.

Cecil Ellis, who bills himself as "Mr. Sauna" because he claims he pioneered Finnish baths among non-Finns in America, points out that the bath is a new way of life.

"Sauna is a wonderful place where tensions ease, aches and pains are soothed—and it's a way of keeping your body healthy and your mind supple and relaxed," Ellis says.

Ellis is such a firm believer in the salutary effects of the sauna that he's made it his livelihood. He builds saunas all over the northeastern area of the U. S. In Middlefield, Conn., where he lives, he has a Saunamobile trailer, an itinerant bath which he invented. Before prospective buyers purchase sauna equipment, Ellis invites them to try the bath in his mobile bathhouse.

In the last year more than $1,500,000 was spent in the U. S. on the purchase of saunas and equipment, according to officials of Cascade Sauna Corp., one of the nation's biggest sauna producers. There are now thousands of private saunas in this country and with more manufacturers entering the field, the number is expected to climb considerably this year. A sauna can cost from a few hundred dollars to over $4,000, but the average one costs about $2,500.



Women and little girl enjoy dry 180 heat in a typical American sauna. Hot house treatment, originated in Finland, is said to calm nerves, clear complexions.

Apartment house builders, seeking quick rentals, have built sauna facilities into multiple dwellings as a lure for prospective tenants. Motels, hotels and ski lodges have installed the dry heat chambers as a new selling gimmick, and private home builders claim more sales on homes with saunas than with fall-out shelters.

The sauna has even been used by wig-makers to dry wigs, and a horse trainer in Southern California puts his horses into a large sauna bath. "It gives them added circulation, and I don't have to rub them down so frequently," he says.

Faithful to Steambaths

If there's a big trend toward the hot air bath, steam bathers don't want to hear about it. The 4,000 year-old Korean, Roman and Turkish baths, which feature moist hot air, won't be "vaporized" by the sauna addicts. Seymour Altman, New York plumber, has been busy installing Thermasol steambaths in the stall shower rooms of several thousand apartments in the last two years.

While he can also make dry heat baths in apartment bathrooms, he prefers installing steambaths.

"Steam makes you feel condensation all over your body, it's better for you and what's more, our Thermasol units can be installed for less than $400," he points out.

Altman claims Don Topping, Robert Q. Lewis, Ben Javits, Buddy Hackett and Milton Berle as satisfied steamers. In Hartford, Conn., tenants of a 132-apartment house all have their own Thermasol units installed by Altman in their bathrooms.

To steam dry or to steam wet may be the question of the moment, but it has not created any standstill in the industry. Commercial "saunatoriums" are springing up all over the country. Ladies on the lookout for a new kind of beauty treatment consider the sweating-out process a neat way to lose fatty tissues, and there's the added promise of clearer complexions. The sauna has become a regular beauty ritual in posh salons in Paris, New York and other large cities.

Erika's, a sauna salon in Kew Gardens, N.Y., charges about $4.50 for a one-hour stint in and out of the hot room. Actual bake-off time is 15 minutes, but the rest of the treatment period is devoted to a tone-up cold shower, a coffee break and a nap.

The steamroom, man's favorite refuge from ladies, is changing its character from wet-hot to dry-hot. Luxor Baths, a famous health club in New York, reports that since it installed a sauna bath, men have by-passed the steam room for the dry room. Health and university clubs, community centers and even church buildings report a brisk business in the hot air treatment.

Whether America leans toward wet heat or dry, one thing is sure: We're bound to become a nation with clean pores. ■

Special equipment installed in the shower of your apartment or house can convert it into an individual steamroom.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Joe E. Lewis, possibly the greatest of all night club comedians, was born Joseph Klewan on New York's Lower East Side at the turn of the century. At age 25, he was the most popular entertainer in Chicago until he got innocently involved in the gangland wars and had his throat cut. He came back in the 1940s and ever since has maintained his peak as one of the funniest entertainers alive. The story of his colorful life, The Joker Is Wild, was made into a film several years ago. Here is a sampling of his humor:

my favorite jokes

by JOE E. LEWIS

I'm really thrilled because President Kennedy wants to cut our taxes. This is a very clever idea. It will stimulate the economy by giving people more money to spend. They'll spend like crazy, which will cause inflation. To stop inflation the government will raise our taxes all over again . . . This is the greatest money-making scheme I ever heard of.

Of course, I'm in the 91 per cent bracket. They take 91 cents out of every dollar I earn. Since the dollar is worth only 45 cents, I have to earn twice as much money to take a loss. Gee! I miss the old days when I could lose money on the money I was making.

I always say: "Show me a man who is carrying a torch . . . and I will show you a firebug."

You heard about the wife who said to her husband: "For heaven's sake, Henry, this isn't our baby." And Henry said, "Keep your mouth closed. This is a much better carriage."

Last year when I was in Dallas a group of men down there sold me several oil wells. They produce 500 barrels a week—no oil, just barrels.

Hotel employees are really tip conscious these days. I was in Miami Beach not too long ago. I won't mention the hotel, but I called down to the bellboy for a deck of cards. He came up 52 times.

I was cut out to be a genius, but somebody forgot to put the pieces together.

When I broke into show business, it was a different world than it is today. No fancy orchestras, no props, no spotlights, no microphones. But despite all these terrible primitive conditions, the young entertainers would go out there, out on the stage night after night, and they'd perform, and they'd give their all, and by gosh, were they horrible!

I have a very clever income tax man who handles my financial affairs. He works out of a very fancy office in Kansas . . . Leavenworth. A brilliant fellow . . . but very sticky fingers.

My tax man tells me how to take legal deductions. Now, instead of losing all my money in one year he has a system where I can spread my losses over five years. What he did for me is very simple. He formed a corporation with me and Charlie McCarthy. It's what these smart fellas call a dummy corporation. Then I declare myself bankrupt and people can't collect anything.

Anecdote of the week

A WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT entered the Senate press gallery last week. Spotting a colleague, he moved next to him and said, "How long has Senator ——— been talking?"

"About 40 minutes," his friend answered.

"And what's the good Senator talking about?"

"Frankly, he doesn't say."

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK APRIL 21-27, 1963

Lahr's in the pink in a Bali Bustle straw with white silk roses and green satin ribbon.

Turban bedecked with multicolored silk roses makes Lahr resemble a vase full of flowers.

Bert Lahr does a take-off on Easter hats

NEW YORK.

WHAT'S EASTER SUNDAY without a brand-new hat?

Even though flowered chapeaux are old hat this year, the special pink silk rose confection atop comedian Bert Lahr's head (see cover) suits his purpose fine. All Lahr wants to do is poke a little good-natured fun at the ladies in their new Easter headgear.

"Unfortunately some ladies will look like a New England boiled dinner today," says Lahr.

"Don't think I'm against women wearing hats—I just think they should wear things that are flattering and in good taste," says the funnyman who recently titillated Broadway audiences as a turbaned lady editor in The Beauty Part.

In his long and varied career as a comedian Lahr has often donned female wigs and hats—he even played Queen Victoria once. Lahr's specialty is straight farce and zany comedy. He is famous for such film hits as The Wizard of Oz and the Broadway success Waiting for Godot.

Easter finery has a history which dates back to the Middle Ages. Then it was considered bad luck not to buy something new for Easter. During Roman Emperor Constantine's reign in the 4th century A.D., the custom was to wear bright new festive garments for Easter. Much later, in 18th-century England, a new bonnet worn for the first time on Easter Sunday was believed to assure the wearer happiness and love during the year.

No Flowers for Mr. John

The flowered portrait cloche Lahr is wearing on PARADE's cover was especially designed for him by Mr. John, famed milliner, who doesn't feature a single flowered hat in his whole 1963 Easter collection. A sense of humor is one thing, according to Mr. John but the romance of the flower hat has been overdone.

"A poetic hat may be made of flowers as long as it's not a musical comedy. Today Easter hats have come down to earth to follow the simple lines of fashion," he says.

Flowered hats are not as popular today as in previous years. It's a question of economics, according to Bill Reimer, executive director of the Millinery Institute of America.

"Flower hats bought for Easter have no long-range value," Reimer says. "Straws and tailored hats can be worn all spring and summer." ■

All set for compliments, Lahr is irresistibly funny in a belle cloche covered with posies.

Colorful field flowers in abundance are what gets Lahr to wax lyrical in portrait cloche.

I suppose there are women who don't use Tampax, although personally, I can't fathom it. As they say in the textbooks, autre generation, autre views. PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

TOMORROW'S COLLEGE. Have you ever wondered what the typical American college will be like 20 years from today? At the recent National Conference on Higher Education in Chicago, the following educated predictions were made: (1) fraternities and sororities will be eliminated. They are already on the way out in several universities; (2) football and other major varsity sports will disappear from the athletics program; (3) freshmen and sophomores will attend junior colleges, then move up to universities in their junior, senior and graduate years; (4) the true campus center will become the library; (5) the new technology of teaching will include machines and all communications media, housed in buildings especially designed for that purpose; (6) regional branches of the Library of Congress will be established throughout the country, generally at university sites.

DEFENSE AND HAWAII. The number-one business in Hawaii is defense, not tourism. Defense is the largest employer of Hawaiian manpower and the largest source of state income. There are currently 60,000 members of the Armed Forces stationed in the islands, more than 60,000 of their dependents, plus 24,000 civilian employees. Military expenditures this year will approximate $400,000,000. As for the tourists, 375,000 (more than half the population of the state) are expected this year. But a fundamental change is occurring in the tourist pattern. More and more tourists are skipping Honolulu and Waikiki and heading for the neighbor islands.

EYEING THE WOMEN. In the Italian general election scheduled for April 28-29, approximately 52% of the electorate of 34,433,000 will be female. This may explain the last-minute bill of the Fanfani government, which calls for the granting of pensions to Italy's housewives.

A NATION OF CITIES. In 1790, when the first U.S. census was taken, 95% of the American population was rural. In 1960, the U.S. population of 179,300,000 was 70% urban. Moreover, as the exodus of Southern Negroes to the big cities in search of better jobs and educational advantages continues, the rural population declines and the urban population increases. By 1970, less than 25% of the people will be living in rural areas.

MECHANICAL HEART. Ten years ago the temporary by-passing of the heart and lungs for cardiac surgery was considered impossible. Today the heart-lung machine is used regularly during open heart surgery. "It seems therefore entirely feasible," claimed Minnesota's Dr. C. Walton Lillehei at a recent convention of the American College of Cardiology, "that a mechanical pump will one day permanently replace the incompetent heart." Models of the mechanical heart have already been used in dogs deprived of their real hearts, and it is just a question of time before such a pump can be successfully used in humans for prolonged periods. When that time comes, perhaps within a decade or two, a man with a bad heart will have it replaced just as he now does a bad tooth.
